This Is A New Release Of The Original 1909 Edition The Apostle of Alaska John William Arctander, 2015-06-27 Excerpt from The Apostle of Alaska The Story of William Duncan of Metlakahtla While touring in Southeastern Alaska in 1903 I first heard of the remarkable story of Metlakahtla When in the following summer the call of the North land came upon me again I hied myself to the beautiful village to investigate what sounded like a veritable fairy tale I was cordially received and entertained by Mr William Duncan and spent a most pleasant summer with him and his people It was then I conceived the idea of becoming the historian of this interesting little nation and the biographer of their wonderful leader With this object in view I have ever since spent all my vacation months in the little village and during the summer just past 1908 I wrote this book under the inspiring sky of Metlakahtla During these summer months I have had the unspeakable pleasure day after day to listen to the interesting table talks of Mr Duncan to witness him in his own inimitable dramatic style unrolling word painting after word painting of the many interesting incidents of his life work and thrilling experiences After each one of these interesting talks I made it a point to write down his narrative as nearly as possible in the identical language used by him while everything he had said was still fresh in my memory About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Apostle of Alaska Karl Johan Ludwig Wilhelm August Arctander, 1909 The Apostle of Alaska; the Story of William Duncan, of Metlakahtla Jno W 1849-1920 Arctander, 2017-08-21 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible Therefore you will see the original copyright references library stamps as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world and other notations in the work This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work As a reproduction of a historical artifact this work may contain missing or blurred pages poor pictures errant marks etc Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public We

Memory Eternal Sergei Kan, 2014-07-01 In Memory Eternal Sergei Kan combines anthropology and history anecdote and theory to portray the encounter between the Tlingit Indians and the Russian Orthodox Church in Alaska in the late 1700s and to analyze the indigenous Orthodoxy that developed over the next 200 years As a native speaker of Russian with eighteen years of fieldwork experience among the Tlingit Kan is uniquely qualified to relate little known material from the archives of the Russian church in Alaska to Tlingit oral history and his own observations By weighing the one body of evidence against the other he has reevaluated this history arriving at a persuasive new concept of converged agendas the view that the Tlingit and the Russians tended to act in mutually beneficial ways but for entirely different reasons throughout the period of their contact with one another The Russian American Company began operations in southeastern Alaska in the 1790s Against a description of Tlingit culture at the time of the Russians arrival Kan examines Russian Orthodox theology ritual practice and missionary methods and the Tlingit response to them An uneasy symbiosis characterized the early era of the Russian American Company when the trading relationship outweighed any spiritual or social rapprochement A second major focus of Kan s study is the Tlingit experience with American colonial domination He attributes a sudden revival of Tlingit interest in Orthodoxy in the 1880s as their attempt to maintain independence in the face of concerted efforts by the newcomers and especially Presbyterian missionaries to Americanize them Memory Eternal shows the colonial encounter to be both a power struggle and a dialogue between different systems of meaning It portrays Native Alaskans not as helpless victims but as historical agents who attempted to adjust to the changing reality of their social world without abandoning fundamental principles of their precolonial sociocultural order or their strong sense of self respect

Gunboat Frontier Barry M. Gough,1984 Publisher description Gunboat Frontier presents a different interpretation of Indian white relations in nineteenth century British Columbia focusing on the interaction of West Coast Indians with British law and authority This authority was exercised by officers seamen marines and ships of the Royal Navy on behalf of the colonial governments of Vancouver Island and British Columbia and after 1871 of Canada Barry Gough presents new historical evidence provided by the Admiralty Papers an important source of information about nineteenth century Northwest Coast Indian life Drawing on these and other archival and governmental records he chronicles encounters between the Royal Navy and the Indians over missions piracies Native slavery liquor trafficking and crimes against persons and property leading to the final cases of gunboat diplomacy used against local Indians in the late 1880s

The Great Father in Alaska Robert E. Price,1990 The political history of the Tlingit and Haida Indians of Alaska whose reliance upon salmon to maintain their way of life was not protected by the United States government Includes photographs map and references

Spirituality in Higher Education Heewon Chang,Drick Boyd,2011-03-15 This collection of articles explores how a wide range of academics diverse in location rank and discipline understand and express how they deal with spirituality in their professional lives and how they integrate spirituality in teaching research administration and advising The contributors also analyze the culture of academia and its challenges to the spiritual development of those involved Twenty chapter authors from a variety of faith traditions discuss the ways in which their own beliefs have affected their journeys through higher education By using an autoethnographic self analytical lens this collection shows how various spiritualities have influenced how higher education is understood taught and performed The book will stimulate debate and conversations on a topic traditionally ignored in academia
