Structure Agency And The Internal Conversation:

Structure, Agency and the Internal Conversation Margaret Scotford Archer, 2003-08-28 Explores the relationship between structure and agency through human reflexivity and the internal conversation Going to University. The Influence of Higher Education on the Lives of Young South Africans Jennifer Case, Delia Marshall, 2018-02-09 Around the world more young people than ever before are attending university Student numbers in South Africa have doubled since democracy and for many families higher education is a route to a better future for their children But alongside the overwhelming demand for higher education questions about its purposes have intensified Deliberations about the curriculum culture and costing of public higher education abound from student activists academics parents civil society and policy makers We know from macro research that South African graduates generally have good employment prospects But little is known at a detailed level about how young people actually make use of their university experiences to craft their life courses And even less is known about what happens to those who drop out This accessible book brings together the rich life stories of 73 young people six years after they began their university studies It traces how going to university influences not only their employment options but also nurtures the agency needed to chart their own way and to engage critically with the world around them The book offers deep insights into the ways in which public higher education is both a private and public good and it provides significant conclusions pertinent to anyone who works in and cares about universities Going to University Case, Jennifer, Marshall, Delia, 2018-02-09 Around the world more young people than ever before are attending university Student numbers in South Africa have doubled since democracy and for many families higher education is a route to a better future for their children But alongside the overwhelming demand for higher education questions about its purposes have intensified Deliberations about the curriculum culture and costing of public higher education abound from student activists academics parents civil society and policy makers We know from macro research that South African graduates generally have good employment prospects But little is known at a detailed level about how young people actually make use of their university experiences to craft their life courses And even less is known about what happens to those who drop out This accessible book brings together the rich life stories of 73 young people six years after they began their university studies It traces how going to university influences not only their employment options but also nurtures the agency needed to chart their own way and to engage critically with the world around them The book offers deep insights into the ways in which public higher education is both a private and public good and it provides significant conclusions pertinent to anyone who works in and cares about universities Distant Markets, Distant Harms Daniel K. Finn, 2014 Distant Harms Distant Markets looks at moral complicity in markets employing resources from sociology early Christian history feminism legal theory and Catholic moral theology today The author skillfully explores the causal and moral responsibilities which consumers bear for the harms that markets cause to distant others A New Model of Religious Conversion Ines W.

Jindra,2014-02-06 Based on the analysis of 52 conversion narratives to various religious groups A New Model of Religious Conversion utilizes case studies for comparison of converts backgrounds network influence and conversion narratives The author convincingly illustrates a fit between the converts background and the religion they convert to such as between disorganized family backgrounds and highly structured religions Conversely those from highly structured backgrounds often convert to more open groups The book also makes it clear that not all conversions are influenced by networks or align themselves with a social constructivist view of a conversion as an account Taking converts trajectories seriously the author makes a strong case for the application of biographical sociology to the study of conversion and American sociology overall

Social Science, Philosophy and Theology in Dialogue Pierpaolo Donati, Antonio Malo, Giulio Maspero, 2019-04-09 This volume explores the potential of employing a relational paradigm for the purposes of interdisciplinary exchange Bringing together scholars from the social sciences philosophy and theology it seeks to bridge the gap between subject areas by focusing on real phenomena Although these phenomena are studied by different disciplines the editors demonstrate that it is also possible to study them from a common relational perspective that connects the different languages theories and perspectives which characterize each discipline by going beyond their differences to the core of reality itself As an experimental collection that highlights the potential that exists for cross disciplinary work this volume will appeal to scholars across a range of field concerned with critical realist approaches to research collaborative work across subjects and the manner in which disciplines can offer one another new insights

Culture, Capitals and Graduate Futures Ciaran Burke, 2015-08-27 In a time of too many graduates for too few jobs and in a context where applicants have similar levels of educational capital what other factors influence graduate career trajectories Based on the life history interviews of graduates and framed through a Bourdieusian sociological lens Culture Capitals and Graduate Futures explores the continuing role that social class as well as cultural and social capitals have on both the aspirations and expectations towards and the trajectories within the graduate labour market Framed within the current context of increasing levels of university graduates and the falling numbers of graduate positions available in the UK labour market this book provides a critical examination of the supposedly linear and meritocratic relationship between higher education and graduate employment proposed by official discourses from government at both local and national levels Through a critical engagement with the empirical findings Culture Capitals and Graduate Futures asks important questions for the effective continuation of the widening participation agenda This timely book will be of interest to higher education professionals working within widening participation policy and higher education policy

Structure, Culture and Agency Tom Brock, Mark Carrigan, Graham Scambler, 2016-11-10 Professor Margaret Archer is a leading critical realist and major contemporary social theorist This edited collection seeks to celebrate the scope and accomplishments of her work distilling her theoretical and empirical contributions into four sections which capture the essence and trajectory of her research over almost four decades Long fascinated with the problem of structure and agency Archer's work has constituted a decade long engagement with this perennial issue of social thought. However in spite of the deep interconnections that unify her body of work it is rarely treated as a coherent whole. This is doubtless in part due to the unforgiving rigour of her arguments and prose but also a byproduct of sociology's ongoing compartmentalisation. This edited collection seeks to address this relative neglect by collating a selection of papers spanning Archer's career which collectively elucidate both the development of her thought and the value that can be found in it as a systematic whole. This book illustrates the empirical origins of her social ontology in her early work on the sociology of education as well as foregrounding the diverse range of influences that have conditioned her intellectual trajectory: the systems theory of Walter Buckley, the neo Weberian analysis of Lockwood, the critical realist philosophy of Roy Bhaskar and more recently her engagement with American pragmatism and the Italian school of relational sociology. What emerges is a series of important contributions to our understanding of the relationship between structure, culture and agency. Acting to introduce and guide readers through these contributions, this book carries the potential to inform exciting and innovative sociological research.

Theories of Action and Morality Mark Alznauer, José M. Torralba, 2016-02-01. Die in diesem Band versammelten Essays erörtern die Frage nach der Möglichkeit des Verstehens menschlichen Handelns ohne den Rückbezug auf moralische Werte und Normen. Obwohl die Autoren sich dieser Frage auf ganz unterschiedliche, manchmal divergierende Weisen nähern, verbindet sie alle die Annahme, es sei nicht wünschenswert oder sogar inkohärent, das menschliche Handeln grundsätzlich unabhängig von moralischen Werten zu betrachten. Die Herausgeber haben sich um eine für Philosophen und Gesellschaftswissenschaftler gleichermaßen attraktive Beitragssammlung bemüht. Die Verknüpfung philosophischer und soziologischer Perspektiven könnte zur Klärung gegenseitiger Missverständnisse beitragen, die aufgrund eines mangelhaften Dialogs zwischen der philosophischen und soziologischen Handlungstheorie erwachsen sind. In diesem Band enthalten sind Essays von Terry Pinkard, Sebastian Rüdiger, Dieter Schönecker, Ana Marta González, John Levi Martin, Alejandro N. García Martínez, Sophie Djigo, Teresa Enríquez und Evgenia Mylonaki. The essays in this volume address the question of whether we can understand human action without reference to moral norms or values. Although the authors approach this question in different and sometimes even incompatible ways, they are united in thinking that it is undesirable or even incoherent to treat human agency as if it were conceptually independent of value questions. The editors have attempted to invite contributions that would be interesting to both philosophers and social theorists. The conjunction of philosophic and sociological perspectives might help to overcome some of the mutual misunderstandings that have been fostered by a lack of dialogue between the philosophic and sociological action theory. The volume includes essays by Terry Pinkard, Sebastian Rüdiger, Dieter Schönecker, Ana Marta González, John Levi Martin, Alejandro N. García Martínez, Sophie Djigo, Teresa Enríquez and Evgenia Mylonaki.

Conversations About Reflexivity Margaret S. Archer, 2009-12-18 Reflexivity is defined as the regular exercise of the mental ability shared by all normal people to consider themselves in relation to their social contexts and vice versa In addition to this sociological interest it allows us to hold idle or trivial internal conversations Focussing fully on this phenomenon this book discusses the three main questions associated with this subject in detail Where does the ability to be reflexive come from What part do our internal reflexive deliberations play in designing the courses of action we take subordinate to habitual action or not Is reflexivity a homogeneous practice for all people and invariant over history In addressing these questions contributors engage critically with the most relevant studies by luminaries such as G H Mead C S Pierce Habermas Luhmann Beck Giddens and Bourdieu Most contributors are leading Pragmatists or Critical Realists associated with the Reflexivity Forum an informal international and inter disciplinary group This combination of reference to influential writers of the past and the best of modern theory has produced a fascinating book that is essential reading for all students with a serious interest in social theory or critical realism

Moral Agency within Social Structures and Culture Daniel K. Finn, 2020-05-01 Christian ethics has addressed moral agency and culture from the start and Christian social ethics increasingly acknowledges the power of social structures However neither has made sufficient use of the discipline that specializes in understanding structures and culture sociology In Moral Agency within Social Structures and Culture editor and contributor Daniel K Finn proposes a field changing critical realist sociology that puts Christian ethics into conversation with modern discourses on human agency and social transformation Catholic social teaching mischaracterizes social evil as being little more than the sum of individual choices remedied through individual conversion Liberation theology points to the power of social structures but without specifying how structures affect moral agency Critical realist sociology provides a solution to both shortcomings This collection shows how sociological insights can deepen and extend Catholic social thought by enabling ethicists to analyze more precisely how structures and culture impact human decisions The book demonstrates how this sociological framework has applications for the study of the ecological crisis economic life and virtue ethics Moral Agency within Social Structures and Culture is a valuable tool for Christian ethicists who seek systemic change in accord with the Gospel

systematizes social theories in a new manner alternative both to the pluralistic concept according to which social theories are incommensurable and to the concept which postulates a theoretical synthesis in social sciences Kaczmarczyk argues that famous social theories constitute interrelated attempts to solve the same problem called the aporia of freedom The problem concerns the relation between existential assumptions of social determinism and human freedom Although these ideas turn out to be mutually exclusive they seem to be necessary for the construction of a coherent and empirically convincing social theory

Making our Way through the World Margaret S. Archer, 2007-06-14 How do we reflect upon ourselves and our concerns in relation to society and vice versa Human reflexivity works through internal conversations using language but also emotions sensations and images Most people acknowledge this inner dialogue and can report upon it However little research has been conducted on internal conversations and how they mediate between our ultimate concerns and the social contexts we confront In this book Margaret Archer argues that reflexivity is progressively replacing routine action in late modernity shaping how ordinary people make their way through the world Using interviewees life and work histories she shows how internal conversations guide the occupations people seek keep or quit their stances towards structural constraints and enablements and their resulting patterns of social mobility
