The Poetry of Shell Shock Daniel Hipp,2005-07-28 The British poets Wilfred Owen Ivor Gurney and Siegfried Sassoon found themselves psychologically altered by what they experienced in the First World War Owen was hospitalized in April 1917 for shell shock in Scotland where he met Siegfried Sassoon in June of that year hospitalized for the same affliction Ivor Gurney found the war ironically to have been a place of relative stability within an otherwise tormented life When he was wounded during the war's final year his doctors observed signs of mental illness which evolved into incapacitating psychosis by 1922 For each of these men all poets before the war poetry served as a way to inscribe continuity into their lives enabling them to retaliate against the war's propensity to render the lives of the participants discontinuous Poetry allowed them to return to the war through memory and imagination and poetry helped them to bring themselves back from psychological breakdown to a state of stability based upon a relationship to the war that their literary war enabled them to create and discover This work investigates the ways in which the poetry of war functioned as a means for these three men to express the inexpressible and to extract value out of the experience of war Bibliography and index are also included Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here Fields of Agony: British Poetry of the First World War Stuart Sillars,2007-01-01 This rich and valuable ebook has numerous fascinating hyperlinks to online resources It discusses significant individual poems by the writers named exploring them within their social political and aesthetic frames and summarising important earlier critical readings and responses It is copiously illustrated and covers Thomas Hardy Popular Poetry Anthologies War Poetry by Women the work of Graves Blunden and Gurney Siegfried Sassoon Wilfred Owen Edward Thomas David Jones Irish poetry Scottish poetry War Poetry and Modernism Touch and Intimacy in First World War Literature Santanu Das,2006-04-06 The First World War ravaged the male body on an unprecedented scale yet fostered moments of physical intimacy and tenderness among the soldiers in the trenches Touch the most elusive and private of the senses became central to war experience War writing is haunted by experiences of physical contact from the muddy realities of the front to the emotional intensity of trench life to the traumatic obsession with the wounded body in nurses memoirs Through extensive archival and historical research analysing previously unknown letters and diaries alongside literary writings by figures such as Owen and Brittain Santanu Das recovers the sensuous world of the First World War trenches and hospitals This original and evocative study alters our understanding of the period as well as of the body at war and illuminates the perilous intimacy between sense experience emotion and language as we try to make meaning in times of crisis Issues in Reading, Writing and Speaking A. The Afterlife of Shakespeare's Sonnets Jane Kingsley-Smith, 2019-08-29 An original account of the reception and influence of Shakespeare's Sonnets in his own time and in later literary history

"My Rebellious and Imperfect Eye", 2021-10-18 My Rebellious and Imperfect Eye Observing Geoffrey Grigson acknowledges and celebrates Geoffrey Grigson 1905-1985 as an all round man as a distinctive lyrical poet as the exact observer of nature and of men in the past and in the present as a pioneering literary critic and art critic as an unrivalled anthologist as a ground breaking editor as a broadcaster as a botanist the list could be extended In an unsurpassed number of diverse areas of artistic and natural culture Grigson passionately communicated all he experienced and felt to as wide an audience as possible Therefore as the centenary of his birth comes in view it seems singularly appropriate to celebrate Geoffrey Grigson's unique contribution to the twentieth century cultural scene In a writing career spanning nearly sixty years he was unmatched by any of his contemporaries for a range which reaches from the edges of journalism into and beyond the academic world In prose and verse the nineteen contributors to this volume amongst them some of the most distinguished names in contemporary English letters would hardly claim to have covered every aspect of Grigson's genius but they do manage to touch upon most of the territory he illuminated The volume contains a full bibliography of Grigson's work and a number of his drawings

Writing the English Republic David Norbrook, 1999 A marvellously original densely researched study of the English republican imagination Tom Paulin The Independent

Something We Have That They Don't Steve & Mark Clark & Ford, Steven H. Clark, 2004-04 There is some connexion I like the way the English spell it They're so clever about some things Probably smarter generally than we are Although there is supposed to be something We have that they don't don't ask me What it is John Ashbery Tenth Symphony Something We Have That They Don't presents a variety of essays on the relationship between British and American poetry since 1925 The essays collected here all explore some aspect of the rich and complex history of Anglo American poetic relations of the last seventy years Since the dawn of Modernism poets either side of the Atlantic have frequently inspired each other's developments from Frost's galvanizing advice to Edward Thomas to rearrange his prose as verse to Eliot's and Auden's enormous influence on the poetry of their adopted nations whichever Auden is Eliot once replied when asked if he were a British or an American poet I suppose I must be the other from the impact of Charles Olson and other Black Mountain poets on J H Prynne and the Cambridge School to the widespread influence of Frank O'Hara and Robert Lowell on a diverse range of contemporary British poets. Clark and Ford's study aims to chart some of the currents of these ever-shifting relations. Poets discussed in these essays include John Ashbery, W.H. Auden, Elizabeth Bishop, T.S. Eliot, Mark Ford, Robert Graves, Thom Gunn, Lee Harwood, Geoffrey Hill, Michael Hofmann, Susan Howe, Robert Lowell, and W.B. Yeats. Poetry and sovereignty, Philip Larkin remarked in an interview of 1982, are very primitive things; these essays consider the ways in which even seemingly very unprimitive poetries can be seen as reflecting and engaging with issues of national sovereignty and self-interest and in the process they pose a series of fascinating questions about the national narratives that currently dominate definitions of the British and American poetic traditions. This innovative and exciting new collection will be of great interest to students and scholars of British and American poetry and comparative literature.
