Architecture and the Late Ottoman Historical Imaginary Ahmet A. Ersoy, 2017-07-05 While European eclecticism is examined as a critical and experimental moment in western art history little research has been conducted to provide an intellectual depth of field to the historicist pursuits of late Ottoman architects as they maneuvered through the nineteenth century's vast inventory of available styles and embarked on a revivalist Orientalist program they identified as the Ottoman Renaissance Ahmet A Ersoy's book examines the complex historicist discourse underlying this belated renaissance through a close reading of a text conceived as the movement's canonizing manifesto the Usul i Mi mari i Osmani The Fundamentals of Ottoman Architecture Istanbul 1873 In its translocal cross disciplinary scope Ersoy's work explores the creative ways in which the Ottoman authors straddled the art historical mainstream and their new self orientalizing aesthetics of locality The study reveals how Orientalism was embraced by its very objects the self styled Orientals of the modern world as a marker of authenticity and a strategically located aesthetic tool to project universally recognizable images of cultural difference Rejecting the lesser subsidiary status ascribed to non western Orientalisms Ersoy's work contributes to recent post Saidian directions in the study of cultural representation that resituate the field of Orientalism beyond its polaristic core recognizing its cross cultural potential as a polyvalent discourse

Gendering Orientalism Reina Lewis, 2013-06-17 In contrast to most cultural histories of imperialism which analyse Orientalist images of rather than by women Gendering Orientalism focuses on the contributions of women themselves Drawing on the little known work of Henriette Browne other lost women Orientalist artists and the literary works of George Eliot Reina Lewis challenges masculinist assumptions relating to the stability and homogeneity of the Orientalist gaze Gendering Orientalism argues that women did not have a straightforward access to an implicitly male position of western superiority Their relationship to the shifting terms of race nation and gender produced positions from which women writers and artists could articulate alternative representations of racial difference It is this different and often less degrading gaze on the Orientalized Other that is analysed in this book By revealing the extent of women s involvement in the popular field of visual Orientalism and highlighting the presence of Orientalist themes in the work of Browne Eliot and Charlotte Bronte reina Lewis uncovers women s roles in imperial culture and discourse Gendering Orientalism will appeal to students lecturers and researchers in cultural studies literature art history women s studies and anthropology Empire of Landscape John Zarobell,2010 Explores visual culture and the social history of art through an analysis of French images of nineteenth century Algeria Provided by publisher Ephemeral vistas Paul Greenhalgh,2017-03-01 The international exhibitions held around the world between 1851 and 1939 were spectacular gestures which briefly held the attention of the world before disappearing into an abrupt oblivion of the victims of their planned temporality Known in Britain as Great Exhibitions in France as Expositions Universelles and in America as World s Fairs the genre became a self perpetuating phenomenon the extraordinary cultural spawn of industry and empire Thoroughly in the spirit of the first industrial age the exhibitions illustrated the relation between money and power and revelled in the belief that the uncontrolled expression of that power was the quintessence of freedom Philanthropy found its place on exhibition sites functioning as a conscience to the age although even here morality was inextricably linked to economic efficiency and expansion Imperial achievement was celebrated to the full at international exhibitions Nevertheless most World s Fairs maintained an imperial element and out of this blossomed a vibrant racism Between 1889 and 1914 the exhibitions became a human showcase when people from all over the world were brought to sites in order to be seen by others for their gratification and education In essence the English national profile fabricated in the closing decades of the nineteenth century was derived from the pre industrial world The Fine Arts were an important ingredient in any international exhibition of calibre This book incorporates comparative work on European and American empire building with the chronological focus primarily on the nineteenth and twentieth centuries when these cultural exchanges were most powerfully at work The Museums of Contemporary Art J. Pedro Lorente,2016-03-03 Where how by whom and for what were the first museums of contemporary art created These are the key questions addressed by J Pedro Lorente in this new book In it he explores the concept and history of museums of contemporary art and the shifting ways in which they have been imagined and presented Following an introduction that sets out the historiography and considering questions of terminology the first part of the book then examines the paradigm of the Mus e des Artistes Vivants in Paris and its equivalents in the rest of Europe during the nineteenth century The second part takes the story forward from 1930 to the present presenting New York s Museum of Modern Art as a new universal role model that found emulators or contramodels in the rest of the Western world during the twentieth century An epilogue reviews recent museum developments in the last decades Through its adoption of a long term worldwide perspective the book not only provides a narrative of the development of museums of contemporary art but also sets this into its international perspective By assessing the extent to which the great museum capitals Paris London and New York in particular created their own models of museum provision as well as acknowledging the influence of such models elsewhere the book uncovers fascinating perspectives on the practice of museum provision and reveals how present cultural planning initiatives have often been shaped by historical uses

The Centenary Edition of the Works of Nathaniel Hawthorne: The English notebooks, 1856-1860 Nathaniel Hawthorne,1997 Desire and Excess Jonah Siegel,2021-05-11 In this fascinating look at the creative power of institutions Jonah Siegel explores the rise of the modern idea of the artist in the nineteenth century a period that also witnessed the emergence of the museum and the professional critic Treating these developments as interrelated he analyzes both visual material and literary texts to portray a culture in which art came to be thought of in powerful new ways Ultimately Siegel shows that artistic controversies commonly associated with the self consciously radical movements of modernism and postmodernism have their roots in a dynamic era unfairly characterized as staid self satisfied and stable The nineteenth century has been called the Age of the Museum and yet critics art theorists and poets during this period grappled with the question of whether the proliferation of museums might lead to the death of Art itself Did the assembly and display of works of art help the viewer to understand them or did it numb the senses How was the contemporary artist to respond to the vast storehouses of art from disparate nations and periods that came to proliferate in this era Siegel presents a lively discussion of the shock experienced by neoclassical artists troubled by remains of antiquity that were trivial or even obscene as well as the anxious aesthetic reveries of nineteenth century art lovers overwhelmed by the quantity of objects quickly crowding museums and exhibition halls In so doing he illuminates the fruitful crises provoked when the longing for admired art is suddenly satisfied Drawing upon neoclassical art and theory biographies of early nineteenth century writers including Keats and Scott and the writings of art critics such as Hazlitt Ruskin and Wilde this book reproduces a cultural matrix that brings to life the artistic passions and anxieties of an entire era

Material Inspirations Jonah Siegel,2020 This book is a study of the complex relationship between matter and idea that shaped the nineteenth century culture of art and that in turn determined the course of still current accounts of art's nature and value Fundamental questions about the effects of material conditions on the creation and reception of art arose as early as the nineteenth century and put important pressures on later eras The place of class distinctions in the making and reception of art the relationship between copy and original the effects of display on art appreciation even the role of pleasure itself this book treats these and related issues as productive conceptual challenges with an unresolved relationship to matter at their core Drawing on recent scholarship on the history of art and its institutions Material Inspirations places cultural developments such as the emergence of new sites for exhibition and the astonishing proliferation of printed reproductions alongside a wide range of texts including novels poems travel guidebooks compendia of antiquities and especially the great line of critical writing that emerged in the period The study vivifies a dynamic era which is still too often seen as static and unchanging by emphasizing the transformations taking place throughout the period in precisely those areas that have appeared to promise little more than repetition or continuity collection exhibition and reproduction The book culminates with the two great critics of the period John Ruskin and Walter Pater but it also includes close analysis of other prose writers as well as poets and novelists ranging from William Blake to Robert Browning George Eliot to Henry James Significant developments addressed include the vogue for the representation of Old Masters in the first half of the century ongoing innovations in the creation and diffusion of reproductions and the emergence of the field of art history itself At the heart of each of these the book identifies a material pressure shaping concepts texts and works of art Constructing Japan Beate Loeffler, 2025-09-25 The influence of Japanese art and culture on art in late 19th century Europe and America through collections of objects and knowledge transfer is already recognised However the research in this field often neglects architecture This study takes a new approach placing architecture at the centre Through in depth analysis of contemporary textual and visual sources Beate Loeffler shows how western actors from different backgrounds interpreted Japanese architecture as they experienced it either face to face or via texts and images It unveils a complex process of appropriation and rejection of claim to interpretive sovereignty and fascination with the foreign that led to both new knowledge and cultural clichés Culture and Conflict Sine Krogh, Karina L. Grand, Thor J. Mednick, 2022-05-06 Cultural differences are often the trigger for conflict whether politically motivated or arising from dissonant understandings of national culture But what we regard as distinctive today in our cultural heritage or day to day cultural experience is deeply rooted in the rich diversity of the national currents of the nineteenth century Culture and Conflict Nation Building in Denmark and Scandinavia 1800 1930 explores the many strands of Danish and Scandinavian culture that helped to shape these cultural identities The sixteen contributions in this volume analyse how competing national agendas influenced the development of political life as well as literature the visual arts and music A central theme is the cultural conflicts that formed an essential part of nineteenth century nation building Culturally as well as politically boundaries were drawn up ideologies were formulated and discussed and determined attempts were made to suppress divergent cultural voices in the drive to forge strong national or Scandinavian narratives The results of these conflicts were the enduring cultural struggles that form the subject of this volume The contributions at hand by scholars from Denmark Britain Norway the United States and Germany bring a broad and interdisciplinary perspective to bear on these distinctively Nordic themes Aimed both at students and at established scholars the chapters discuss the many facets of nationalism its cultures and its countercultures as well as revisiting the historiography of the 1800 1930 period with a more pluralistic approach El Prado: la cultura y el ocio (1819-1939) Eugenia Afinoguénova, 2019-02-07 Los orígenes y el desarrollo del Museo del Prado son inseparables de los debates sobre el destino del Estado liberal en España de la evolución de las ideas museísticas en Europa y de la amalgama de experiencias que ofreció el paseo del Prado Sin asumir que sus visitantes hubieran llegado a estar de acuerdo alguna vez en cómo interpretar el museo este libro aborda su historia como la de un debate público a muchas voces Al igual que aquellos visitantes que cruzaban el umbral del museo y no siempre trazaban una línea clara entre lo que podían ver o hacer dentro y fuera del edificio en el paseo del Prado y en sus alrededores los participantes en este debate consideraban la visita al museo como un pasatiempo íntimamente conectado con otras actividades públicas y por tanto parte de un debate más amplio sobre ciudadanía y derecho al voto el ascenso de Madrid a la condición de capital moderna y la creciente brecha entre campo y ciudad
