globalization's effect on terrorism and the notion of the clash of civilizations Examining the emotional structure of traditional Muslim families Falk shows us the Muslim child's ambivalence toward his or her parents ways in which Muslims abuse women and children and the roots of Muslim rage and why all of that plays into the development of future terrorism Other topics addressed in this reader friendly analysis include history's first Islamic terrorists and three important cases two recent deadly terrorists and a primary figure in our current war on terror The central idea throughout the book is that a person's attitude toward terror and terrorism as well as whether he or she becomes a murderous terrorist or even who wages a global war on terror has much to do with that person's own terrifying experiences in infancy and childhood Such terror usually experienced first in the earliest interactions with the mother is symbolically expressed as Falk shows in fairy tales and myths about terrifying witches and female monsters Further terror may be experienced in the relationship with the father and also in various other traumatic ways It is these early terrors when extreme and uncontrollable that most often produce terrorists and wars on terror Falk argues Thus his book focuses on the conscious but also on the irrational and unconscious causes of terrorism

Arabic Dialectology Enam al-Wer, Rudolf Erik de Jong, 2009 Much of the insight in the field of Arabic linguistics has for a long time remained unknown to linguists outside the field Regrettably Arabic data rarely feature in the formulation of theories and analytical tools in modern linguistics This situation is unfavourable to both sides The Arabist once an outrider has almost become a non member of the mainstream linguistics community Consequently linguistics itself has been deprived of a wealth of data from one of the world's major languages However it is reassuring to witness advances being made to integrate into mainstream linguistics the visions and debates of specialists in Arabic Building on this fruitful endeavour this book presents thought provoking new articles especially written for this collection by leading scholars from both sides The authors discuss topics in historical social and spatial dialectology focusing on Arabic data investigated within modern analytical frameworks
