The Archaeology Of Ulster From Colonization To Plantation:

The Archaeology of Ulster from Colonization to Plantation J. P. Mallory, T. E. McNeill, 1991 The Routledge Handbook of the History of Settler Colonialism Edward Cavanagh, Lorenzo Veracini, 2016-08-12 The Routledge Handbook of the History of Settler Colonialism examines the global history of settler colonialism as a distinct mode of domination from ancient times to the present day It explores the ways in which new polities were established in freshly discovered New Worlds and covers the history of many countries including Australia New Zealand Israel Japan South Africa Liberia Algeria Canada and the USA Chronologically as well as geographically wide reaching this volume focuses on an extensive array of topics and regions ranging from settler colonialism in the Neo Assyrian and Roman empires to relationships between indigenes and newcomers in New Spain and the early Mexican republic to the settler dominated polities of Africa during the twentieth century Its twenty nine inter disciplinary chapters focus on single colonies or on regional developments that straddle the borders of present day states on successful settlements that would go on to become powerful settler nations on failed settler colonies and on the historiographies of these experiences Taking a fundamentally international approach to the topic this book analyses the varied experiences of settler colonialism in countries around the world With a synthesizing yet original introduction this is a landmark contribution to the emerging field of settler colonial studies and will be a valuable resource for anyone interested in the global history of imperialism and colonialism

Historical Archaeology Pedro Paulo A. Funari, Martin Hall, Sian Jones, 2013-03-07 Historical Archaeology demonstrates the potential of adopting a flexible encompassing definition of historical archaeology which involves the study of all societies with documentary evidence It encourages research that goes beyond the boundaries between prehistory and history Ranging in subject matter from Roman Britain and Classical Greece to colonial Africa Brazil and the United States the contributors present a much broader range of perspectives than is currently the trend Colonisation and Conquest in Medieval Ireland Brendan Smith, 1999-04-22 This book examines the development of English colonial society in the eastern coastal area of Ireland now known as county Louth in the period 1170 1330 At its heart is the story of two relationships that between settler and native in Louth and that between the settlers and England An important part of the story is the comparison with parts of Britain which witnessed similar English colonization Fifty years before the arrival of the English Louth was incorporated into the Irish kingdom of Airgialla experiencing rapid change in the political and ecclesiastical spheres under its dynamic ruler Donnchad Ua Cerbaill The impact of this legacy on English settlement is given due prominence The book also explores the reasons why well to do members of local society in the West Midlands of England in the reigns of Henry II and his sons were prepared to become involved in the Irish adventure Castles and colonists Eric Klingelhofer, 2013-07-19 Castles and colonists is the first book to examine life in the leading province of Elizabeth I s nascent empire Klinglehofer shows how an Ireland of colonising English farmers and displaced Irish savages are ruled by an imported Protestant elite from their fortified manors and medieval castles Richly illustrated it displays how a generation of English adventurers including such influential intellectual and political figures as Spenser and Ralegh tried to create a new kind of England one that gave full opportunity to their Renaissance tastes and ambitions Based on decades of research Castles and colonisers details how archaelogy had revealed the traces of a short lived but significant culture which has been until now eclipsed in ideological conflicts between Tudor queens Hapsburg hegemony and native Irish traditions A Source Book for Irish English Raymond Hickey, 2002-09-06 The current book intends to provide a flexible and comprehensive bibliographical tool to those scholars working or interested in Irish English A whole range of references approx 2 500 relating to Irish English in all its aspects are gathered together here and in the majority of cases annotations are supplied. The book has a detailed introduction dealing the history of Irish English the documentation available and contains an overview of the themes in Irish English which have occupied linguists working in the field Various appendixes offer information on the history of Irish English studies and biographical notes on scholars from this area All the bibliographical material is contained on the accompanying CD ROM along with appropriate software Windows PC for processing the databases and texts The databases are fully searchable information can be exported at will and customised extracts can be created by users from within an intuitive software interface This bibliography is part of a larger project called the Irish English Resource Centre Additions and updates to the bibliography can be found on the centre's website Race and Practice in Archaeological Interpretation Charles E. Orser, Jr., 2013-04-19 Scholars who investigate race a label based upon real or perceived physical differences realize that they face a formidable task The concept has been contested and condoned debated and denied throughout modern history Presented with the full understanding of the complexity of the issue Race and Practice in Archaeological Interpretation concentrates on the archaeological analysis of race and how race is determined in the archaeological record Most archaeologists even those dealing with recent history have usually avoided the subject of race yet Charles E Orser Ir contends that its study and its implications are extremely important for the science of archaeology Drawing upon his considerable experience as an archaeologist and using a combination of practice theory as interpreted by Pierre Bourdieu and spatial theory as presented by Henri Lefebvre Orser argues for an explicit archaeology of race and its interpretation The author reviews past archaeological usages of race including a case study from early nineteenth century Ireland and explores the way race was used to form ideas about the Mound Builders the Celts and Atlantis He concludes with a proposal that historical archaeology cast as modern world archaeology should take the lead in the archaeological analysis of race because its purview is the recent past that period during which our conceptions of race developed The 'Mere Irish' and the Colonisation of Ulster, 1570-1641 Gerard Farrell, 2017-10-10 This book examines the native Irish experience of conquest and colonisation in Ulster in the first decades of the seventeenth century Central to this argument is that the Ulster plantation bears more comparisons to European expansion throughout the Atlantic than as some historians have argued the early modern state s consolidation of control over its peripheral territories Farrell also demonstrates that plantation Ulster did not see any significant attempt to transform the Irish culturally or economically in these years notwithstanding the rhetoric of a civilising mission Challenging recent scholarship on the integrative aspects of plantation society he argues that this emphasis obscures the antagonism which characterised relations between native and newcomer until the eve of the 1641 rising This book is of interest not only to students of early modern Ireland but is also a valuable contribution to the burgeoning field of Atlantic history and indeed colonial studies in general A Companion to the Early Middle Ages Pauline Stafford, 2012-12-26 Drawing on 28 original essays A Companion to the Early Middle Ages takes an inclusive approach to the history of Britain and Ireland from c 500 to c 1100 to overcome artificial distinctions of modern national boundaries A collaborative history from leading scholars covering the key debates and issues Surveys the building blocks of political society and considers whether there were fundamental differences across Britain and Ireland Considers potential factors for change including the economy Christianisation and the Vikings A History of Settlement in Ireland Terry Barry, 2012-11-12 A History of Settlement in Ireland provides a stimulating and thought provoking overview of the settlement history of Ireland from prehistory to the present day Particular attention is paid to the issues of settlement change and distribution within the contexts of environment demography culture The collection goes further by setting the agenda for future research in this rapidly expanding area of academic interest This volume will be essential reading for all those with an interest in the archaeology history and social geography of Ireland The Archaeology of Capitalism in Colonial Contexts Sarah K. Croucher, Lindsay Weiss, 2011-08-10 The Archaeology of Capitalism in Colonial Contexts Postcolonial Historical Archaeologies explores the complex interplay of colonial and capital formations throughout the modern world The authors present a critical approach to this topic trying to shift discourses in the theoretical framework of historical archaeology of capitalism and colonialism through the use of postcolonial theory. This work does not suggest a new theoretical framework as such but rather suggests the importance of revising key theoretical terms employed within historical archaeology arguing for new engagements with postcolonial theory of relevance to all historical archaeologists as the field de centers from its traditional locations Examining case studies from North America South America the Caribbean Africa Australia the Middle East and Europe the chapters offer an unusually broad ranging geography of historical archaeology with each focused on the interplay between the particularisms of colonial structures and the development of capitalism and wider theoretical discussions Every author also draws attention to the ramifications of their case studies in the contemporary world With its cohesive theoretical framework this volume is a key resource for those interested in decolonizing historical archaeology in theory and praxis and for those interested in the development of modern global dynamics From Chiefdom to State in Early Ireland D. Blair Gibson, 2012-08-27 This book tracks the development of social complexity in Ireland from the late prehistoric period on into the Middle Ages Using a range of methods and techniques particularly data from settlement patterns Blair Gibson demonstrates how Ireland evolved from constellations of chiefdoms into a political entity bearing the characteristics of a rudimentary state This book argues that early medieval Ireland's highly complex political systems should be viewed as amalgams of chiefdoms with democratic procedures for choosing leaders rather than kingdoms Gibson explores how these chiefdom confederacies eventually transformed into recognizable states over a period of 1 400 years

The Little Book of Donegal Cathal Coyle, Adam Kee, 2016-07-04 The Little Book of Donegal is a compendium of fascinating obscure strange and entertaining facts about County Donegal Here you will find out about Donegal's folklore and customs its proud sporting heritage its castles forts and stone circles its famous and occasionally infamous men and women Through quaint villages and historic towns and along the Wild Atlantic Way this book takes the reader on a journey through County Donegal and its vibrant past A reliable reference book and a quirky guide this can be dipped into time and time again to reveal something new about the people the heritage and the secrets of this ancient county

Megalithism Alberto Pozzi, 2014-09-23 Megalithism or the art of using huge boulders to create sacred pagan monuments and sites still fascinates us today How did Prehistoric man cut transport and place such enormous stones some weighing up to 200 metric tons without bulldozers drills and cranes Yet primitive man without the written word or wheel created structures which still stupefy us in the 21st century both due to their components and the precision used in positioning them This book takes us back in time to the 5th 2nd millennia B C and helps us visualise the Stone Age world and its constructions menhirs dolmens rows and circles of standing stones Undoubtedly they were sacred places used for pagan rituals and funerary purposes but the author also gives us details of their astronomic and physical alignment which clearly demonstrates the knowledge of the heavens these ancestors had and how they applied it without slide rules set squares and theodolites The high priests of ancient times could calculate when the solstices and equinoxes would occur and thus regulate the seasons for sowing and reaping The author's careful and updated identification of all such structures leads us through Ancient European Megalithism complete with the religious and social aspects of it and its pagan legacies He does not neglect forms of sub actual megalithism either the use of massive stones by peoples described as primitive but with a relatively advanced culture who lived in times closer to our own in Africa Asia and South America The myths and legends arising from the megalithic structures are recounted here in detail the author also describes megalithic art in the form of statue stele and menhir statues as well as the often intricate decoration carved on single stones and in construction such as dolmens funerary mounds astronomic observatories and temples He also describes studies and experiments on the methods of transport and construction used by Prehistoric peoples together with conflicting opinions and theories Amply illustrated with photographs and drawings Megalithism guides the reader through every part of the megalithic world with smooth flowing text that will be accessible to specialists and interested general public alike Antiquity Osbert Guy Stanhope Crawford, 1992 Includes section Reviews Headhunting and the Body in Iron Age Europe Ian Armit, 2012-03-19 This book examines the widespread evidence for the removal curation and display of the human head in Iron Age Europe A History of Ireland in 100 Episodes Jonathan Bardon, Fergal Tobin, 2023-10-26 This authoritative and comprehensive history of Ireland covers the entire history of the island from the Ice Age to the peace process in 100 short episodes In this thoughtful analysis of Irish society Bardon integrates the significant cultural and literary history of Ireland with its political and social past Based on the hugely popular BBC radio series A Short History of Ireland each episode stands alone providing a snippet of Irish history in five minutes reading In turn to read each episode in sequence from beginning to end provides a magisterial history of Europe's most An Imperial Possession David Mattingly, 2007-07-26 Part of the Penguin History of Britain series An Imperial Possession is the first major narrative history of Roman Britain for a generation David Mattingly draws on a wealth of new findings and knowledge to cut through the myths and misunderstandings that so commonly surround our beliefs about this period From the rebellious chiefs and druids who led native British resistance to the experiences of the Roman military leaders in this remote dangerous outpost of Europe this book explores the reality of life in occupied Britain within the context of the shifting fortunes of the Roman Empire The Vikings in Ireland Mary A. Valante, 2008 Over the course of 250 years Viking raiders their descendants settled in urbanized Ireland connecting the Irish with long distance trade routes as never before This book presents an accurate picture of the complex relationship between the town dwelling Scandinavians the rural Partitioned Lives: The Irish Borderlands Catherine Nash, Bryonie Reid, 2016-05-13 Partitioned Lives The Irish Irish Borderlands explores everyday life and senses of identity and belonging along a contested border whose official functions and local impacts have shifted across the twentieth century It does so through the accounts of contemporary borderland residents in Ireland and Northern Ireland who shared with us their reflections on and experiences of the border from the 1950s to the present day Since the border is the product of the partition of the island and the creation of Northern Ireland its meaning has been deeply entangled with the radically and often violently opposed perspectives on the legitimacy of Northern Ireland and the political reunification of the island Yet the intensely political symbolism of the border has meant that relatively little attention has been paid to the lived experience of the border its material presence in the landscape and in people s lives and its materialisation through the practices and policies of the states on either side Drawing on recent approaches within historical political and cultural geography and the cross disciplinary field of border studies this book redresses this neglect by exploring the Irish border in terms of its meanings from the political to the personal but also and importantly through the objects from tables of custom regulations and travel permits to road blocks and military watch towers and practices from official efforts to regulate the movement of people and objects across it to the strategies and experiences of those subject to those state policies through which it was effectively constituted The focus is on the Irish border as practised experienced and materially present in the borderlands
