Understanding the Working

College Student Laura W. Perna, 2023-07-14 How appropriate for today and for the future are the policies and practices of higher education that largely assume a norm of traditional age students with minimal on campus or no work commitments Despite the fact that work is a fundamental part of life for nearly half of all undergraduate students with a substantial number of traditional dependent undergraduates in employment and working independent undergraduates averaging 34 5 hours per week little attention has been given to how working influences the integration and engagement experiences of students who work especially those who work full time or how the benefits and costs of working differ between traditional age students and adult students The high and increasing prevalence and intensity of working among both dependent and independent students raises a number of important questions for public policymakers college administrators faculty academic advisors student services and financial aid staff and institutional and educational researchers including Why do so many college students work so many hours What are the characteristics of undergraduates who work What are the implications of working for students educational experiences and outcomes And how can public and institutional policymakers promote the educational success of undergraduate students who work This book offers the most complete and comprehensive conceptualization of the working college student available It provides a multi faceted picture of the characteristics experiences and challenges of working college students and a more complete understanding of the heterogeneity underlying the label undergraduates who work and the implications of working for undergraduate students educational experiences and outcomes The volume stresses the importance of recognizing the value and contribution of adult learners to higher education and takes issue with the appropriateness of the term non traditional itself both because of the prevalence of this group and because it allows higher education institutions to avoid considering changes that will meet the needs of this population including changes in course offerings course scheduling financial aid and pedagogy

Focus on First Year Success Brenda Leibowitz, Antoinette Van der Merwe, Susan Van Schalkwyk, 2009-11-01 The importance of the first year experience is now well recognised This collection of papers makes a fascinating and important contribution to our understanding of students transition to higher education This is a scholarly engaging and illuminating text that is relevant not only in the context of South Africa but for anyone interested in student learning in the first year of university education David Gosling Plymouth University

Academic Advising and the First College Year Jenny R. Fox, Holly E. Martin, 2017-09-14 Published in partnership with NACADA The Global Community for Academic Advising Academic advisors help students learn to make the most of their college years not merely by completing requirements toward a degree but also by growing intellectually and developing all aspects of their identity Yet many professional and faculty advisors are new to academic advising and may feel ill equipped to do more than help students register for classes This new edited collection provides an overview of the theory and best practice undergirding advising today while exploring the transition challenges of a wide range of first year college students including those attending two year colleges coming from underrepresented backgrounds entering underprepared for college level work and or experiencing academic failure Learning Communities from Start to Finish Mimi Benjamin, 2015-03-11 While the phrase learning communities has various definitions at the heart of all programs is the goal of enhancing the student learning experience in the community of others This volume provides valuable information about learning communities from start to finish including historical and theoretical foundations that guide these programs structures of learning communities that provide varied opportunities for student participation with a focus on specific student populations who may benefit from learning community experiences and elements of staffing and assessment as well as an annotated bibliography of recent learning community literature The authors consider critical elements of learning community programs and offer recommendations and options for faculty and staff who work with or hope to work with this particular curricular and cocurricular learning structure This the 149th volume of this Jossey Bass higher education quarterly series An indispensable resource for vice presidents of student affairs deans of students student counselors and other student services professionals New Directions for Student Services offers guidelines and programs for aiding students in their total development emotional social physical and intellectual The Student's Journal, 1916 provides a scholarly forum for interdisciplinary research on the financing of public private and higher education in the United States and abroad The series is committed to disseminating high quality empirical studies policy analyses and literature reviews on contemporary issues in fiscal policy and practice Each themed volume is intended for a diversity of readers including academic researchers students policy makers and school practitioners The first volume in the series Fiscal Policy in Urban Education addressed the continuing challenge of large complex urban school systems to operate both equitably and efficiently Guest edited by Faith Crampton and David Thompson the second volume in our series Saving America s School Infrastructure examined the relationship between the physical environment of schools and student achievement The third volume High Stakes Accountability in Education Implications for Resources and Capacity compiled a diversity of research studies focused local state and national efforts to respond to the reauthorization of the federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act commonly referred to as No Child Left Behind NCLB In this fourth volume attention is turned to both theoretical and pragmatic concerns in American higher education During the final stages of the preparation of this manuscript our schools colleges and universities have been confronted with what can be referred to as a once in a century set of challenges As the global COVID 19 pandemic penetrated the United States in early 2020 colleges and universities have scrambled to address this ongoing public health crisis Emergency task forces were established campuses were shut down faculty moved their instruction to virtual formats and the entire higher education industry braced itself for the financial fallout In addition to having to invest additional resources in classroom technology ventilation and personal protective equipment colleges and universities continue to respond to revenue shortfalls including reductions in both tuition and room and board revenue This financial landscape requires judicious policy making and research informed practice With this in mind contributing authors were asked to pay specific attention to contemporary challenges and opportunities during a pivotal period in America s colleges and universities The contributing authors were asked to think of policymakers and practitioners at local state and national levels as the intended audiences for their work Our contributors responded with a collection of studies examining the impact of federal and state policymaking on higher education finance and on specified educational outcomes and practices Throughout the volume particular attention is paid to issues of equity and adequacy in American higher education including the deployment of incentives and structures that support the access and achievement of traditionally underrepresented students College Student Journal ,2000 The Educational Times, and Journal of the
