monumental work which maps the field covering thousands of titles and Web sites in 19 subject areas published between 1985 and 1999. Intended as a reference and collection development tool, this bibliography provides a guide for women's studies information for each title along with a detailed, often evaluative review. The annotations summarize each work's content, its importance or contribution to women's studies, and its relationship to other titles on the subject. Most reviews cite and describe similar and contrasting titles, substantially extending the coverage. Core titles and titles that are out of print are noted, and reviews indicate which titles are appropriate as texts or supplemental texts. Taking up where the previous volume by Loeb Searing and Stineman left off, this is the definitive guide to the literature of women's studies. It is a must purchase for academic libraries that support women's studies programs and a welcome addition to any academic or public library that endeavors to represent the field.

Impostress R.J. Clarke, 2019-05-01. Her story is adapted to move the compassion of those she visits. She has bad nerves and seems in great disorder of mind, which she pretends to be owing to the ill usage of her father. She attempts to borrow money of sic waiters, servants, and chaise boys, and offers to leave something in pawn with them to the value. Her name is supposed to be Sarah Wilson. London Evening Post 30 October 1766. Beginning in her late teens, Sarah Wilson travelled alone all over England, living on her wits, inventing new identities, and embroidering stories to fool her victims into providing money and fine clothes. When her crimes eventually caught up with her, she was transported to America, where she reinvented herself in the guise of the Queen's sister and began a new set of adventures at the onset of the American War of Independence. Using original research, newspaper reports, and court records, this is the story of the greatest Impostress of the present Age, a real-life Moll Flanders who created a remarkable series of lives for herself on both sides of the Atlantic.
