Communication Research Measures II ,2009 Expanding and building on the measures included in the original 1994 volume Communication Research Measures II A Sourcebook provides new measures in mass interpersonal instructional and group organizational communication areas and highlights work in newer subdisciplines in communication including intercultural family and health It also includes measures from outside the communication discipline that have been employed in communication research The measures profiled here are the best of the best from the early 1990s through today They are models for future scale development as well The Dark Side of Family Communication Loreen N. Olson,Elizabeth A. Baiocchi-Wagner,Jessica M. Wilson-Kratzer,Sarah E. Symonds,2014-01-22 This text provides for the first time in book form an exploration of the communicative aspects of the darker side of family life ranging from for example severe acts of violence to more subtle forms of conflict In addition to offering a working definition of the concept of the dark side in the family context the authors propose the Darkness Model of Family Communication that integrates relevant literature in new and significant ways Researchers teachers and advanced students alike will benefit from the holistic and theoretical approach to the topic advanced through this volume Readers are also encouraged to process the material by reviewing discussion questions and the case study of the Moore family at the end of each chapter Chapter topics include an overview of the dark side of family communication individual influences on the darkness of family communication the dark side of dyadic family life familial interaction structure and the dark side dark family communication in a context of darkness socio cultural influences on family life concluding reflections on the study of dark family communication The Dark Side of Family Communication offers an integrative understanding of the dark side of family communication and a theoretical mechanism for understanding related scholarship It will be essential reading for all students and scholars of family communication

Mediating Cultures

Alberto González,Tina M. Harris,2013 This book explores the communication challenges faced by parents as they raise children who are bi cultural multi cultural or are adopted from a heritage other than the parents Each contributor views the family as a site of intercultural dialogue and mediation and uses compelling studies throughout to examine the parents who creatively balance cultural influences within their families Using television depictions of parents on Modern Family and All American Muslim to the everyday activities of mixed ethnicity and international families Mediating Cultures reports the communication strategies employed by the parents as they strive to create affirming relationships between children and their heritages This collection brings together two largely separate literatures of family communication and intercultural communication studies with accessible yet context driven studies to explain how families integrate multiple cultural heritages and perspectives

Sourcebook of Family Theory and Research Vern L. Bengtson,2005 Now available in paperback for classroom use This comprehensive text provides a rich source of perspectives on theorising about the family for scholars researchers and students Another of the book s strengths is the emphasis on multimethod approaches in family research The book covers an impressive range of topics and issues marital happiness adjustment of children in divorce marriages gay marriage sibling ties ethnic families of colour stepfamilies aggression culture work and family religion and social policy to name a few In summary this superb volume is highly recommended and amply reflects the many contemporary perspectives on the family Philip Siebler Monash University VictoriaSponsored by the National Council on Family Relations the Sourcebook of Family Theory and Research is the reference work on theory and methods for family scholars and students around the world This volume provides a diverse eclectic and paradoxically mature approach to theorizing and demonstrates how the development of theory is crucial to the future of family research The Sourcebook reflects an interactive approach that focuses on the process of theory building and designing research thereby engaging readers in doing theory rather than simply reading about it An accompanying website offers additional participation and interaction in the process of doing theory and making science Editors Vern L Bengtson Alan C Acock Katherine R Allen Peggye Dilworth Anderson and David M Klein have brought together a prominent group of diverse contributors ranging in race and ethnicity age and seniority and gender and sexual orientation The Sourcebook begins with a section that sets the context for future family research The subsequent sections explore changing family patterns changing family interactions within and across generations and families and larger social forces A concluding section discusses issues of teaching family theories and research Key Features Focuses on the process rather than the outcomes of family theory and research methods Emphasizes the value of multi methods approaches in family research by integrating theory development with the development of research methods Differs from many other publications on family research by describing the development of new ideas rather than just summarizing existing findings The interactive Web site and the special feature boxes within the chapters engage readers with theory and methodology Boxed features include Case Studies Spotlights on Theory Spotlights on Methods and a Discussion and Extension sections Represents a Who's Who of family researchers with contributions from many of the best researchers in the family realm The Sourcebook will be an excellent addition to any academic library It is an authoritative reference for scholars and researchers in Human Development and Family Studies Sociology Social Work and Psychology In addition the Sourcebook can also be used in graduate courses on family theory and methodology Explaining Communication Bryan B. Whaley, Wendy Samter, 2007 Offering a direct sightline into communication theory Explaining Communication provides in depth discussions of communication theories by some of the foremost scholars working in communication today With contributions from the original theorists and scholars known for their work in specific theoretical perspectives this distinctive text breaks new ground in giving these scholars the opportunity to address students firsthand speaking directly to the coming generations of communication scholars Covering a wide range of interpersonal communication theories the scope of this exceptional volume includes the nature of theory and fundamental concepts in interpersonal communication theories accounting for individual differences in message production explanations of human communication from dyadic relational and or cultural levels and a history of communication theory Chapter authors offer their own views of the core ideas and findings of specific theoretical perspectives discussing the phenomena those perspectives are best positioned to explain how the theories fit into the field and where future research efforts are best placed While by no means comprehensive Explaining Communication includes those theories that rank among those most often used in today's work that have generated a substantial body of knowledge over time and that have not been articulated in detail in other publications With detailed explorations and first hand discussions of major communication theories this volume is essential for students in communication studies interpersonal communication and advanced theory courses as well as for scholars needing a thorough reference to some of the most salient theories in communication today Managing Conflict in a Negotiated World Peter M. Kellett, Diana G. Dalton, 2001-03-30 Peter Kellett and Diana Dalton set out in this text to address the question How do people manage conflict effectively This is a simple question with an elusive and complex answer To determine how to manage conflict one must first understand the meaning of conflict for those engaged in it The authors do this by presenting a step by step guide to describing interpreting understanding and managing conflict Using real life narratives they explain how and why conflict occurs and strategies that one can deploy to manage the conflict These interpretive and dialogic skills are illustrated clearly through the pairing of personal narratives with relevant discussion questions and challenging exercises The first part of the book aims to equip readers with the ability to collect analyze and learn from conflicts from the perspective of developing more dialogic relationships The second part enables the reader to apply this interpretive process to several communication contexts With their thorough coverage of conflict management issues and their engaging writing style Peter Kellett and Diana Dalton compel readers to examine their own conflicts for opportunities to learn grow communicate and change Handbook of Dynamics in Parent-Child Relations Leon Kuczynski,2003 This handbook provides an interdisciplinary perspective on theory research and methodology on dynamic processes in parent child relations It focuses on cognitive behavioural and relational processes that govern immediate parent child interactions and long term relationships The Fragile Community Mara B. Adelman,Larry R. Frey,2020-07-24 This book examines the concept of community focusing on how communication practices help manage the tensions of creating and sustaining everyday communal life amidst the crisis of human loss While acknowledging how the contradictory and inconsistent nature of human relationships inevitably affects community this intimate and compelling text shows how community is created and sustained in concrete communication practices The authors explore these ideas at Bonaventure House an award winning residential facility for people with AIDS where the web of social relationships and the demands of a life threatening illness intersect in complex ways Facing a life threatening illness can defy meaningful social connections but it can also inspire such ties sometimes in ways that elude us in the course of daily life By understanding how collective communication practices help residents forge a sense of community out of the fragility and chaos of living together with AIDS we are able to better understand how communication is inexorably intertwined with the formation of community in other environments Based on seven years of ethnographic research including participant observation in depth interviews and questionnaires this book weaves together narratives and visual images with conceptual analysis to uncover the ongoing oppositional forces of community life and to show how both mundane and profound communication processes ameliorate these tensions and thereby sustain this fragile community Because the average length of stay for a resident is seven months in which time he or she moves from being a newcomer to a community member to someone the community remembers the text reflects this short but crystallized life starting with the day a new resident opens the door to the day he or she passes away The writing is rich intimate engaging personal compelling and vivid The stories told discuss such deeply personal topics as the dilemmas of romantic relationships in a context fraught with many perils issues of power authority and control that enable and constrain social life and communicative practices that help residents cope with bereavement over the loss of others as well as their own impending deaths The text concludes by examining the lessons learned from Bonaventure House about creating and sustaining a health community and serves as an inspiration for strengthening interpersonal relationships and communities in other environments Interpersonal Communication Teri Kwal Gamble,Michael W.
