Gorman, Robert A. Uhlig, 2015-05-11

Jefferson County New York has one of the richest concentrations of stone houses in America As many as 500 stone houses churches and commercial buildings were built there before 1860 Some of the buildings are beautiful mansions built by early entrepreneurs others are small vernacular farmhouses Some are clustered together others dot the countryside near stone outcroppings Embedded in the fabric of each building are the stories of its location its maker and its inhabitants over time Lavishly illustrated with almost 300 photographs this volume highlights eighty five stone houses in the region The editors explore both the beauty and permanence of the stonework and the courage and ambition of the early dwellers They detail the ways in which skilled masons utilized local limestone and sandstone crafting double faced stone walls to protect against fire and harsh winters The book includes discussions of the geology of the region the stone buildings that have been lost and the preservation and care of existing structures Stone Houses of Jefferson County provides a fascinating look at the intrinsic beauty of these buildings and the historical links they provide to our early settlement Nordic Literature Steven P. Sondrup, Mark B. Sandberg, Thomas A. Davis,2021-03-04 The relationship between women and houses has always been complex Many influential writers have used the space of the house to portray women s conflicts with the society of their time On the one hand houses can represent a place of physical psychological and moral restrictions and on the other they often serve as a metaphor for economic freedom and social acceptance This usage is particularly pronounced in works written in the nineteenth and twentieth century when restrictions on women's roles were changing anxieties about space sometimes seem to dominate the literature of both nineteenth century women and their twentieth century descendants The Metaphor of the House in Feminist Literature uses a feminist literary criticism approach in order to examine the use of the house as metaphor in nineteenth and twentieth century literature Right from the Start Jeanie London, 2013-04-01 He put her theories to the test Emotional Control That's

The Book of Common Prayer, Etc. (The Whole Book of Psalms, in Metre; with Hymns, Etc.)., 1813 The Book of Common Prayer, 1813 Women's Lives/Women's Times Trev Lynn Broughton, Linda R. Anderson, 1997-01-01 Women's Lives Women's Times reflects the growing interest in life writing as a basis for both feminist theorizing and women-centered education It discusses the many ways in which the study of autobiography can contribute to the theory practice and politics of women's studies as curriculum and to feminist theory more generally This volume is concerned with the application of theory to text particularly with the assumptions and discourses of postmodernism but also in exploring how general theories of the subject do not always fit comfortably with the specifics of autobiographical writing It also recognizes the challenge women's autobiography offers to theory taking us in its complex weave of the personal the political and the theoretical beyond the usual generic and disciplinary boundaries Grace Elizabeth Scott, 2010-09-16 Grace was raised to be an Angel a herald of death by suicide bomb But she refuses to die for the cause and now Grace is on the run daring to dream of freedom In search of a border she may never reach she travels among malevolent soldiers on a decrepit train crawling through the desert Accompanied by the mysterious Kerr Grace struggles to be invisible but the fear of discovery looms large as she recalls the history and events that delivered her uncertain fate Told in spare powerful prose by acclaimed author Elizabeth Scott this tale of a dystopian near future will haunt readers long after they've reached the final page
