The Architecture Of Victorian London:

The Architecture of Victorian London John Summerson, 1976 Victorian Perceptions of Renaissance Architecture Katherine Wheeler, 2017-07-05 In the mid 1880s The Builder an influential British architectural journal published an article characterizing Renaissance architecture as a corrupt bastardization of the classical architecture of Greece and Rome By the turn of the century however the same journal praised the Renaissance architect Filippo Brunelleschi as the Christopher Columbus of modern architecture Victorian Perceptions of Renaissance Architecture 1850 1914 examines these conflicting characterizations and reveals how the writing of architectural history was intimately tied to the rise of the professional architect and the formalization of architectural education in late nineteenth century Britain Drawing on a broad range of evidence including literary texts professional journals university curricula and census records Victorian Perceptions reframes works by seminal authors such as John Ruskin Walter Pater John Addington Symonds and Geoffrey Scott alongside those by architect authors such as William J Anderson and Reginald Blomfield within contemporary architectural debates Relevant for architectural historians as well as literary scholars and those in Victorian studies Victorian Perceptions reassesses the history of Renaissance architecture within the formation of a modern British architectural profession The Architects and Architecture of London Kenneth Allinson, 2008 The guide explains why London is the way it is It helps you link the historical and contemporary into a single pattern of significant places spaces and buildings It highlights old and new as a lively and vibrant pattern of on going creative activity rooted in established urban patterns Victorian London Liza Picard, 2013-05-23 From rag gatherers to royalty from fish knives to Freemasons everyday life in Victorian London Like its acclaimed companion volumes Elizabeth's London Restoration London and Dr Johnson's London this book is the product of the author's passionate interest in the realities of everyday life so often left out of history books This period of mid Victorian London covers a huge span Victoria's wedding and the place of the royals in popular esteem how the very poor lived the underworld prostitution crime prisons and transportation the public utilities Bazalgette on sewers and road design Chadwick on pollution and sanitation private charities Peabody Burdett Coutts and workhouses new terraced housing and transport trains omnibuses and the Underground furniture and decor families and the position of women the prosperous middle classes and their new shops such as Peter Jones and Harrods entertaining and servants food and drink unlimited liability and bankruptcy the rich the marriage market taxes and anti semitism the Empire recruitment and press gangs The period begins with the closing of the Fleet and Marshalsea prisons and ends with the first steam operated Underground trains and the first Gilbert Sullivan Architecture and Social Reform in Late-Victorian London Deborah E. B. Weiner, 1994 Amidst the sea of squalid brick tenements and working class two up two down houses of late nineteenth century London new building types arose large in scale and bold in their message the triple storied Queen Anne board schools the mock Elizabethan settlement houses an Arts and Crafts free public art gallery replete with mystic symbolism and as first conceived a neo Byzantine pleasure palace for the working classes A History of Western Architecture David Watkin, 2005 The history of Western architecture from the earliest times in Mesopotamia and Egypt to the dramatic impact of CAD on architectural practice at the beginning of the 21st century Victorian Architecture James Stevens Curl, 2007 Although more than a century has passed since the end of the Victorian era the great achievements of the period 1837-1901 are grossly undervalued Phrases such as Victorian monstrosity are bandied about by many who ought to know better Professor Curl's robustly argued and beautifully illustrated book shows that the Victorians produced confident colourful rumbustiously eclectic architecture and that they went further than anyone since Roman times to potty train Urban Man He deals with the palette of styles available to the Victorians unprecedented building types new materials ecclesiastical buildings that arguably were superior to mediaeval exemplars the responses of a vital society to contemporary challenges and puts the built fabric firmly within the context of the intellectual complexities of the age Wearing his learning lightly he presents his case with grace gusto and elegance bringing the Victorian period to new life in a work which will give readers much to ponder savour and enjoy A Short History of British Architecture Simon Jenkins, 2024-11-07 Provocative elegant intriguing Jenkins is a bold imaginative writer brilliant at challenging old assumptions and encouraging you to look at British architecture in a new light Rory Stewart The story of Britain is revealed through its buildings and yet the language of architecture is a mystery to all but a few In this enlightening history spanning castles and cathedrals to factories and railway stations Jenkins translates the hidden narratives infused in the facades we walk past every day Britain's history has been formed by its politics religion and society and these influences can be seen in the architectural styles that have shaped its landscape From pre Roman and the Middle Ages to the Renaissance and the Industrial Revolution Classical and Gothic styles surged and retreated from favour only to then be challenged by a new player Modernism a style that reflected the stunning technological advances of the second half of the twentieth century In this narrative history Simon Jenkins the bestselling champion of our national heritage introduces us to the singular eccentric and sometimes rather ordinary characters who shaped Britain Jenkins teaches readers to see the world anew demystifying the elitist language of architecture so that we can all appreciate the buildings around us Sir James Pennethorne and the Making of Victorian London Geoffrey Tyack, 1992-12-10 For a period of thirty years in the mid nineteenth century James Pennethorne was more intimately involved with the planning and building of London than any other major architect A pupil of John Nash he took over his teacher's practice and became government architect for the first half of Victoria's reign He was responsible for the planning of new streets the laying out of parks and the design of important public buildings such as the Public Record Office the west wing of Somerset House and the Duchy of Cornwall office It is therefore almost impossible for Londoners to avoid coming into contact with some aspect of his work This study throws fresh light on some of the main architectural issues and controversies of the time Even more important it contributes to an understanding of the complicated relationship between government and architects and of the forces which created the

London of the nineteenth century and of today The book therefore makes a contribution to the history of urban planning and to urban and architectural history in general in addition to offering an important new assessment of Pennethorne himself

The Victorians Since 1901 Miles Taylor, Michael Wolff, 2004-09-04 Over a century after the death of Queen Victoria historians are busy re appraising her age and achievements However our understanding of the Victorian era is itself a part of history shaped by changing political cultural and intellectual fashions Bringing together a group of international scholars from the disciplines of history English literature art history and cultural studies this book identifies and assesses the principal influences on twentieth century attitudes towards the Victorians Developments in academia popular culture public history and the internet are covered in this important and stimulating collection and the final chapters anticipate future global trends in interpretations of the Victorian era making an essential volume for students of Victorian Studies London Paul Knox, 2024-04-23 A lively new history of London told through twenty five buildings from iconic Georgian townhouses to the Shard A walk along any London street takes you past a wealth of seemingly ordinary buildings an Edwardian church modernist postwar council housing stuccoed Italianate terraces a Bauhaus inspired library But these buildings are not just functional They are evidence of London s rich and diverse history and have shaped people s experiences identities and relationships In this engaging study Paul L Knox traces the history of London from the Georgian era to the present day through twenty five surviving buildings Knox explores where people lived and worked from grand Regency squares to Victorian workshops and highlights the impact of migration gentrification and inequality We see famous buildings like Harrods and Abbey Road Studios and everyday places like Rochelle Street School and Thamesmead Each historical period has introduced new buildings and old ones have been repurposed As Knox shows it is the living history of these buildings that makes up the vibrant but exceptionally unequal city of today

The Battle of the Styles Bernard Porter, 2011-03-17 The present day Foreign Office in Whitehall is an imposing building whose genesis is bizarre In 1857 a competition was held to pick an architect which provoked a huge row between the rival Classical and Gothic schools which a Goth George Gilbert Scott won but was then forced to re design in Classical The circumstances surrounding this fiasco furnish the starting point for this book which then goes on to analyse the debate that preceded this decision for the light it sheds on the complex nature of British culture and society then Among issues raise were contemporary and conflicting understandings of Britain s or England s national and imperial identities of religion and morality of history modernity and progress and of class and gender The debate offers an unusual insight into the relationship between all these matters and high culture generally This account of it should be of great value to cultural and social historians as well as to any architectural historians interested in the broader historical context surrounding this and other great monuments of the time

The Power of Art Caroline Campbell, 2024-01-02 An epic work of art history that will transform our understanding of the world by unlocking the human stories behind millennia of art Taking readers from ancient Babylon to contemporary Pyongyang the eminent curator

Caroline Campbell explains art's power to illuminate our lives and inspires us to benefit from its transformative and regenerative power. Unlike the majority of contemporary art history, this book is about much more than the cult of artists' personalities. Instead, each chapter is structured around a city at a particularly vibrant moment in its history, describing what propelled its creativity and innovation. The emotions and societies she evokes are highly recognizable, revealing how great art resonates powerfully by transcending the boundaries of time.

London, a Social History Roy Porter, 1998. An extraordinary city, London grew from a backwater in the Classical Age into an important medieval city and significant Renaissance urban center to a modern colossus full of a free people ever evolving. Roy Porter touches the pulse of his hometown and makes it our own, capturing London's fortunes, people, and imperial glory with vigor and wit. 58 photos.

The Oxford Dictionary of Architecture James Stevens Curl, Susan Wilson, 2015. With over 6,000 entries, this is the most authoritative dictionary of architectural history available.

Directory of British Architects, 1834-1914 Antonia Brodie, British Architectural Library, Royal Institute of British Architects, 2001-12-20. A comprehensive biographical directory of some 11,000 British architects who worked between 1834 and 1914.

London Clubland A. Milne-Smith, 2011-11-15. This work is the first to study the gentlemen's clubs that were an important feature of the Late Victorian landscape and the first to discover the secret history of clubmen and their world, placing them at centre stage, detailing how clubland dramatically shaped 19th and early 20th century ideas about gender, power, class, and the city.

Neo-Victorian Cities, 2015-02-04. This volume explores the complex aesthetic, cultural, and memory politics of urban representation and reconfiguration in neo-Victorian discourse and practice. Through adaptations of traditional city tropes such as the palimpsest, the labyrinth, the femininised enigma, and the marketplace of desire, writers, filmmakers, and city planners resurrect, preserve, and rework nineteenth-century metropolises and their material traces while simultaneously Gothicism and fabricating past urban realities to serve present-day wants so as to maximise cities' potential to generate consumption and profits. Within the cultural imaginary of the metropolis, this volume contends the nineteenth century provides a prominent focalising lens that mediates our apprehension of and engagement with postmodern cityscapes. From the site of capitalist romance and traumatic lieux de mémoire to theatre of postcolonial resistance and Gothic sensationalism, the neo-Victorian city proves a veritable Proteus, evoking myriad creative responses but also crystallising persistent ethical dilemmas surrounding alienation, precarity, othering, and social exclusion.

Cracks in the Dome: Fractured Histories of Empire in the Zanzibar Museum, 1897-1964 Dr Sarah Longair, 2015-08-28. As one of the most monumental and recognisable landmarks from Zanzibar's years as a British Protectorate, the distinctive domed building of the Zanzibar Museum, also known as the Beit al Amani or Peace Memorial Museum, is widely known and familiar to Zanzibaris and visitors alike. Yet the complicated and compelling history behind its construction and collection has been overlooked by historians until now. Drawing on a rich and wide range of hitherto unexplored archival, photographic, architectural, and material evidence, this book is the first serious investigation of this remarkable institution Although the museum was not opened until 1925 this book traces the longer history of colonial display which culminated in the establishment of the Zanzibar Museum It reveals the complexity of colonial knowledge production in the changing political context of the twentieth century British Empire and explores the broad spectrum of people from diverse communities who shaped its existence as staff informants collectors and teachers Through vivid narratives involving people objects and exhibits this book exposes the fractures contradictions and tensions in creating and maintaining a colonial museum and casts light on the conflicted character of the colonial mission in eastern Africa

British Women Writers and the Short Story, 1850-1930 K. Krueger, 2014-03-30 This book addresses a critically neglected genre used by women writers from Gaskell to Woolf to complicate Victorian and modernist notions of gender and social space Their innovative short stories ask Britons to reconsider where women could live how they could be identified and whether they could be contained
