Hanson, 2000-11-09 Stephen Hanson traces the influence of the Marxist conception of time in Soviet politics from Lenin to Gorbachev He argues that the history of Marxism and Leninism reveals an unsuccessful revolutionary effort to reorder the human relationship with time and that this reorganization had a direct impact on the design of the central political socioeconomic and cultural institutions of the Soviet Union from 1917 to 1991 According to Hanson westerners tend to envision time as both rational and inexorable In a system in which time is money the clock dominates workers Marx however believed that communist workers would be freed of the artificial distinction between leisure time and work time As a result they would be able to surpass capitalist production levels and ultimately control time itself Hanson reveals the distinctive imprint of this philosophy on the formation and development of Soviet institutions arguing that the breakdown of Gorbachev's perestroika and the resulting collapse of the Soviet Union demonstrate the failure of the idea
