in International Relations Oliver P. Richmond, 2020-01-06 This updated and revised second edition examines the conceptualisation and evolution of peace in International Relations IR theory The book examines the concept of peace and its usage in the main theoretical debates in IR including realism liberalism constructivism critical theory and post structuralism as well as in the more direct debates on peace and conflict studies It explores themes relating to culture development agency and structure not just in terms of representations of IR and of peace but in terms of the discipline of IR itself The work also specifically explores the recent mantras associated with liberal and neoliberal versions of peace which appear to have become foundational for much of the mainstream literature and for doctrines for peace and development in the policy world Analysing war has often led to the dominance and mitigation of violence as a basic assumption in and response to the problems of IR This study aims to redress this negative balance by arguing that the discipline offers a rich basis for the study of peace which has advanced significantly over the last century or so It also proposes innovative theoretical dimensions of the study of peace with new chapters discussing post colonial and digital developments This book will be of great interest to students of peace and conflict studies politics and IR
