The Archaeology of the Frontier in the Medieval Near East Scott Redford, Gil Stein, Naomi Frances Miller, 1998

Excavations that began in 1981 in Gritille Turkey were in search of Bronze and Iron Age material but instead archaeologists discovered important evidence for the medieval boundary between Islam and Christianity The Archaeology of Imperial Landscapes Bleda S. Düring, Tessa D. Stek, 2018-03-29 The Archaeology of Imperial Landscapes examines the transformation of rural landscapes and societies that formed the backbone of ancient empires in the Near East and Mediterranean Through a comparative approach to archaeological data it analyses the patterns of transformation in widely differing imperial contexts in the ancient world Bringing together a range of studies by an international team of scholars the volume shows that empires were dynamic diverse and experimental polities and that their success or failure was determined by a combination of forceful interventions as well as the new possibilities for those dominated by empires to collaborate and profit from doing so By highlighting the processes that occur in rural and peripheral landscapes the volume demonstrates that the archaeology of these non urban and literally eccentric spheres can provide an important contribution to our understanding of ancient empires The bottom up approach to the study of ancient empires is crucial to understanding how these remarkable socio political organisms could exist and persist

The Islamic-Byzantine Frontier A. Asa Eger, 2014-11-18

The retreat of the Byzantine army from Syria in around 650 CE in advance of the approaching Arab armies is one that has resounded emphatically in the works of both Islamic and Christian writers and created an enduring motif that of the Islamic Byzantine frontier For centuries Byzantine and Islamic scholars have evocatively sketched a contested border the annual raids between the two the line of fortified fortresses defending Islamic lands the no man's land in between and the birth of jihad In their early representations of a Muslim Christian encounter accounts of the Islamic Byzantine frontier are charged with significance for a future clash of civilizations that often envisions a polarised world A Asa Eger examines the two aspects of this frontier its physical and ideological ones By highlighting the archaeological study of the real and material frontier as well as acknowledging its ideological military and religious implications he offers a more complex vision of this dividing line than has been traditionally disseminated With analysis grounded in archaeological evidence as well the relevant historical texts Eger brings together a nuanced exploration of this vital element of medieval history In this way Eger's volume contributes to a more complex vision of the frontier than traditional historical views by bringing to the fore the layers of a real ecological frontier of settlement and interaction For Eger exposing the settlements and communities of the frontier constitutes a crucial gesture for understanding the interaction of two civilizations in a contested yet connected world This work is thus vital for students of not only the medieval period and Byzantine and Islamic studies but also for readers attempting to understand the ways in which frontiers and borders shape the construction of identity while functioning outside the traditionally understood state

Medieval Fortifications in Cilicia Dweezil Vandekerckhove, 2019-11-26 In Medieval Fortifications in Cilicia Dweezil

Vandekerckhove offers an account of the origins development and spatial distribution of fortified sites in the Armenian Kingdom 1198 1375 Despite the abundance of archaeological remains the Armenian heritage had previously not been closely studied However through the examination of known and newly identified castles this work has now increased the number of sites and features associated with the Armenian Kingdom By the construction of numerous powerful castles the Armenians succeeded in establishing an independent kingdom which lasted until the Mamluk conquest in 1375 Dweezil Vandekerckhove convincingly proves that the medieval castles in Cilicia are of outstanding architectural interest with a significant place in the history of military architecture The ^AOxford Handbook of Islamic Archaeology Bethany Walker,Timothy Insoll,Corisande Fenwick,2020-10-06 Islamic archaeology is young discipline emerging only over the course of the 1980s and 1990s The Oxford Handbook of Islamic Archaeology is the first work of its kind to cover the archaeology of the Islamic world on a global scale from North Africa to China and Europe to sub Saharan Africa Foodways and Daily Life in Medieval Anatolia Nicolas Trépanier,2014-11-30 Byzantine rule over Anatolia ended in the eleventh century leaving the population and its Turkish rulers to build social and economic institutions throughout the region The emerging Anatolian society comprised a highly heterogeneous population of Christians and Muslims whose literati produced legal documents in Arabic literary texts in Persian and some of the earliest written works in the Turkish language Yet the cultural landscape that emerged as a result has received very little attention until now Investigating daily life in Anatolia during the fourteenth century Foodways and Daily Life in Medieval Anatolia draws on a creative array of sources including hagiographies archaeological evidence Sufi poetry and endowment deeds to present an accessible portrait of a severely under documented period Grounded in the many ways food enters the human experience Nicolas Trépanier's comprehensive study delves into the Anatolian preparation of meals and the social interactions that mealtime entails from a villager's family supper to an elaborately arranged banquet as well as the production activities of peasants and gardeners the marketplace exchanges of food between commoners merchants and political rulers and the religious landscape that unfolded around food related beliefs and practices Brimming with enlightening details on such diverse topics as agriculture nomadism pastoralism medicine hospitality and festival rituals Foodways and Daily Life in Medieval Anatolia presents a new understanding of communities that lived at a key juncture of world history The Principality of Antioch and Its Frontiers in the Twelfth Century Andrew D. Buck,2017 An investigation into how Antioch maintained itself as an independent principality during a period of considerable challenges culture and power and an examination of the region's multiple geographies. In order to expand historiographical perspectives, it draws on a wide variety of sources: architectural, artistic, documentary, and literary, including texts composed in several languages: Arabic, Armenian, Byzantine Greek, Persian, and Turkish. Original in its coverage of this period from the perspective of multiple polities, religions, and languages, this volume is also the first to truly embrace the cultural complexity that was inherent in the reality of daily life in medieval Anatolia and surrounding regions.

Medieval Islamic Civilization Josef W. Meri, 2005-10-31. Medieval Islamic Civilization examines the socio-cultural history of the regions where Islam took hold between the seventh and sixteenth century. This important two-volume work contains over 700 alphabetically arranged entries contributed and signed by international scholars and experts in fields such as Arabic languages, Arabic literature, architecture, art history, history of science, Islamic arts, Islamic studies, Middle Eastern studies, Near Eastern studies, politics, religion, Semitic studies, theology, and more. This reference provides an exhaustive and vivid portrait of Islamic civilization, including the many scientific, artistic, and religious developments, as well as all aspects of daily life and culture. Early Seljuq History A.C.S. Peacock, 2013-02-01. This book investigates the early history of the Seljuq Turks, founders of one of the most important empires of the mediaeval Islamic world, from their origins in the Eurasian steppe to their conquest of Iran, Iraq, and Anatolia. The first work available in a western language on this important episode in Turkish and Islamic history, this book offers a new understanding of the emergence of this major nomadic empire. Focusing on perhaps the most important and least understood phase, the transformation of the Seljuqs from tribesmen in Central Asia to rulers of a great Muslim Empire, the author examines previously neglected sources to demonstrate the central role of tribalism in the evolution of their state. The book also seeks to understand the impact of the invasions on the settled peoples of the Middle East and the beginnings of Turkish settlement in the region, which was to transform it demographically forever. Arguing that the nomadic steppe origins of the Seljuqs were of much greater importance in determining the early development of the empire than is usually believed, this book sheds new light on the arrival of the Turks in the Islamic world. A significant contribution to our understanding of the history of the Middle East, this book will be of interest to scholars of Byzantium as well as Islamic history, as well as Islamic studies and anthropology.

Historical Dictionary of Byzantium John H. Rosser, 2012. The Byzantine Empire dates back to Constantine the Great, the first Christian ruler of the Roman Empire, who in 330 AD moved the imperial capital from Rome to a port city in modern-day Turkey, which he then renamed Constantinople in his honor. From its founding, the Byzantine Empire was a major anchor of east-west trade and culture; art, architecture, and the economy all prospered in the newly Christian empire. As Byzantium moved into the middle and late period, Greek became the official language of both church and state, and the Empire's cultural and religious influence extended well beyond its boundaries. In the mid-15th century, the Ottoman Turks put an end to 1,100 years of Byzantine history by capturing Constantinople, but the Empire's legacy in art culture and religion endured long after its fall In this revised and updated second edition of the Historical Dictionary of Byzantium author John H Rosser introduces both the general reader and the researcher to the history of the Byzantine Empire This comprehensive dictionary includes detailed alphabetical entries on key figures ideas places and themes related to Byzantine art history and religion and the second edition contains numerous additional entries on broad topics such as transportation and gender which were less prominent in the previous edition An expanded introduction introduces the reader to Byzantium and a guide to further sources and suggested readings can be found in the extensive bibliography that follows the entries A basic chronology and various maps and illustrations are also included in the dictionary This book is an excellent access point for students researchers and anyone wanting to know more about Byzantium

Medieval Rural Settlements in the Syrian Coastal Region (12th and 13th Centuries) Balázs Major, 2016-03-31 This book is the result of more than a dozen years of research in the field of the hitherto unstudied medieval settlement pattern of the Syrian coastal region in the 12th and 13th centuries

Carchemish in Context Edgar Peltenburg, T. J. Wilkinson, Eleanor Barbanes Wilkinson, 2016-05-31 The city of Carchemish in the valley of the Euphrates river can be regarded as one of the iconic sites in the Middle East a mound complex known both for its own intrinsic qualities as the seat of later Hittite power and Neo Hittite kings but also because its history of excavations included well known historical figures such as Leonard Woolley and T E Lawrence However because of its location within the military zone of the Turkish Syrian border the site itself has been inaccessible to archaeologists for more than 90 years Carchemish in Context summarises the results of regional investigations conducted within the Land of Carchemish Project in Syria as well as other archaeological surveys in the region in order to provide a regional historical and archaeological context for the development of the city A synthesis of the history of Carchemish is presented and a regional overview of the Land of Carchemish as it is defined by archaeological features and key historical references through to the early Iron Age Insightful snapshots of the dynamics of an ancient state are revealed which can now be seen to have fluctuated dramatically in size throughout 700 800 years in part depending upon the power of the king of Carchemish or the aggressions of external powers The results from the Project provide an overview of the main trends of settlement in the region over 8000 years using a combination of survey databases to both north and south of the Syrian Turkish border and with a focus on the earlier phases of settlement from the Neolithic until the end of the Bronze Age when Carchemish became an outpost of the Hittite empire The Iron Age is a period blessed by numerous historical records some of which can be traced in the modern landscape Further chapters explore site specific aspects of the regional archaeology including a series of important sites on the Sajur river some of which were positioned along the main campaign routes of the Assyrian kings The close relationship between the nearby Early Bronze Age site of Tell Jerablus Tahtani and Carchemish are examined and the results from the 40 ha Carchemish Outer Town survey described providing important new data sources regarding the layout defenses and dates of occupation of this significant part of the city The Classical Roman

Byzantine and Early Islamic occupations are also discussed in relation to what is known of occupation in the surrounding region      Medieval Islamic Civilization: A-K, index Josef W. Meri, 2006 Publisher description      Tell el-Borg II James K. Hoffmeier, 2019-04-19 This is the second and final volume of scientific and interdisciplinary reports on the excavations and research conducted at Tell el Borg north Sinai between 1998 and 2008 written by the scholars and specialists who worked on the site under the direction of Professor James K Hoffmeier This volume focuses on the cemetery areas which yield more than a dozen tombs typically made of mud brick some of which were constructed for a single occupant and some of which were larger tombs that accommodated multiple family members Included is a treatment of an area of public space featuring a temple and a well among other things and a study of the geological results of the nearby ancient Ballah Lakes that offers new data on the history of the Nile distributary that flowed by Tell el Borg The balance of the work deals with specialty reports including the faunal and botanical remains the clay coffins and elite stones A concluding chapter offers a synthesis of the decade of work and ties together the finds published in both volumes In addition to the editor the contributors to this volume include Stephen Moshier Bahaa Gayed Gregory D Mumford Scott D Haddow Mark Janzen Thomas W Davis Rexine Hummel Hesham M Hussein Carole McCartney Michelle A Loyet Louise Bertini and Salima Ikram      Journal of Field Archaeology Association for Field Archaeology, 1997
