Carruthers,2021-08-19 How is it that we know we are headed for destruction as a species and yet are unable to effect the necessary changes needed for survival We know from history that our current thinking and values will not lead to a peaceful sustainable future It is more crucial now than ever that we learn to break the cycle so that we can create a global community that balances diversity and individuality with integration and harmony The answer lies in how we think We are trapped in social systems based on power structures designed to keep us divided in antagonistic and non viable behaviors We have divorced how we understand the world through science with how we find meaning in our lives through religion alienating us from the world and each other To overcome these challenges we need to focus our thinking on the global community by giving priority to universal ethical values With ethical priority we can shift power interests from a tribal to a human perspective and reconnect understanding with meaning We can reduce alienation and improve harmony around the world In The Ethical Society William Carruthers provides the roadmap for us to finally achieve that peaceful sustainable world Architectural Record ,1905 Everyday Globalization Timothy Shortell,2016-03-10 Everyday Globalization is a micro sociological study of immigrant neighborhoods in Brooklyn and Paris Global flows of people bring together cultural practices from distant places and urban dwellers in global cities interpret the signs of collective identity in ascribing particular places as immigrant neighborhoods This book examines the spatial semiotics of identity in urban public space that make this possible Unlike other studies of globalization and cities this work brings together research on the social psychology of groups linguistic landscapes and quotidian mobility to explain how urban dwellers encounter cultural differences Signs of social identity are always interpreted in the context of group boundaries and the appropriation of public space The breadth of this analysis contributes to the literature in human geography on the meaningfulness of places This book will also be of interest to scholars and students in visual sociology In addition this research demonstrates an innovative method for studying

Dillon, 1997 Dillon's general thesis is that Merleau Ponty has developed the first genuine alternative to ontological dualism seen in Western philosophy Entanglements of the Maya Universe Alonso Rodrigo Zamora Corona, 2025-07-01 Cosmology or cosmological ideas are often sought to solve problems in our daily lives This book aims to rethink the topic of cosmology in anthropology through an ethnographic description of the many entanglements of cosmological ideas and the personal and political lives of individuals within the K'iche' Maya community of Momostenango Guatemala It addresses the question of why they turn to cosmology in an everyday context and how efficient it is It also shows the way Indigenous cosmological ideas are echoed by contemporary philosophical and scientific conceptions Built Environments, Constructed Societies Benjamin N. Vis, 2009 Archaeology as the discipline that searches to explain the development of society by means of material remains has been avoiding the big issues involved with its research agenda The topic of social evolution is concealed by anxiety about previous paradigmatic malpractice and the primary archaeological division of the world in culture areas still suffers from the archaic methods by which it was established Archaeological inference of developing societies is weighed down by its choice of particularism within agency approaches and overtly reductionist due to the prevalence of statistical classificatory and biological approaches This book addresses these issues through a perspective on the spatial analysis of the built environment As one of the principal properties of our dataset as well as being the first materialisation of sociality such spatialities are suggested to be a fundamental key for enabling an understanding of the developing social identity of places regions and areas In order to arrive at a truly social inference of spatial datasets archaeology's usual analysis working from material remains towards socio cultural interpretations needs to be inverted The vantage point of this study consists of aprioristic social theory It constructs its arguments through an epistemological foundation comprising a selection of essential ideas regarding the three constitutive axes of developing societies time human action and human space As it recognises the inherent position of these axes combined in the discipline of human geography a historical comparison of these two disciplines presents the angle from which plausible theoretical advancements can be made The core of the book explores selected works of human geographers Allan Pred Benno Werlen and Andreas Koch against the backdrop of theories like structuration or systems theory phenomenology action theory and to a lesser extent Actor Network Theory and autopoiesis From this follows its own theoretical proposal called the social positioning of spatialities On this basis hypotheses for methodological opportunities are discussed establishing a research agenda Firmly placing its efforts in current paradigmatic debates in the discipline this study offers archaeological theorists an incentive to leave the safety of materially bound science and adapt an alternative perspective It is an attempt to put archaeology back in the forefront of the social theoretical debates it should contribute to
