The Empty Place James F. Weiner, 1991 Monuments and Landscape in Atlantic Europe Chris Scarre, 2005-07-08 These essays examine for the first time the relationship between landscape and prehistoric monuments across Europe placing the issue in a regional and intellectual context Reimagining Political Ecology Aletta Biersack, James B. Greenberg, 2006-11-22 A collection of ethnographies grounded in second generation political ecology which focuses on the interchanges between nature and culture and the local and the global Lines Tim Ingold, 2016-04-14 What do walking weaving observing storytelling singing drawing and writing have in common The answer is that they all proceed along lines In this extraordinary book Tim Ingold imagines a world in which everyone and everything consists of interwoven or interconnected lines and lays the foundations for a completely new discipline the anthropological archaeology of the line Ingold's argument leads us through the music of Ancient Greece and contemporary Japan Siberian labyrinths and Roman roads Chinese calligraphy and the printed alphabet weaving a path between antiquity and the present Drawing on a multitude of disciplines including archaeology classical studies art history linguistics psychology musicology philosophy and many others and including more than seventy illustrations this book takes us on an exhilarating intellectual journey that will change the way we look at the world and how we go about in it This Routledge Classics edition includes a new preface by the author Creating Diversities Anna-Leena Siikala, Barbro Klein, Stein R. Mathisen, 2007-07-07 The effects of globalization and the momentous changes to the political map of Europe have led to a world in which multiculturalism and ethnic differences have become issues of increasing importance In Nordic countries relationships between new immigrants local ethnic groups and majorities are created in ongoing and sometimes heated discussions In transforming multicultural societies folklore has taken on new manifestations and meanings How can folklore studies illuminate the present cultural political and historical changes Creating Diversities Folklore Religion and the Politics of Heritage edited by Anna Leena Siikala Barbro Klein and Stein R Mathisen seeks answers to this question It emphasizes two important factors in the cultural and political exchanges among historical minorities recent immigrants and the majority groups dictating the conditions of these exchanges The first factor is religion which is a powerful tool in the construction of ethnic selves and in the establishment of boundaries between groups The second factor is the role of national and regional folklore archives and ethnographic and cultural historical museums which create ideas and images of minorities These representations created in different political climates affect the general understanding of the people depicted Fifteen well known folklorists and ethnographers from Norway Sweden Finland Estonia and the United States offer insights and background material on these problems In addition to immigrants and ethnic minorities in the Nordic countries especially the Sami examples are sought from among the Finno Ugrian minorities in Russia and the Nordic population in North America Spirits in Culture, History and Mind Jeannette Mageo, Alan Howard, 2012-12-06 Spirits in Culture History and Mind reintegrates spirits into comparative theories of religion which have tended to focus on institutionalized forms of belief associated with gods. It brings an historical perspective to culturally patterned experiences with spirits and examines spirits as a locus of tension between traditional and foreign values. Taking as a point of departure shifting local views of self, nine case studies drawn from Pacific societies analyze religious phenomena at the intersection of social, psychological and historical processes. The varied approaches taken in these case studies provide a richness of perspective with each lens illuminating different aspects of spirit-related experience. All however bring a sense of historical process to bear on psychological and symbolic approaches to religion, shedding new light on the ways spirits relate to other cultural phenomena.

Cord of Blood Nadia Lovell, 2002-11-20. The relationship between human beings and their gods lies at the centre of all questions of identity, individual and collective. Nadia Lovell examines how religious feelings reflect notions of personhood and belonging and how religious involvement can transform gender relations by focusing on cults of Vodhun voodoo possession among the Watchi in Southern Togo. Using this detailed ethnographic study as a point of departure, she offers a fascinating insight into the complex interplay between religion, gender, ethnography and globalisation. Lovell argues that the relationship of men and women to the Vodhun is one of mutual dependency: on the one hand, human beings will gods to exist; on the other hand, gods embody themselves in human beings, especially women, through possession. Possession, according to Lovell, implies not only affliction but the manifestation of creative potential through which women can express multiple identities, a process through which concepts of gender are both confirmed and dismantled. Looking in particular at the role of the devotees, Lovell presents an enticing account which offers an important contribution to the study of religion, gender and society.

The Making and Unmaking of the Haya Lived World Brad Weiss, 1996. At the center of this subtle ethnographic account of the Haya communities of Northwest Tanzania is the idea of a lived world as both the product and the producer of everyday practices. Drawing on his experience living with the Haya, Brad Weiss explores Haya ways of constructing and inhabiting their community and examines the forces that shape and transform these practices over time. In particular, he shows how the Haya, a group at the fringe of the global economy, have responded to the processes and material aspects of money, markets and commodities as they make and remake their place in a changing world. Grounded in a richly detailed ethnography of Haya practice, Weiss's analysis considers the symbolic qualities and values embedded in goods and transactions across a wide range of cultural activity: agricultural practice and food preparation, the body's experience of epidemic disease from AIDS to the infant affliction of plastic teeth, and long-standing forms of social movement and migration. Weiss emphasizes how Haya images of consumption describe the relationship between their local community and the global economy. Throughout, he demonstrates that particular commodities and more general market processes are always material and meaningful forces with the potential for creativity as well as disruption in Haya social life. By calling attention to the productive dimensions of this spatial and temporal world, his work highlights the importance of human agency in not only the Haya but any sociocultural order. Offering a significant contribution to the anthropological theories of practice embodiment and agency and enriching our understanding of the lives of a rural African people The Making and Unmaking of the Haya Lived World will interest historians anthropologists ethnographers and scholars of cultural studies Names are Thicker than Blood Andrew Moutu,2013-04-11 This is an ethnographic study of kinship and the nature and behaviour of ownership amongst the much studied Sepik River Iatmul people Written from the viewpoint of a Melanesian scholar this book seeks to re think anthropology s central assumptions about social relations Things As They Are Michael Jackson,1996-08-22 The real beauty of this book is that the thinking does not stop deep in the thickets of philosophic references Instead true to the spirit of phenomenology we are provided with provocative accounts of how such thinking flows in contemporary anthropological practice XCP Cross Cultural Poetics In this timely collection thirteen contemporary ethnographers demonstrate the importance of phenomenological and existential ideas for anthropology In emphasizing the link between the empirical and the experiential these ethnographers also explore the relationship between phenomenology and other theories of the lifeworld such as existentialism radical empiricism and critical theory
