loss of self that one might feel in contemplating an apocalypse especially as modernization has divorced us from the rituals and folklore that might make such an eventuality less terrifying De Martino writes Two opposed terrors dominate our age the terror of losing the world and the terror of being lost in the world The end of the world the loss of presence Interweaving the cultural and individual levels of apocalypse treating subjects both classic and contemporary and both European and non Western ranging across ethnography and philosophy De Martino probes how we relate to our world and how we might be better subjects and thinkers within it
