The Peoples Forests American Land And Life Series:

The People's Forests Robert Marshall, 2002-06 Devoted conservationist environmentalist and explorer Robert Marshall 1901 1939 was chief of the Division of Recreation and Lands U S Forest Service when he died at age thirty eight Throughout his short but intense life Marshall helped catalyze the preservation of millions of wilderness acres in all parts of the U S inspired countless wilderness advocates and was a pioneer in the modern environmental movement he and seven fellow conservationists founded the Wilderness Society in 1935 First published in 1933 The People's Forests made a passionate case for the public ownership and management of the nation s forests in the face of generations of devastating practices its republication now is especially timely Marshall describes the major values of forests as sources of raw materials as essential resources for the conservation of soil and water and as a OC precious environment for recreationOCO and for OC the happiness of millions of human beings OCO He considers the pros and cons of private and public ownership deciding that public ownership and large scale public acquisition are vital in order to save the nation s forests and sets out ways to intelligently plan for and manage public ownership The last words of this book capture Marshall's philosophy perfectly OC The time has come when we must discard the unsocial view that our woods are the lumbermen s and substitute the broader ideal that every acre of woodland in the country is rightly a part of the people's forests OCO American Forests and Public Lands Committee Hearings, Rawlins, Wyo United States. American Environmental History Carolyn Merchant,2007-10-31 By studying the many ways diverse peoples have changed shaped and conserved the natural world over time environmental historians provide insight into humanity s unique relationship with nature and more importantly are better able to understand the origins of our current environmental crisis Beginning with the precolonial land use practice of Native Americans and concluding with our twenty first century concerns over our global ecological crisis American Environmental History addresses contentious issues such as the preservation of the wilderness the expulsion of native peoples from national parks and population growth and considers the formative forces of gender race and class Entries address a range of topics from the impact of rice cultivation slavery and the growth of the automobile suburb to the effects of the Russian sea otter trade Columbia River salmon fisheries the environmental justice movement and globalization This illustrated reference is an essential companion for students interested in the ongoing transformation of the American landscape and the conflicts over its resources and conservation It makes rich use of the tools and resources climatic and geological data court records archaeological digs and the writings of naturalists that environmental historians rely on to conduct their research The volume also includes a compendium of significant people concepts events agencies and legislation and an extensive bibliography of critical films books and Web sites and the Making of Middle America Dorothy Anne Dondore,1926 Rooted David R. Pichaske, 2009-05 David Pichaske has been writing and teaching about midwestern literature for three decades In Rooted by paying close attention to text landscape and biography he examines the relationship between place and art His focus is on seven midwestern authors who came of age toward the close of the twentieth century their lives and their work grounded in distinct places Dave Etter in small town upstate Illinois Norbert Blei in Door County Wisconsin William Kloefkorn in southern Kansas and Nebraska Bill Holm in Minneota Minnesota Linda Hasselstrom in Hermosa South Dakota Jim Heynen in Sioux County Iowa and Jim Harrison in upper Michigan The writers intimate knowledge of place is reflected in their use of details of geography language environment and behavior Yet each writer reaches toward other geographies and into other dimensions of art or thought jazz music and formalism in the case of Etter gender issues in the case of Hasselstrom time past and present in the case of Kloefkorn ethnicity and the role of the artist in the case of Blei magical realism in the case of Heynen the landscape of literature in the case of Holm and the curious worlds of academia best selling novels and Hollywood films in the case of Harrison The result Pichaske notes is the growing away from roots the explorations and alter egos of these writers of place and the tension between the here and there that gives each writer s art the complexity it needs to transcend provincial boundaries Quoting generously from the writers Pichaske employs a practical jargon free literary analysis fixed in the text making Rooted interesting readable and especially useful in treating the literary categories of memoir and literary essay that have become important in recent decades Course of Study for the Common Schools of Illinois Illinois Education Association. Mexican Americans and the Environment Devon G. Peña,2022-09-13 Mexican Americans have traditionally had a strong land ethic believing that humans must respect la tierra because it is the source of la vida As modern market forces exploit the earth communities struggle to control their own ecological futures and several studies have recorded that Mexican Americans are more impacted by environmental injustices than are other national origin groups In our countryside agricultural workers are poisoned by pesticides while farmers have lost ancestral lands to expropriation And in our polluted inner cities toxic wastes sicken children in their very playgrounds and homes This book addresses the struggle for environmental justice grassroots democracy and a sustainable society from a variety of Mexican American perspectives It draws on the ideas and experiences of people from all walks of life activists farmworkers union organizers land managers educators and many others who provide a clear overview of the most critical ecological issues facing Mexican origin people today The text is organized to first provide a general introduction to ecology from both scientific and political perspectives It then presents an environmental history for Mexican origin people on both sides of the border showing that the ecologically sustainable Norte o land use practices were eroded by the conquest of El Norte by the United States It finally offers a critique of the principal schools of American environmentalism and introduces the organizations and struggles of Mexican Americans in contemporary ecological politics Devon Pe a contrasts tenets of radical environmentalism with the ecological beliefs and grassroots struggles of Mexican origin people then shows how contemporary environmental justice struggles in Mexican American communities have challenged dominant concepts of environmentalism Mexican Americans and the Environment is a didactically sound text that introduces students to the conceptual vocabularies of ecology culture history and politics as it tells how competing ideas about nature have helped shape land use and environmental policies By demonstrating that any consideration of environmental ethics is incomplete without taking into account the experiences of Mexican Americans it clearly shows students that ecology is more than nature study but embraces social issues of critical Forest Plans of North America Jacek P. Sirv, Pete Bettinger, Krista Merry, Donald L. importance to their own lives Grebner, Kevin Boston, Chris Cieszewski, 2015-03-13 Forest Plans of North America presents case studies of contemporary forest management plans developed for forests owned by federal state county and municipal governments communities families individuals industry investment organizations conservation organizations and others in the United States Canada and Mexico The book provides excellent real life examples of contemporary forest planning processes the various methods used and the diversity of objectives and constraints faced by forest owners Chapters are written by those who have developed the plans with each contribution following a unified format and allowing a common clear presentation of the material along with consistent treatment of various aspects of the plans This work complements other books published by members of the same editorial team Forest Management and Planning Introduction to Forestry and Natural Resource Management which describe the planning process and the various methods one might use to develop a plan but in general do not as this work does illustrate what has specifically been developed by landowners and land managers This is an in depth compilation of case studies on the development of forest management plans by the different landowner groups in North America The book offers students practitioners policy makers and the general public an opportunity to greatly improve their appreciation of forest management and more importantly foster an understanding of why our forests today are what they are and what forces and tools may shape their tomorrow Forest Plans of North America provides a solid supplement to those texts that are used as learning tools for forest management courses In addition the work functions as a reference for the types of processes used and issues addressed in the early 21st century for managing land resources Presents 40 50 case studies of forest plans developed for a wide variety of organizations groups and landowners in North America Illustrates plans that have specifically been developed by landowners and land managers Features engaging clearly written content that is accessible rather than highly technical while demonstrating the issues and methods involved in the development of the plans Each chapter contains color photographs maps and figures People, Land & Water ,2004 Traditional Forest-Related Knowledge John A. Parrotta, Ronald L. Trosper, 2011-10-14 Exploring a topic of vital and ongoing importance Traditional Forest Knowledge examines the history current status and trends in the development and application of traditional forest knowledge by local and indigenous communities worldwide It considers the interplay between traditional beliefs and practices and formal forest science and interrogates the often uneasy relationship between these different knowledge systems The contents also highlight efforts to conserve and promote traditional forest management practices that balance the environmental economic and social objectives of forest management It places these efforts in the context of recent trends towards the devolution of forest management authority in many parts of the world The book includes regional chapters covering North America South America Africa Europe Asia and the Australia Pacific region As well as relating the general factors mentioned above to these specific areas these chapters cover issues of special regional significance such as the importance of traditional knowledge and practices for food security economic development and cultural identity Other chapters examine topics ranging from key policy issues to the significant programs of regional and international organisations and from research ethics and best practices for scientific study of traditional knowledge to the adaptation of traditional forest knowledge to climate change and globalisation
