Omnibus* George Cruikshank, 2022-05-28 In George Cruikshank's Omnibus readers are presented with an eclectic collection that showcases the breadth of George Cruikshank's creative prowess beyond his famed caricature and illustration work The compilation includes a variety of narratives each characterized by Cruikshank's distinctive wit and satirical edge echoing the literary style of the early Victorian era Cruikshank's ability to weave together humor with social commentary manifests in pieces such as My Portrait and Bernard Cavanagh the Irish Chameleon as well as in the humorously poignant Love has Legs This literary context provides a platform both for showcasing his literary skills and for engaging with the socio political themes of his time which were often subjects of his visual artistry The sheer diversity of content from personal anecdote to wider social parody marks this work as a multifaceted reflection on human nature and society's eccentricities George Cruikshank 1792-1878 was a prolific English artist caricaturist and illustrator renowned primarily for his incisive and humorous visual commentary on the political and social issues of his day His decision to compile George Cruikshank's Omnibus was influenced both by his successful career in visual arts and his engagement with literary circles which included friendships with figures such as Charles Dickens This collection can be seen as an extension of Cruikshank's satirical lens deploying the written word as a parallel avenue for critique and entertainment The narrative complexity and the textured literary expressions herein reflect a keen observational insight developed over years of illustrating the complexities of 19th century British life Scholars students and aficionados of Victorian literature and illustration will find George Cruikshank's Omnibus a valuable addition to their collection It offers a rare glimpse into the versatility of one of the era's most influential artists presenting an absorbing exploration of themes that resonate with the human experience With its blend of humor satire and clever narratives this collection is recommended for those who appreciate literary craftsmanship and the enduring capacity of art to reflect and challenge the cultural and political landscape Best Short Stories Omnibus - Volume 1 H.

The Space of Time David van Dusen, 2014-05-09 From Robert Grosseteste to Jean François Lyotard Augustine's suggestion that time is a dilation of the soul distentio animi has been taken up as a seminal and controversial time concept yet in The Space of Time David van Dusen argues that this dilation has been fundamentally misinterpreted Time in Confessions XI is a dilation of the senses in beasts as in humans And Augustine's time concept in Confessions XI is not Platonic but in schematic terms Epicurean Identifying new influences on the Confessions from Aristoxenus to Lucretius while keeping Augustine's phenomenological interpreters in view The Space of Time is a path breaking work on Confessions X to XII and a ranging contribution to the history of the concept of time

Dancing around the Well Eric M. MacPhail, 2014-08-28 This study examines the transmission and transformation of commonplace wisdom in Renaissance humanism by tracing a series of filiations between classical sayings anecdotes and examples and Renaissance poems essays and fictions The circulation of commonplaces can be understood either as a process of reanimation and revitalization where frozen sayings thaw out and come to life or conversely as a process of immobilization and incrustation that petrifies tradition The paradigmatic figure for this process is the proverbial dance around the well which expresses both the danger and the compulsion of borrowed speech

Birthing Romans Anna Bonnell Freidin, 2024-05-21 Here I lie a matron I was wife to Fortunatus my father was Veturius Unlucky woman born twenty seven years ago and married for sixteen one bed one marriage I died after six births just one child remains This epitaph of a Roman woman named Veturia who died in the 3rd century BCE starkly captures the relentless cycle of birthing rearing and burying children that defined the lives of ancient Mediterranean women In this book Anna Bonnell Freidin asks how would Veturia and her family have understood such losses child after child What kinds of strategies might she have employed to protect herself and her infants to equip them for better futures How would she her family and any caretakers have worked to mitigate the dangers of pregnancy and birth Put more generally how did Romans approach the risks of childbearing Freidin demonstrates how the perceptions of these fears and risks not only affected the ways individuals cared for their bodies but also influenced Roman culture on a much greater scale Freidin explores this against the backdrop of the Julian laws which were introduced in 18BC by Rome's first emperor Augustus and were meant to guard against the perceived risk that women and elites generally might avoid childbearing They formed part of an ideology of family values central to imperial messaging for the next three hundred years From elite medical treatments to birth charms to metaphorical language used by ancient authors to describe birth Freidin marshals a wide range of evidence and theoretical frameworks to explore both the construction and distribution of risk in a deeply patriarchal imperialist culture one in which an ideology of fertility and control confronted the unpredictability of the environment and which in turn shaped Roman views of risk as they expanded their empire Mistakes misfortunes and interventions in the reproductive process were seen to have far reaching consequences reverberating for generations altering the course of people's lives their family history and even the fate of an empire
