Corpus scriptorum christianorum Orientalium Alessandro Bausi, 2003 The Portrayal of Christ in the Syriac Commentary on the Diatessaron Christian Lange, Christian M. W. Lange, 2005 For a long time the Diatessaron has drawn the interest of modern scholars Some of the problems related to the Syriac Harmony of the Gospels have been solved Others still remain in dispute The Syriac Commentary on the Diatessaron attributed to Ephraem 306-373 is one of the most important witnesses to the wording of the Harmony Unfortunately most of the surviving Syriac folios of the text have been discovered only recently Consequently no detailed study on the Commentary has been undertaken yet It is the aim of this study to present this scholarly demand This Oxford dissertation deals with the questions of the difficult process of the Commentary's transmission and analyses both the Trinitarian and Christological understanding of its author By way of a comparison with the genuine Ephraem this study argues that the Commentary in its present form is a compilation from the hand of one of his disciples However it serves as an important source on the theological discussions in the Edessa of the late fourth and early fifth centuries Tatian and the Jewish Scriptures Robert F. Shedinger, 2001 It has long been argued that Tatian in the production of the Diatessaron made regular reference to the Old Testament Peshitta when he came across Old Testament citations in the Gospels This book argues on the contrary that Tatian made little or no use of the Old Testament Peshitta but regularly took over the text of the Old Testament citations as he found them in the Gospel sources out of which he created his harmony Where they differ from the form of these citations in the standard Greek text tradition of the Gospels it is because in the second century Tatian had access to Gospel sources which may have varied significantly from the text of the later manuscripts on which our modern critical editions are based Thus Tatian's Diatessaron becomes a window into an early state of the Gospel texts and supports the idea that a significant amount of textual fluidity characterized the Gospel texts in the first two centuries of their transmission This study will be of interest to those working in the fields of Diatessaronic studies New Testament Textual Criticism and the history of the Syriac Church The Armenian Scholia on Dionysius the Areopagite Sergio La Porta, 2008 This volume serves as a companion to the critical edition and English translation prepared by the author of two sets of scholia on the Heavenly Hierarchy of Dionysius the Areopagite In this volume the author rejects the traditional authorship of the scholia and establishes their date provenance and context The study also examines the manuscript tradition of the scholia the exegetical technique of the scholiasts and their extra textual concerns The Syriac Versions of the De Spiritu Sancto Saint Basil (Bishop of Caesarea), 1999 Engaging Leviticus Mark W. Elliott, 2011-12-15 This commentary weaves together the interpretations of Christian exegetes spanning the past two thousand years who have concerned themselves with that most mysterious of texts the book of Leviticus Even when their commentaries seem most fanciful the depths of meaning of the Hebrew text comes through in all its many and diverse translations and applications What we discover is evidence of a biblical text at work in some of the most eloquent of spokespersons throughout the generations The third book of the Bible is happily enjoying a resurgence of interest in Jewish and Christian quarters alike being received as a book for the life of the faithful community What is attempted here is the story of its Western Christian reception A Response to the Arabs Joseph P. Amar, 2005 St. Nersess Theological Review, 2002 Le mot en français et en esquimau. Etude de psycho-systématique comparée. Getatchew Haile, 2006 Abuna Estifanos Stephen the edition and translation of whose hagiographical life is presented here was the leader of a monastic reform movement that shook the foundations of the Ethiopian State and Church in the fifteenth century Estifanos Stephen started his movement at the end of the reign of the king whom Emperor Yeshaq succeeded in 1413 AD The reform movement of Estifanos and his followers called Daqia Estifanos or Estifanosites or Stephanites was known to the local clergy from the time of the reign of Emperor Zar a Ya eqob 1434-1468 As we know from Zar a Ya eqob's writings including some miracles of Mary or Ta ammera Maryam the Estifanosites were at loggerheads with the monarch The outside world first became aware of the Daqiqa Estifanos from the narratives of the Portuguese embassy that visited Ethiopia during the years 1520 1527 Since then several travelers and scholars have written about these monks The basis of the Estifanosites reform movement was that monks should observe a strict monastic life according to the rules laid down by the fathers of monasticism and that the teachers of the Church should limit the doctrine of Christianity to what was found in the eighty one canonical books of the Bible recognized by the Ethiopian Orthodox Church and the observance of God's Commandments found in them As they understood it the main commandment neglected at that time was the order to worship God alone the Father the Son and the Holy Spirit They considered the segdat prostration to the ground a form of worship that should not be performed in reverence even to the Holy Cross or to the icon of the Madonna and Child and certainly not out of respect for the king and his name We hear little about the activities of the Daqiqa Estifanos after Na'od 1494 1508 But their history is a major component of the history of the Church Although the acts of a few of the followers of Estifanos were published decades ago the publication of the acts of their leader the Gadla Abuna Estifanos has somehow had to await the present day Coincidentally there is at present a movement to revive and pursue the reforms of the Estifanosites which adds importance and urgency to the publication of this Gadla

Evangelium Iohannis Aethiopicum Michael G. Wechsler, 2005 In this volume is presented for the first time a critical edition of the earliest retrievable text i.e. the Versio Antiqua of the Gospel of John in Classical Ethiopic Ge'ez Altogether 21 manuscripts have been collated representing four different text types and for the first two of these three and four sub types respectively The Versio Antiqua is represented by the first text type of which for the most part the important Mss Abba Garima I and III dated to 1270 or earlier have been employed for the basic text Five appendices are also included in the last of which is supplied a collation of the Versio Antiqua with the critical apparatus of the 27th edition of Novum Testamentum Graece This volume consequently should prove useful to anyone interested in textual criticism of the New Testament the textual history of the Ethiopic Gospel of John or Ge'ez literature generally

On virginity David Brakke, 2002 This late ancient Christian treatise preserved in Syriac and falsely attributed to Athanasius of Alexandria d. 373 exhorts female virgins to be holy in body and spirit 1 Cor 7 34 and to abstain from all that is in the world the desire of the flesh the desire of the eyes the pride in riches 1 John 1 16 Drawing on themes developed in the de virginitate literature of the fourth and fifth centuries the author instructs virgins on their proper physical deportment and use of the five senses but he incorporates into his work exhortations to purity and repentance originally addressed to a wider audience of male and female ascetics and perhaps even laity Most likely a translation of a Greek original composed between the fifth and ninth centuries the treatise is of interest also for its frequent and inventive use of the Bible in support of the ascetic ideal

The Syriac Versions of the Writings of Cyril of Alexandria Daniel King, 2008 This study presents an analysis of the Syriac translations of Cyril of Alexandria's

Christological works seeking to locate them in their literary context on the basis of a comparative typology of translation technique and by making full use of Biblical citations and parallel citations in other texts The texts in question range from the middle of the fifth to the middle of the sixth century and are closely comparable to other contemporary documents The decades either side of the turn of the sixth century are shown as the key period in which Syriac translators developed a new vision of their language and its capabilities More widely the translations in question are used to illuminate parallel developments in late antique culture in matters of textual authority the exegesis of patristic texts and the development of Florilegia The Syrian church's new vision of language use can be observed in other walks of life across and represents a typical late antique phenomenon A Response to the Arabs: Syriac text Dionysius bar Ṣalībī (Bishop of Amida), 2005

Studies in Medieval Georgian Historiography Stephen H. Rapp, 2003 Original literature first appeared among the indigenous population of Caucasia in the fifth century AD as a consequence of its Christianization Though a number of Armenian histories were composed at this time several centuries elapsed before the Georgians created their own But how many centuries Through a meticulous investigation of internal textual criteria Studies in Medieval Georgian Historiography challenges the traditional eleventh century dating of the oldest Georgian narrative histories and probes their interrelationships Illuminating Caucasia's status as a cultural crossroads it reveals the myriad Eurasian influences written and oral Christian and non Christian on these pre Bagratid histories produced between the seventh and the ninth century Eastern Georgia's place in the Eurasian world and its long standing connection to the Iranian Commonwealth are specially highlighted This volume also examines several related historical and historiographical problems of the early Bagratid period and supplies critical translations of six early Georgian histories previously unavailable in English Dr Stephen H Rapp Jr is Assistant Professor of History at Georgia State University Atlanta USA and is the Founding Director of its Program in World History and Cultures

Religious Poetry in Vernacular Syriac from Northern Iraq (17th-20th Centuries) Alessandro Mengozzi, 2011-02-24 The present publication ideally continues the CSCO 589-590 in which 17th century religious poems in Vernacular Syriac i.e. Neo Aramaic or Sureth were published It offers the reader a rich anthology and the most complete historical sketch of the dorektha genre surveying published and unpublished works by Chaldean and Assyrian authors Texts dating from 1607-08 to 1980 AD are critically edited and translated into English with linguistic philological and literary comments On Repentance by Hormizd of Alqosh 17th cent the poetic diptych On the Torments of Hell and On the Delights of the Kingdom by Damynanos of Alqosh which shows the author's indebtedness to Italian Baroque sermons On a Famine in the Year 1898 by the poetess Anne of Telkepe probably the first work by a woman to enter the CSCO the fascinating and living story of the Hermit Barmalka by Joseph Abbaya of Alqosh On an Attack by the Mongols at Karamlish in which Thomas Hanna of Karamlish elaborates on classical sources such as Gewargis Warda and Barhebraeus the touching and beautiful elegy On Exile by Yohannan Cholagh who deals with the Christian emigration from Iraq a contemporary social problem that is even more pressing today than in 1980 when the poem first appeared in Qala Suryaya
