The Aquatic Explorers A History Of The Fisheries Research Board Of Canada:

The Aquatic Explorers Kenneth Johnstone, 1977-12-15 In 1898 a group of scientists working without pay often under hazardous conditions with only the most primitive equipment began a systematic study of the fishes in Canada's inland and marine waters. The team operated under the aegis of a board of management which was later to evolve into the Fisheries Research Board, a scientific organization that has placed Canada among the world's leaders in fishery knowledge. This history of the Fisheries Research Board examines the aims and achievements of its research, its attempts to deal with the often conflicting demands of pure and applied science and its confrontations with a frequently uncomprehending and dissatisfied government. The people who shaped and sustained the organization figure prominently in the account. In depth taped interviews with senior members and employees of the Fisheries Research Board as well as the Annual Reports and other publications of the Department of Fisheries have enabled Kenneth Johnstone to produce a rich history of a remarkable scientific organization.

Canadian Oceans Policy Don M. McRae, Gordon Munro, 2011-11-01 This book deals with Canada's oceans management policies since the conclusion of the 1982 Convention of the Law of the Sea. That Convention set out a jurisdictional framework for the management of the world's oceans but it did not provide states with precise guidance on all the issues that can arise. As a state with one of the world's longest coastlines, Canada was one of the principal beneficiaries under the 1982 Convention regime. A study of Canadian policy is particularly significant as Canadian oceans management places in relief many of the difficult questions yet to be resolved. The central theme of this book, whose multidisciplinary contributors include leading Canadian participants in the Third United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea as well as leading Canadian academic and government oceans specialists, concerns the adequacy of the Canadian management responses to a new oceans regime which grants substantial jurisdiction to the coastal state. The chapters look at dispute settlement, maritime boundaries and examine future Canadian and international policy directions. They are both analytical and prophetic, providing an assessment of the past and presenting a glimpse of the future. Canadian Oceans Policy provides insights into how Canada is managing the oceans and ocean resources off its coast and looks at the problems that lie ahead. The book also makes a major contribution to our understanding of an increasingly vital area of global politics. It will be of interest both to academics and policymakers and to all those concerned with the future of the oceans.

A Century of Maritime Science Jennifer M. Hubbard, David Wildish, Robert L. Stephenson, 2016-05-12 Located on the Bay of Fundy, the St Andrews Biological Station is Canada's oldest permanent marine research institution. A Century of Maritime Science reviews the fisheries, environmental, oceanographic and aquaculture research conducted over the last hundred years at St Andrews from the perspective of the participating scientists. Introductory essays by two leading historians of science situate the work at St Andrews within their historical context. With topics including the contributions of women to the early study of marine biology in Canada, the study of scallops, Atlantic salmon and paralytic shellfish poisoning.

and the development of underwater camera technology A Century of Maritime Science offers a captivating mixture of first hand reminiscences scientific expertise and historical analysis

Fishing the Great Lakes Margaret Beattie Bogue, 2001-06-28 Fishing the Great Lakes is a sweeping history of the destruction of the once abundant fisheries of the great inland seas that lie between the United States and Canada Though lake trout whitefish freshwater herring and sturgeon were still teeming as late as 1850 Margaret Bogue documents here how overfishing pollution political squabbling poor public policies and commercial exploitation combined to damage the fish populations even before the voracious sea lamprey invaded the lakes and decimated the lake trout population in the 1940s From the earliest records of fishing by native peoples through the era of European exploration and settlement to the growth and collapse of the commercial fishing industry Fishing the Great Lakes traces the changing relationships between the fish resources and the people of the Great Lakes region Bogue focuses in particular on the period from 1783 when Great Britain and the United States first politically severed the geographic unity of the Great Lakes through 1933 when the commercial fishing industry had passed from its heyday in the late nineteenth century into very serious decline She shows how fishermen entrepreneurial fish dealers the monopolistic A Booth and Company which distributed and marketed much of the Great Lakes catch and policy makers at all levels of government played their parts in the debacle So too did underfunded scientists and early conservationists unable to spark the interest of an indifferent public Concern with the quality of lake habitat and the abundance of fish increasingly took a backseat to the interests of agriculture lumbering mining commerce manufacturing and urban development in the Great Lakes region Offering more than a regional history Bogue also places the problems of Great Lakes fishing in the context of past and current worldwide fishery concerns

A Fishery for Modern Times Miriam Carol Wright, 2001-01-01 A Fishery for Modern Times examines the ways in which the state ideologies of development and political economic and social factors along with political actors and fishing company owners contributed to the expansion of the industrial fishery from the 1930s through the 1960s

Sea Has Many Voices Cynthia Lamson, 1994-03-22 Each chapter describes the dynamics or tensions within a specific marine sector or policy community Collectively the contributors raise critical questions about the process structure and function of Canadian oceans policy covering topics such as the Atlantic fishery conservation ocean science and technology shipping aboriginal rights defence and pollution The book conveys a cautiously optimistic message although Canada does not yet have a comprehensive oceans policy there is growing evidence that the problem policy and political streams are converging Canada must be ready to respond to this policy opportunity with clear objectives and appropriate program elements that mediate between competing interests and conflicting values Those who construct Canada's oceans policy must be capable of calculating risks and challenging the status quo to create a workable sustainable framework for oceans governance in our increasingly complex world The contributors to this collection are Robert Boardman Darlene Boyle Mark Butler Scott F Coffen Raymond P C t Graham Day Lloyd M Dickie Gaye Drescher Wade Elliot Terry Fenge Julia Gardner Robert Gorham Cynthia Lamson Jos e M Parent Randall Prime Barbara Riley Timothy A Smith John Somers and Jeffrey L C Wright

How Deep is the Ocean? James E. Candow, Carol Corbin, 1997 The collapse of the North Atlantic cod fishery in 1992 was one of the world's worst ecological disasters and in 1995 Spanish and Canadian trawlers faced off over the dwindling supply of turbot Where there used to be plenty there is now virtually nothing fishing communities that once survived or even prospered now face ruin The twenty essays in How Deep is the Ocean take a detailed look at the evolution of the Canadian east coast fishery The book begins with aboriginal fishers before European contact then it follows the European fishery through the days of sail when boats could scarcely make headway through the teeming cod to the diesel age when electronic aids can find almost no cod How Deep is the Ocean covers the sociology of early fishing communities the impact and significance of the credit system and the techniques and technologies of aboriginal European and Canadian fisheries The essays on the twentieth century include old time fishing patterns of living memory and the changed state of the North Atlantic's ecology
