The Arms Race:

Arms Races in International Politics Thomas G. Mahnken, Joseph Maiolo, David Stevenson, 2016 This volume provides the first comprehensive history of the arms racing phenomenon in modern international politics drawing both on theoretical approaches and on the latest historical research Written by an international team of specialists it is divided into four sections before 1914 the inter war years the Cold War and extra European and post Cold War arms races Twelve case studies examine land and naval armaments before the First World War air land and naval competition during the 1920s and 1930s and nuclear as well as conventional weapons since 1945 Armaments policies are placed within the context of technological development international politics and diplomacy and social politics and economics An extended general introduction and conclusion and introductions to each section provide coherence between the specialized chapters and draw out wider implications for policymakers and for political scientists Arms Races in International Politics addresses two key questions what causes arms races and what is the connection between arms races and the outbreak of wars March to Armageddon Ronald E. Powaski, 1987 This book traces the evolution of the nuclear arms race from its origin in Roosevelt's decision to develop an atomic bomb to Reagan's decision to continue its expansion in the 1980s The Arms Race Anita Croy, 2019-07-15 Arms races are often associated with the Cold War but they're still a reality around the world today Issues such as military aggression and nuclear weapons are complex but they're presented to readers in an accessible way A fact filled main text engaging full color photographs and helpful graphic organizers richly present details about the arms race Readers are challenged to think for themselves about international arms races as they explore discussion questions and are asked to compare and contrast the viewpoints of experts Although news stories about weapons and wars might seem frightening to young people this volume stresses the importance of facts over fearmongering The Arms Race and Nuclear War William M. Evan, 1987 Race to Oblivion Herbert Frank York, 1970 Presents an ordinary day in the life of a colorful family living in a doll's house A Global History of the Nuclear Arms Race Richard Dean Burns, Joseph M. Siracusa, 2013-04-23 Written by two preeminent authors in the field this book provides an accessible global narrative of the nuclear arms race since 1945 that focuses on the roles of key scientists military chiefs and political leaders The first book of its kind to provide a global perspective of the arms race this two volume work connects episodes worldwide involving nuclear weapons in a comprehensive narrative fashion Beginning with a discussion of the scientific research of the 1930s and 1940s and the Hiroshima decision the authors focus on five basic themes political dimensions technological developments military and diplomatic strategies and impact The history of the international nuclear arms race is examined within the context of four historical eras America's nuclear monopoly America's nuclear superiority superpower parity and the post Cold War era Information about the historical development of the independent deterrence of Britain France and China as well as the piecemeal deterrence of newcomers Israel India Pakistan and North Korea is also included as is coverage of the efforts aimed at the international control of nuclear weapons and the diplomatic architecture that underpins the global nuclear non proliferation regime The Arms Race and Nuclear War David P. Barash,1987 Understanding Doomsday Thomas Gordon Plate,1971 SCOTT copy 1 from the John Holmes Library collection The Nuclear Seduction William A. Schwartz,Charles Derber,2021-01-08 This title is part of UC Press s Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press s mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1990 The Arms Race and Nuclear Proliferation Martin Gitlin,2017-12-15 Following the bombings of Nagasaki and Hiroshima the twentieth century was haunted by the specter of nuclear annihilation Locked in a hostile embrace the U S and the USSR engaged in a ruinous arms race preparing for the kind of war no one wanted and no one could win Though the Cold War ended the dangers of nuclear proliferation remain with poorly secured nuclear weapons and materials vulnerable to theft sale accident or misuse The many debates over the years surrounding the arms race proliferation deterrence and security are collected here to provide readers with a fine grained sense of the international tensions political urgency diplomatic strategies and global fears that have long underlined the effort to build and maintain nuclear arsenals The Arms Race in an Era of Negotiations David Carlton,Carlo Schaerf,1991-08-05 The countries of NATO and the Warsaw Pact have begun to negotiate for nuclear and conventional arms reductions The world is no longer bipolar as the arsenals of China France and Britain become more significant This book looks at strategic realities and current global and European problems The Dynamics of the Arms Race David Carlton,Carlo Schaerf,2020-12-01 The nuclear arms race had dominated international politics for the two decades prior to publication Originally published in 1975 this symposium examines the dynamics of change within the arms race and the attempts at controlling and limiting it At the time the nuclear arms race was strongly technologically determined as Herbert York demonstrates in discussing the impact of MIRV Such progress as has been made in nuclear disarmament has been far outdistanced by the technological developments so that as Jack Ruina argues SALT is only important when seen as part of a process of negotiating arms limitations The most significant result of this technological advance has been the emergence of a qualitatively new system of international politics which Hans Morgenthau analyses This system is essentially bipolar in nuclear terms and the history of the disarmament negotiations as reviewed by William Epstein is an exercise in freezing this structure The negotiations themselves particularly SALT and the prospects for further progress are discussed extensively by Thomas Schelling Kosta Tsipis George Rathjens and others The book also surveys developments in chemical and biological warfare and includes an important paper on chemical warfare agents by the Soviet chemist O A Ruetov The final section looks at recent developments in the theory of conflict and its applications in the Middle East South Africa and a number of developing countries The Nuclear Years Chalmers McGeagh Roberts,1970 The Arms Race David L. Bender,1982

Innovation and the Arms Race Matthew Evangelista, 2023-08-15 Innovation and the Arms Race investigates the causes and mechanisms of the technological arms race between the United States and the Soviet Union Challenging the commonly held notion that Soviet weapons innovation processes simply mirror those of the United States Matthew Evangelista shows that the United States usually leads in introducing new military technology while the Soviets typically react to American initiatives Evangelista bases his study of pivotal nuclear weapons development decisions on a variety of US and USSR primary sources including the memoirs of weapons designers and scientists declassified intelligence analyses Soviet Academy of Science documents and Nikita Khrushchev's taped reminiscences He finds that in the United States impetus for innovation comes from the bottom at the initiative of corporate or government researchers and military officials whereas the centralized Soviet system produces innovations from the top in response to foreign developments A revelatory analysis of US military policy Soviet American relations and weaponry development Innovation and the Arms Race bears lessons for the study of great power competition and military innovation today

Rise and Fall of Nuclearism Sheldon Ungar, 2010-11-01

Military Technology, Military Strategy and the Arms Race Marek Thee, 2025-03-03 First published in 1986 Military Technology Military Strategy and the Arms Race argues that a principal factor contributing to the arms race is the military research and development R and D sector It traces the arms race since World War II and explores the relationship between the emergence of new weapon technology the development of new weapon systems and their impact on strategic thinking It considers the positions for both the United States and its allies in NATO and for the erstwhile Soviet Union It argues that military R and D which consumes an increasing proportion of total funds spent on R and D has developed a self-sustaining technological momentum which is baked by a powerful military industrial bureaucratic technological complex and is increasingly out of control of political leaders The book argues that negotiations to limit the numbers of weapons fail to address the main problem and that more emphasis should be given to considering ways of limiting and controlling military R and D It concludes by proposing a radical shift in policy to achieve this This historical reference work is important for scholars and researchers of military studies defence studies international relations diplomacy and international politics
