Igniting the Flame Jim Reislter, 2012-06-05 The story of the fourteen men largely forgotten and never the subject of a full length book who created the American Olympic movement by winning eleven gold medals at the first modern Olympics in 1896 in Athens timed for publication leading up to the 2012 U S Olympic Trials and the 2012 Olympics in London

Preparations for the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts, 2012-07-19 The chaos which has emerged over the G4S Olympics security contract was predictable and undermines confidence in those responsible for managing the Games There is now a last minute scramble to make sure there will be enough security personnel on the ground In evidence given before Christmas all those concerned gave assurances that the contract could be met despite more than doubling the number of guards No credible explanation has been given for an astonishing twelve fold hike in management costs from 10 million to 125 million and G4S still has not been able to deliver Now troops are having to be drafted in The Home Office needs to get a grip on LOCOG and G4S urgently It is still not known just how many security guards will actually be delivered or whether G4S will face any penalty The Committee will carry out a post mortem in September There is also dissatisfaction with how the DCMS has engaged with the Committee Legitimate monitoring of implementation has been an unnecessarily frustrating process characterized by a resistance to giving clear and consistent information and a readiness to depart from proper ways of conducting public business A big concern is that the Department has no intention of producing a single auditable account for the Games drawing together both the costs within the Public Sector Funding Package of 9.3 billion and those outside Such an analysis must be produced
