Spam Finn Brunton,2015-01-30 What spam is how it works and how it has shaped online communities and the Internet itself The vast majority of all email sent every day is spam a variety of idiosyncratically spelled requests to provide account information invitations to spend money on dubious products and pleas to send cash overseas Most of it is caught by filters before ever reaching an in box Where does it come from As Finn Brunton explains in Spam it is produced and shaped by many different populations around the world programmers con artists bots and their botmasters pharmaceutical merchants marketers identity thieves crooked bankers and their victims cops lawyers network security professionals vigilantes and hackers Every time we go online we participate in the system of spam with choices refusals and purchases the consequences of which we may not understand This is a book about what spam is how it works and what it means Brunton provides a cultural history that stretches from pranks on early computer networks to the construction of a global criminal infrastructure The history of spam Brunton shows us is a shadow history of the Internet itself with spam emerging as the mirror image of the online communities it targets Brunton traces spam through three epochs the 1970s to 1995 and the early noncommercial computer networks that became the Internet 1995 to 2003 with the dot com boom the rise of spam s entrepreneurs and the first efforts at regulating spam and 2003 to the present with the war of algorithms spam versus anti spam Spam shows us how technologies from email to search engines are transformed by unintended consequences and adaptations and how online communities develop and invent governance for themselves

Russell Neuman,2023-09-26 A surprising vision of how human intelligence will coevolve with digital technology and revolutionize how we think and behave It is natural for us to fear artificial intelligence But does Siri really want to kill us Perhaps we are falling into the trap of projecting human traits onto the machines we might build In Evolutionary Intelligence Neuman offers a surprisingly positive vision in which computational intelligence compensates for the well recognized limits of human judgment improves decision making and actually increases our agency In artful accessible and adventurous prose Neuman takes the reader on an exciting fast paced ride all the while making a convincing case about a revolution in computationally augmented human intelligence Neuman argues that just as the wheel made us mobile and machines made us stronger the migration of artificial intelligence from room sized computers to laptops to our watches smart glasses and even smart contact lenses will transform day to day human decision making If intelligence is the capacity to match means with ends then augmented intelligence can offer the ability to adapt to changing environments as we face the ultimate challenge of long term survival Tapping into a global interest in technology s potential impacts on society economics and culture Evolutionary Intelligence demonstrates that our future depends on our ability to computationally compensate for the limitations of a human cognitive system that has only recently graduated from hunting and gathering
