The People Named The Chippewa Narrative Histories:

The People Named the Chippewa Gerald Robert Vizenor, 1984 The Sacred Hoop Paula Gunn Allen, 2015-03-03

Almost thirty years after its initial publication Paula Gunn Allen's celebrated study of women's roles in Native American culture history and traditions continues to influence writers and scholars in Native American studies women's studies queer studies religion and spirituality and beyond This groundbreaking collection of seventeen essays investigates and celebrates Native American traditions with special focus on the position of the American Indian woman within those customs Divided into three sections the book discusses literature and authors history and historians sovereignty and revolution and social welfare and public policy especially as those subjects interact with the topic of Native American women Poet academic biographer critic activist and novelist Paula Gunn Allen was a leader and trailblazer in the field of women's and Native American spirituality Her work is both universal and deeply personal examining heritage anger racism homophobia

Eurocentrism and the enduring spirit of the American Indian Muting White Noise James H. Cox, 2012-11-19 Native American fiction writers have confronted Euro American narratives about Indians and the colonial world those narratives help create These Native authors offer stories in which Indians remake this colonial world by resisting conquest and assimilation sustaining their cultures and communities and surviving In Muting White Noise James H Cox considers how Native authors have liberated our imaginations from colonial narratives Cox takes his title from Sherman Alexie for whom the white noise of a television set represents the white mass produced culture that mutes American Indian voices Cox foregrounds the work of Native intellectuals in his readings of the American Indian novel tradition He thereby develops a critical perspective from which to re see the role played by the Euro American novel tradition in justifying and enabling colonialism By examining novels by Native authors especially Thomas King Gerald Vizenor and Alexie Cox shows how these writers challenge and revise colonizers tales about Indians He then offers red readings of some revered Euro American novels including Herman Melville's Moby Dick and shows that until quite recently even those non Native storytellers who sympathized with Indians could imagine only their vanishing by story's end Muting White Noise breaks new ground in literary criticism It stands with Native authors in their struggle to reclaim their own narrative space and tell stories that empower and nurture rather than undermine and erase American Indians and their communities In the Game Amy

Bass, 2005-08-20 Talking about race and sports almost always leads to trouble Rush Limbaugh's stint as an NFL commentator came to an abrupt end when he made off handed comments about black quarterback Donovan McNabb Cincinnati Reds owner Marge Schott and CBS commentator Jimmy The Greek Snyder also landed in hot water for public remarks that most people construed as racist Ask a simple question along these lines Why do African Americans dominate the NBA and watch the sparks fly It is precisely this flashpoint that Amy Bass seeks to explore Sports wield a tremendous amount of cultural power in the United States and around the world and often influence our ideas about race In the Game is a collection of essays by top thinkers on race that survey this treacherous terrain They engage topics like boxer Joe Louis s iconic status during the Jim Crow era how blacks shaped the NFL in the 1970s American Indian sports team mascots and soccer in Argentina The WPA Guide to the Minnesota Arrowhead Country, 2008 The WPA Guide to the Minnesota Arrowhead Country first published in 1941 offers a lively and detailed introduction to the northeastern part of the state long famed for the breathtaking beauty of its landscape the colorful variety of its ethnic groups and the worldwide impact of its industries now with a new introduction by Cathy Wurzer Cathy Wurzer is the host of Morning Edition on Minnesota Public Radio and cohost of Almanac on Twin Cities Public Television She has been honored with four Emmys for her work on Almanac

American Indian Resource Manual for Public Libraries Frances De Usabel, 1992 Art for an Undivided Earth Jessica L. Horton, 2017-05-18 In Art for an Undivided Earth Jessica L Horton reveals how the spatial philosophies underlying the American Indian Movement AIM were refigured by a generation of artists searching for new places to stand Upending the assumption that Jimmie Durham James Luna Kay WalkingStick Robert Houle and others were primarily concerned with identity politics she joins them in remapping the coordinates of a widely shared yet deeply contested modernity that is defined in great part by the colonization of the Americas She follows their installations performances and paintings across the ocean and back in time as they retrace the paths of Native diplomats scholars performers and objects in Europe after 1492 Along the way Horton intervenes in a range of theories about global modernisms Native American sovereignty racial difference archival logic artistic itinerancy and new materialisms Writing in creative dialogue with contemporary artists she builds a picture of a spatially temporally and materially interconnected world an undivided earth War in Heaven/Heaven on Earth Stephen D. O'Leary, Geln S. McGhee, 2014-12-18 The apocalypse is a motif that lies behind many religious beliefs and practices War in Heaven Heaven on Earth theorizes the apocalyptic as it has arisen in a variety of religious traditions from Native American religion to Islam in Northern Nigeria and new terrorist movements Millennial theory and history are explored from the perspective of social psychology sociology and post modern philosophy The volume is unique in applying an analysis of millennial themes to a comparative study of religion The Routledge Introduction to Native American Literature Drew Lopenzina, 2020-07-22 This Introduction makes available for both student instructor and aficionado a refined set of tools for decolonizing our approaches prior to entering the unfamiliar landscape of Native American literatures This book will introduce indigenous perspectives and traditions as articulated by indigenous authors whose voices have been a vital if often overlooked component of the American dialogue for more than 400 years Paramount to this consideration of Native centered reading is the understanding that literature was not something bestowed upon Native peoples by the settler culture either through benevolent interventions or violent programs of forced assimilation Native literature precedes colonization and Native stories and traditions have their roots in both the precolonized and the decolonizing worlds As this far reaching survey of Native literary contributions will demonstrate almost without fail when indigenous writers elected to enter into the world of western letters they did so with the intention of maintaining indigenous culture and community Writing was and always remains a strategy for survival American Indian Literature, Environmental Justice, and Ecocriticism Joni Adamson, 2001 Although much contemporary American Indian literature examines the relationship between humans and the land most Native authors do not set their work in the pristine wilderness celebrated by mainstream nature writers Instead they focus on settings such as reservations open pit mines and contested borderlands Drawing on her own teaching experience among Native Americans and on lessons learned from such recent scenes of confrontation as Chiapas and Black Mesa Joni Adamson explores why what counts as nature is often very different for multicultural writers and activist groups than it is for mainstream environmentalists This powerful book is one of the first to examine the intersections between literature and the environment from the perspective of the oppressions of race class gender and nature and the first to review American Indian literature from the standpoint of environmental justice and ecocriticism By examining such texts as Sherman Alexie's short stories and Leslie Marmon Silko's novel Almanac of the Dead Adamson contends that these works in addition to being literary are examples of ecological criticism that expand Euro American concepts of nature and place Adamson shows that when we begin exploring the differences that shape diverse cultural and literary representations of nature we discover the challenge they present to mainstream American culture environmentalism and literature By comparing the work of Native authors such as Simon Ortiz with that of environmental writers such as Edward Abbey she reveals opportunities for more multicultural conceptions of nature and the environment More than a work of literary criticism this is a book about the search to find ways to understand our cultural and historical differences and similarities in order to arrive at a better agreement of what the human role in nature is and should be It exposes the blind spots in early ecocriticism and shows the possibilities for building common ground a middle place where writers scholars teachers and environmentalists might come together to work for social and environmental change How Far is America from Here? International American Studies Association. World Congress, 2005 Main headings American studies from an international American studies perspective International transnational hemispheric America American social ethical and religious mentalities Comparative perspectives literary counterpoints American identities Space and place in American studies

Transatlantic Voices Elvira Pulitano, 2007-01-01 A collection of critical essays by European scholars on contemporary Native North American literatures Devoted to the primary genres of Native literature fiction nonfiction drama poetry these essays chart the course of theories of Native literature and delineate the crosscurrents in the history of Native literature studies Failed Frontiersmen James J. Donahue, 2015-02-04 In Failed Frontiersmen James Donahue writes that one of the founding and most persistent mythologies of the United States is that of the American frontier Looking at a selection of twentieth century American male fiction writers E L Doctorow John Barth Thomas Pynchon Ishmael Reed Gerald Vizenor and Cormac McCarthy he shows how they reevaluated the historical romance of frontier mythology in response to the social and political movements of the 1960s particularly regarding the Vietnam War civil rights and the treatment of Native Americans Although these writers focus on different moments in American history and different geographic locations the author reveals their commonly held belief that the frontier mythology failed to deliver on its promises of cultural stability and political advancement especially in the face of the multicultural crucible of the 1960s Cultural Frames Framing Culture American Literatures Initiative Red Ink Drew Lopenzina,2012-03-01 The Native peoples of colonial New England were quick to grasp the practical functions of Western literacy Their written literary output was composed to suit their own needs and expressed views often in resistance to the agendas of the European colonists they were confronted with Red Ink is an engaging retelling of American colonial history one that draws on documents that have received scant critical and scholarly attention to offer an important new interpretation grounded in indigenous contexts and perspectives Author Drew Lopenzina reexamines a literature that has been compulsively corrected and overinscribed with the norms and expectations of the dominant culture while simultaneously invoking the often violent tensions of contact and the processes of unwitnessing by which Native histories and accomplishments were effectively erased from the colonial record In a compelling narrative arc Lopenzina enables the reader to travel through a history that however familiar has never been fully appreciated or understood from a Native centered perspective Centering Anishinaabeg Studies Jill Doerfler, Niigaanwewidam James Sinclair, Heidi Kiiwetinewinewin Stark,2013-02-01 For the Anishinaabeg people who span a vast geographic region from the Great Lakes to the Plains and beyond stories are vessels of knowledge They are bagijigagan offerings of the possibilities within Anishinaabeg life Existing along a broad narrative spectrum from aadizookaanag traditional or sacred narratives to dibaajimowinan histories and news as well as everything in between storytelling is one of the central practices and methods of individual and community existence Stories create and understand survive and endure revitalize and persist They honor the past recognize the present and provide visions of the future In remembering re making and re writing stories Anishinaabeg storytellers have forged a well traveled path of agency resistance and resurgence Respecting this tradition this groundbreaking anthology features twenty four contributors who utilize creative and critical approaches to propose that this people s stories carry dynamic answers to questions posed within Anishinaabeg communities nations and the world at large Examining a range of stories and storytellers across time and space each contributor explores how narratives form a cultural political and historical foundation for Anishinaabeg Studies Written by Anishinaabeg and non Anishinaabeg scholars storytellers and activists these essays draw upon the power of cultural expression to illustrate active and ongoing senses of Anishinaabeg life They are new and dynamic bagijigagan revealing a viable and sustainable center for Anishinaabeg Studies what it has been what it is what it can be Border Modernism Christopher Schedler,2013-12-16 Reorienting the field of American literary modernism Christopher Schedler defines an intercultural form of representation termed border modernism that challenges the aesthetic hegemony of metropolitan high modernism In this study Schedler compares the works of European and Anglo American modernists with the works of Mexican Native American and Chicano writers who engaged with modernist theories and practices In the process he uncovers a unique intercultural aesthetic produced in the borderlands of the United States and Mexico aimed at modernizing the native literary traditions of the Americas Addressing issues of migration cultural identity and ethnography Border Modernism is a major contribution to current debates over the origins and development of American literary modernism and a new model for transnational and intercultural reconstructions of American literary history Race, Gender, and Culture in International Relations Randolph B. Persaud, Alina

Sajed, 2018-03-05 International relations theory has broadened out considerably since the end of the Cold War Topics and issues once deemed irrelevant to the discipline have been systematically drawn into the debate and great strides have been made in the areas of culture identity race and gender in the discipline However despite these major developments over the last two decades currently there are no comprehensive textbooks that deal with race gender and culture in IR from a postcolonial perspective This textbook fills this important gap Persaud and Sajed have drawn together an outstanding lineup of scholars with each chapter illustrating the ways these specific lenses race gender culture condition or alter our assumptions about world politics This book covers a wide range of topics including war global inequality postcolonialism nation nationalism indigeneity sexuality celebrity humanitarianism and religion follows a clear structure with each chapter situating the topic within IR reviewing the main approaches and debates surrounding the topic and illustrating the subject matter through case studies features pedagogical tools and resources in every chapter boxes to highlight major points illustrative narratives and a list of suggested readings Drawing together prominent scholars in critical International Relations this work shows why and how race gender and culture matter and will be essential reading for all students of global politics and International Relations theory Mediation in Contemporary Native American Fiction James Ruppert, 1995

Mediation is the term James Ruppert uses to describe his important new theory of reading Native American fiction Focusing on novels of six major contemporary American writers N Scott Momaday James Welch Leslie Silko Gerald Vizenor D Arcy McNickle and Louise Erdrich Ruppert analyzes the ways in which these writers draw upon their bicultural heritage guiding Native and non Native readers alike to a different and expanded understanding of each other's worlds While Native American writers may criticize white society revealing its past and present injustices their emphasis Ruppert argues is on healing survival and continuance Their fiction aims to produce cross cultural understanding rather than divisiveness To that end they articulate the perspectives and values of competing world views In particular they create characters who manifest what Ruppert calls multiple identities determined by both Native and non Native perceptions of the self These writers use a variety of narrative techniques deriving from different cultural traditions They might incorporate Native oral storytelling techniques adapting them to written form or they might reconstruct Native mythologies investing them with new meaning and relevance by applying them to contemporary situations As novel writers they also include features more characteristic of western
