Peschard, Bas C. van Fraassen, 2018-10-02 An innovative multifaceted approach to scientific experiments as designed by and shaped through interaction with the modeling process The role of scientific modeling in mediation between theories and phenomena is a critical topic within the philosophy of science touching on issues from climate modeling to synthetic models in biology high energy particle physics and cognitive sciences Offering a radically new conception of the role of data in the scientific modeling process as well as a new awareness of the problematic aspects of data this cutting edge volume offers a multifaceted view on experiments as designed and shaped in interaction with the modeling process Contributors address such issues as the construction of models in conjunction with scientific experimentation the status of measurement and the function of experiment in the identification of relevant parameters how the phenomena under study are reconceived when accounted for by a model and the interplay between experimenting modeling and simulation when results do not mesh Highlighting the mediating role of models and the model dependence as well as theory dependence of data measurement this volume proposes a normative and conceptual innovation in scientific modeling that the phenomena to be investigated and modeled must not be precisely identified at the start but specified

The Asymmetric Nature of Time Vincent Grandjean, 2022-09-21 This open access monograph offers a detailed study and a systematic defense of a key intuition we typically have as human beings with respect to the nature of time the intuition that the future is open whereas the past is fixed For example whereas it seems unsettled whether there will be a fourth world war it is settled that there was a first world war The book contributes in particular three major and original insights First it provides a coherent non metaphorical and metaphysically illuminating elucidation of the intuition Second it determines which model of the temporal structure of the world is most appropriate to accommodate the intuition and settles on a specific version of the Growing Block Theory of time GBT Third it puts forward a naturalistic foundation for GBT by exploiting recent results of our best physics viz General Relativity Quantum Mechanics and Quantum Gravity Three main challenges are addressed the dismissal of temporal asymmetries as non fundamental phenomena only e g thermodynamic or causal phenomena the epistemic objection against GBT and the apparent tension between GBT and relativistic physics It is argued that the asymmetry between the open future and the fixed past must be grounded in the temporal structure of the world and that this is neither precluded by our epistemic device nor by the latest approaches to Quantum Gravity e g the Causal Set Theory Aiming at reconciling time as we find it in ordinary experience and time as physics describes it this innovative book will raise the interest of both academic researchers and graduate students working on the philosophy of time More generally it presents contents of interest for all metaphysicians and non dogmatic philosophers of physics This is an open access book
