The Archaeology Of London Regional Archaeologies:

The Archaeology of London Ralph Merrifield, 1974 Describes archaeological finds in the London area and their importance in reconstructing the history of the area from the first appearance of man to the seventh century A D The London Region Philippa Dolphin, Eric G. Grant, Edward Lewis, 1981 Major findings 1 Contaminants in water from one of every three drinking water wells sampled are a potential human health concern 2 Arsenic and uranium derived from geologic sources are potential drinking water concerns 3 Dissolved solids concentrations in groundwater are increasing in some areas 4 Artificial recharge and groundwater withdrawals are moving contaminants to deeper parts of basin fill aquifers The Archaeology of Greater London Trevor Brigham, 2000 It is nearly 25 years since the last major survey of the archaeology of the London region was written In that quarter century some of the most extraordinary evidence of our past has come to light a 9 000 year old hunting camp in Uxbridge a 2 mile long prehistoric bank and ditch cursus monument at Stanwell the spectacular Roman heart of the City the Saxon trading emporium on the Strand the largest medieval cemetery excavated in Europe at Spitalfields and Shakespeare s Rose Theatre at Bankside This book completed with the substantial support of English Heritage and the City of London Archaeological Trust represents the latest and most comprehensive attempt to place these treasures in their context It also draws together the knowledge of specialists and experts to provide a framework within which future archaeological discoveries and research may be considered The result is an accessible and fascinating insight into the rich diversity of human experience that has combined over the last half million years into the metropolis of Greater London today The Archaeology of Greater London is presented in 10 period based chapters with 13 accompanying full colour maps and an extensive bibliography and gazetteer of sites end finds The London Archaeologist , 1999

Library of Congress Catalogs Library of Congress, 1977 The Archaeology of Islam in Sub-Saharan Africa Timothy Insoll, 2003-07-03 This is the first general study of the impact of Islam in sub Saharan Africa Timothy Insoll charts the historical background as well as the archaeological evidence attesting to the spread of Islam across the Sudan Ethiopia Eastern Africa Southern Africa and Nigeria surveying a time span from the immediate pre Islamic period through to the present He also analyses in detail the syncretism which has occurred between Islam and African traditional religions and looks at the processes jihad trade missionary activity prestige by which Islam spread This book will be of great relevance to scholars and students as well as to all those interested in Africa archaeology religion and Islam The Farming of Prehistoric Britain P. J. Fowler, 1983-07-07 Emphasizing past gains in knowledge from experimental aerial and field archaeology Dr Fowler demonstrates how the application of archaeological approaches to agrarian history has made the subject central to our understanding of the prehistoric period Emphasizing past gains in knowledge from experimental aerial and field archaeology Dr Fowler demonstrates how the application of archaeological approaches to agrarian history has made the subject central to our understanding of the prehistoric period Funerary and Related Cups of the British Bronze

Age Claire Copper,Alex Gibson,Deborah Hallam,2022-06-30 Cups are the least studied of all Bronze Age funerary ceramics and their interpretations are still based on antiquarian speculation This book presents the first study of these often highly decorated items including a fully referenced and illustrated national corpus that will form the basis for future studies

British and Irish Archaeology ,1994 Comparative Archaeologies Ludomir R Lozny,2011-04-06 Archaeology as with all of the social sciences has always been characterized by competing theoretical propositions based on diverse bodies of locally acquired data In order to fulfill local regional expectations different goals have been assigned to the practitioners of Archaeology in different regions These goals might be entrenched in local politics or social expectations behind cultural heritage research This comprehensive book explores regional archaeologies from a sociological perspective to identify and explain regional differences in archaeological practice as well as their existing similarities This work covers not only the currently dominant Anglo American archaeological paradigm but also Latin America Western and Eastern Europe Asia and Africa all of which have developed their own unique archaeological traditions The contributions in this work cover these alternative archaeologies in the context of their own geographical political and socio economic settings as well as the context of the currently accepted mainstream approaches A Crannog of the First Millennium, AD Anne Crone,Ewan Campbell,2005 The early medieval crannog in Loch Glashan was excavated in 1960 by Jack Scott in advance of dam construction The crannog produced a rich organic assemblage of wood and leather objects as well as exotic items such as continental imported pottery and a brooch studded with amber This title examines all the evidence from the crannog

London in the Roman World Dominic Perring,2022-01-27 incAn original authoritative survey of the archaeology and history of Roman London London in the Roman World draws on the results of latest archaeological discoveries to describe London s Roman origins It presents a wealth of new information from one of the world s richest and most intensively studied archaeological sites and a host of original ideas concerning its economic and political history This original study follows a narrative approach setting archaeological data firmly within its historical context London was perhaps converted from a fort built at the time of the Roman conquest where the emperor Claudius arrived to celebrate his victory in AD 43 to become the commanding city from which Rome supported its military occupation of Britain London grew to support Rome s campaigning forces and the book makes a close study of the political and economic consequences of London s role as a supply base Rapid growth generated a new urban landscape and this study provides a comprehensive guide to the industry and architecture of the city The story traced from new archaeological research shows how the city was twice destroyed in war and suffered more lastingly from plagues of the second and third centuries These events had a critical bearing on the reforms of late antiquity from which London emerged as a defended administrative enclave only to be deserted when Rome failed to maintain political control This ground breaking study brings new information and arguments to our study of the way in which Rome ruled and how the empire failed Rock Art and Regional Identity Jamie Hampson,2016-06-16 Why did the ancient artists create paintings and engravings What did the images mean This careful study of rock art motifs in the Trans Pecos area of Texas and a small area in South Africa demonstrates that there are archaeological and anthropological ways of accessing the past in order to investigate and explain the significance of rock art motifs Using two disparate regions shows the possibility of comparative rock art studies and highlights the importance of regional studies and regional variations This is an ideal resource for students and researchers

The Archaeologist's Manual for Conservation Bradley A. Rodgers, 2007-05-08 This is a Foreword by an archaeologist not a conservator but as Brad Rodgers says Conservation has been steadily pulled from archaeology by the forces of specialization p 3 and he wants to remedy that situation through this manual He sees this work as a call to action for the non professional conservator permitting curators conservators and archaeologists to identify artifacts that need professional attention and allow these professionals to stabilize most artifacts in their own laboratories with minimal intervention using simple non toxic procedures p 5 It is the mission of Brad's manual to bring conservation back into archaeology p 6 The degree of success of that goal depends on the degree to which archaeologists pay attention to and put to use what Brad has to say because as he says The conservationist archaeologist is responsible to make preparation for an artifact's care even before it is excavated and after its storage into the foreseeable future a tremendous responsibility p 10 The manual is a combination of highly technical as well as common sense methods of conserving wood iron and other metals ceramics glass and stone organics and composites a far better guide to artifact conservation than was available to me when I first faced that archaeological challenge at colonial Brunswick Town North Carolina in 1958 a challenge still being faced by archaeologists today The stage of conservation in 1958 is in dramatic contrast to the procedures Brad describes in this manual conservation has indeed made great progress For instance a common procedure then was to heat the artifacts red hot in a furnace a method that made me cringe

Neolithic Britain Rodney Castleden, 2014-10-24 The climax of the Stone Age in Britain the Neolithic period 4700-2000 BC was a period of startling achievement The British Isles are rich in Neolithic sites which give us evidence of a complex and surprisingly developed archaic society The author surveys 1100 secular and ceremonial sites in Britain selecting some for detailed explanation from these a sense of the diversity and dynamism of the living Neolithic communities emerges He presents a comprehensive profusely illustrated and up to date view of the Neolithic organised by county Archaeologists and prehistorians will find this book of interest and it should prove indispensable to students of archaeology as a source of information about the British Neolithic

Community Heritage in the Arab Region Arwa Badran, Shatha Abu-Khafajah, Sarah Elliott, 2022-11-07 This book investigates approaches to community heritage within the Arab region and the underlying theories associated with these approaches It aims within the context of the region to define community and heritage as well as examine the emergence and development of this field The volume's contributors deploy a wealth of case studies from the Middle East and North Africa to provide a unique forum for discussion comparability analysis and deeper understandings of current trends in community heritage In particular the volume explores the relationship between communities and their heritage the meanings and values placed upon it the nature and degree of community participation and engagement in its interpretation and management and how its different registers affect and produce sometimes unexpected community heritage formations It also examines the level of responsibility held within the profession towards this essentially democratic process of public participation in their heritage in a region shaped by controversial histories political turmoil and tourism driven economies The volume builds on current research and practice in community heritage globally by debating and re centring a suite of familiar and new issues related to hitherto under researched regional specific methodologies and developing fresh insight into the theoretical underpinning of these practices It will be of value to heritage scholars and practitioners as well as those interested in politics identity education and the dynamics of heritage based sustainable development Reinterpreting chronology and society at the mortuary complex of Jebel Moya (Sudan) Jonathan Brass, 2016-08-15 Jebel Moya south central Sudan is the largest known pastoral cemetery in sub Saharan Africa with more than 3100 excavated human burials This research revises our understanding of Jebel Moya and its context Atlantic Europe in the First Millennium BC Thomas Hugh Moore, Xosê-Lois Armada, 2011 This volume of 33 papers on the Atlantic region of Western Europe in the first millennium BC reflects a diverse range of theoretical approaches techniques and methodologies across current research and is an opportunity to compare approaches to the first millennium BC from different national and theoretical perspectives

Archaeologies of Art Inés Domingo Sanz, Dánae Fiore, Sally K May, 2016-07 This international volume draws together key research that examines visual arts of the past and contemporary indigenous societies Placing each art style in its temporal and geographic context the contributors show how depictions represent social mechanisms of identity construction and how stylistic differences in product and process serve to reinforce cultural identity Examples stretch from the Paleolithic to contemporary world and include rock art body art and portable arts Ethnographic studies of contemporary art production and use such as among contemporary Aboriginal groups are included to help illuminate artistic practices and meanings in the past The volume reflects the diversity of approaches used by archaeologists to incorporate visual arts into their analysis of past cultures and should be of great value to archaeologists anthropologists and art historians Sponsored by the World Archaeological Congress The Archaeologist's Laboratory E.B. Banning, 2006-04-11 This text reviews the theory concepts and basic methods involved in archaeological analysis with the aim of familiarizing both students and professionals with its underlying principles Topics covered include the nature and presentation of data database and research design sampling and quantification analyzing lithics pottery faunal and botanical remains interpreting dates and archaeological illustration A glossary of key terms completes the book
