The Relationship between Form and Content in Chris Ware's "Building Stories" Maria Baciu,2015-11-04 Studienarbeit aus dem Jahr 2015 im Fachbereich Literaturwissenschaft Moderne Literatur Note 1 Ludwig Maximilians Universit t M nchen Institut f r Anglistik und Amerikanistik Veranstaltung Breaking the Form Books Striving not to be Books Sprache Deutsch Abstract The aim of this paper is to provide an analysis of the architecture that Chris Ware employs on every level of the story Drawn from Ware s statement that the metaphor of architecture runs through our brains and that there s something about the way the mind and the way buildings are structured that are sic analogous Paulson the present analysis illustrates this analogy by looking at both the personal and the spatial dimension of this architectural product On the one hand the reader is presented a skilful architecture of the mind and feelings of the main character along with the multiple dimensions of the character s memory In the respective architecture the spatial dimension of the building plays a crucial role since it represents a frame for the main plot the history of a building and the things that have happened within it like a living organism through time At the same time the character is framed by the architecture of the building in that it represents a self conscious creative construction on the part of the woman to write for her creative writing class Millman The paper will also look at how form is employed to convey content both in terms of the organization of panels and frames on the macro level and of visual narrative perspective monolog and dialog on the micro level The way in which these elements are combined starting with straightforward manners and ending up to mnemonically complex ones demands that the reader interpret them based on common experience and a history of observation Eisner 2006 24 The paper s chapters are structured according to the steps followed when building a house the design laying the foundation building the walls installing the roof and finally painting the walls These steps are not exclusively related to the building as such but rather to the entire architecture of the story

Working Memory and Language in the Modular Mind John Truscott,2022-06-16 The book explores two fundamental aspects of the human mind and their relation to one another The first is the way that information is put to use in the mind When we are doing a mental arithmetic problem for example how do we bring the relevant bits of information to mind and hold them there while carrying out the series of calculations This is working memory the subject of an enormous research literature in psychology neuroscience and a great many other disciplines Characterizing the working memory process is now a major part of efforts to understand the human mind How we characterize this process depends of course on how we characterize the human mind as a whole In particular is the mind made up of a number of distinct units each carrying out a specialized function There is considerable reason to say that it is and this modular view of the mind has become prominent in a great deal of academic work notably in cognitive neuroscience with important implications for our understanding of how working memory works But these implications have received surprisingly little consideration to this point The aim of the book is to explore this relation between working memory and modularity first in general terms and then using a specific modular view of the mind the Modular Cognition Framework The ideas are illustrated and further developed through an application to language and especially second language acquisition and use
