Unmapped Countries Anne-Julia Zwierlein, 2005 Biotechnology and human genetics are the dominant applied sciences in the twenty first century Unmapped Countries provides a critical retrospective on the nineteenth century origins of modern biological science and their close connections with the cultural sphere It explores the emerging cultural authority of the biological sciences during the nineteenth century when fundamental discoveries in geology and physics dramatically destabilized the Victorian worldview In the field of literary and cultural studies interest in nineteenth century biology has been substantial for the last 20 years yet the focus has been almost exclusively on evolutionary theory neglecting other branches of nineteenth century biology This collection corrects that imbalance shedding light on other discoveries in cell biology physiology neurology and virology It examines the issue of authority in science demonstrating the social embeddedness of the natural sciences and gender issues It also shows how scientists and creative writers drew on a common imagination as well as narrative techniques and stylistic devices indeed often inspired by the same subjects This important new book including contributions from some of the most distinguished experts in the field demonstrates that the relation between literature culture and biology in the nineteenth century is far more complex than habitual references to Darwin would have us believe

Between Ape and Human Gregory Forth,2022-05-03 A remarkable investigation into the hominoids of Flores Island their place on the evolutionary spectrum and whether or not they still survive While doing fieldwork on the remote Indonesian island of Flores anthropologist Gregory Forth came across people talking about half apelike half humanlike creatures that once lived in a cave on the slopes of a nearby volcano Over the years he continued to record what locals had to say about these mystery hominoids while searching for ways to explain them as imaginary symbols of the wild or other cultural representations Then along came the hobbit In 2003 several skeletons of a small statured early human species alongside stone tools and animal remains were excavated in a cave in western Flores Named Homo floresiensis this ancient hominin was initially believed to have lived until as recently as 12 000 years ago possibly overlapping with the appearance of Homo sapiens on Flores In view of this timing and the striking resemblance of floresiensis to the mystery creatures described by the islanders Forth began to think about the creatures as possibly reflecting a real species either now extinct but retained in cultural memory or even still surviving He began to investigate reports from the Lio region of the island where locals described ape men as still living Dozens claimed to have even seen them In Between Ape and Human we follow Forth on the trail of this mystery hominoid and the space they occupy in islanders culture as both natural creatures and as supernatural beings In a narrative filled with adventure Lio culture and language zoology and natural history Forth comes to a startling and controversial conclusion Unique important and thought provoking this book will appeal to anyone interested in human evolution the survival of species including our own and how humans might relate to not quite human animals Between Ape and Human is essential reading for all those interested in cryptozoology and it is the only firsthand investigation by a leading anthropologist into the possible survival of a primitive species of human into recent times and its coexistence with modern humans

The First Days of Man: As Narrated Quite Simply for Young Readers Frederic Arnold Kummer,2020-09-28 Every child between the ages of five and fifteen seeks by constant questioning to grasp the fundamental facts upon which our whole fabric of present day knowledge is based These facts painfully gathered by the human race during its many centuries of development must of necessity be absorbed by the child within the short space of some ten or twelve years It is a prodigious task and one in which the growing mind should be afforded every possible assistance Two courses are usually adopted by parents one to dismiss the child s questions with the stock phrase You are not old enough to understand the other to place in his hands some so called book of knowledge containing it is true a great mass of information which the child should possess but usually so badly presented so jumbled together that no one fact has any bearing on another and thus the child is left to turn from Why the ocean is salt to What is a lightning rod without the least understanding of the principles and laws which underly these and all other facts and link them together in a composite whole The writer has followed with his own children a method of presenting the steps in the gradual development of man which has produced most gratifying results Instead of treating each fact each laboriously accumulated bit of human knowledge as a mere isolated patch in a crazy quilt of information he has attempted to arrange them in logical sequence to form an interesting pattern so that as the child s fund of knowledge increases he feels a deeper and deeper interest in fitting each newly acquired fact into its proper place in his mental picture of things The result is that the child is constantly building a structure which he understands His mass of accumulated knowledge is not heaped together hap hazard like a pile of blocks but each occupies its proper and logical place in a slowly developing whole He derives pleasure from what would otherwise be hard work just as he would derive pleasure from fitting together the pieces of a puzzle picture he finds himself progressing toward some understandable end and without knowing it he has not only gathered his facts and catalogued them but he has begun to think about them and their relation to each other in short he has begun the process of logical thought which is the first and greatest step in all education
