explicit I take it to leave no room for doubt as to its general character though there is a disposition in some quarters to use other terms than negro to designate that class of our people derived from African origin For ordinary purposes the inhabitants of this country may be fairly divided into white and colored classes Nevertheless such racial grouping is neither an exact nor a true ethnological designation of the American people for the reason that it does not agree with known facts For example many persons of negroid ancestry but white in color are classed with the white race in communities ignorant of their negro origin On the other hand many Italians Portuguese Mexi cans and Indians are dark complexioned but with out the least strain oi negro blood Therefore as there is such a thing as a distinctively negro people and as it is in indisputable evidence that the Ameri can freed people were primarily derived from a genu ine negro stock there is ample warrant for using the terms negro and negroid in designating the per son as well as the forms of thought and action characteristic of the descendants of such ancestors About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

The title of this work is sufficiently explicit I take it to leave no room for doubt as to its general character though there is a disposition in some quarters to use other terms than negro to designate that class of our people derived from African origin For ordinary purposes the inhabitants of this country may be fairly divided into white and colored classes Nevertheless such racial grouping is neither an exact nor a true ethnological designation of the American people for the reason that it does not agree with known facts For example many persons of negroid ancestry but white in color are classed with the white race in communities ignorant of their negro origin On the other hand many Italians Portuguese Mexicans and Indians are dark complexioned but without the least strain of negro blood Therefore as there is such a thing as a distinctively negro people and as it is in indisputable evidence that the American freed people were primarily derived from a genuine negro stock there is ample warrant for using the terms negro and negroid in designating the person as well as the forms of thought and action characteristic of the descendants of such ancestors The normal color of the negro is black but that color is neither his exclusive property nor his only hue As a matter of fact variant shades of color are found in his racial existence Hence neither the phrase negro people nor its kindred appellatives as employed in these pages are to be understood as invariably implying a black segment of mankind but rather as a uniform designation of a pronounced set of characteristics specifically exemplified in the physical mental and moral qualities of a type of humanity Color then apart from defined negroid characteristics in nowise enters into the questions under consideration though the characteristics themselves are manifest in white black yellow brown and other variable tints of racial color My contentions on this point are that any man of whatever hue who exhibits the characteristic traits which I shall hereafter describe is a negro otherwise he is not For example I have some relatives who are fair in color but negroes in every sense of the word and other relatives who though dark in complexion are in other respects comparatively free from negro idiosyncrasies I have also personal knowledge of many individuals representing all shades of color who are manfully engaged in a struggle to free themselves from all visible trace of racial traits Having submitted these observations I hope to have made it clear that this contribution to American sociology deals in a fundamental sense with specific traits of character and with color only in so far as it is incidental to ethnological characteristics
