The Architectural Interpretation Of History:

The Architectural Interpretation of History John Gloag, 1975 Interpretation in Architecture Adrian Snodgrass, Richard Coyne, 2013-05-13 Drawing on cultural theory phenomenology and concepts from Asian art and philosophy this book reflects on the role of interpretation in the act of architectural creation bringing an intellectual and scholarly dimension to real world architectural design practice For practising architects as well as academic researchers these essays consider interpretation from three theoretical standpoints or themes play edification and otherness Focusing on these the book draws together strands of thought informed by the diverse reflections of hermeneutical scholarship the uses of digital media and studio teaching and practice The Architect : Chapters in the History of the Profession Berkeley Spiro Kostof Professor of Architectural History University of California, 1977-01-06 How did architects get to be architects in any given period in history How were they trained How did they find their clients and communicate with them What did society think of them Spiro Kostof's The Architect a collection of essays by historians and architects explores these and other intriguing questions about the profession of architecture The first book in more than fifty years to survey the profession from its beginnings in ancient Egypt to the modern day it is the most complete synthesis to date of our knowledge of how the architect's profession developed Included are a major study of the Beaux Arts a vivid memoir by the distinguished architect Joseph Esherick and an excellent chapter on women which demonstrates how the ethic of professionalism has contributed to the exploitation of women in this as in many other professions The Architect places the current dilemma about the architect's role in society in historical perspective and offers a good overview of the development of one of the world's oldest professions

History Beyond the Text Sarah Barber, Corinna Peniston-Bird, 2013-02-01 Historians are increasingly looking beyond the traditional and turning to visual oral aural and virtual sources to inform their work The challenges these sources pose require new skills of interpretation and require historians to consider alternative theoretical and practical approaches In order to help historians successfully move beyond traditional text Sarah Barber and Corinna Peniston Bird bring together chapters from historical specialists in the fields of fine art photography film oral history architecture virtual sources music cartoons landscape and material culture to explain why when and how these less traditional sources can be used Each chapter introduces the reader to the source suggests the methodological and theoretical questions historians should keep in mind when using it and provides case studies to illustrate best practice in analysis and interpretation Pulling these disparate sources together the introduction discusses the nature of historical sources and those factors which are unique to and shared by the sources covered throughout the book Taking examples from around the globe this collection of essays aims to inspire practitioners of history to expand their horizons and incorporate a wide variety of primary sources in their work The Mental Life of the Architectural Historian Gevork Hartoonian, 2014-08-11 Starting with the question concerning the discursive formation of architectural history the chapters compiled in this book attempt to re read the historiography of early modern architecture from the point of view of the theoretical work produced since the post war era Central to the objectives of the argument are the ways in which firstly architectural history differs from the traditions of art history and secondly that the historical narrative works its autonomy through theoretical representation the discursive flow of which is interrupted by the historian's urge to support arguments with references to buildings texts drawings and historical events The historians discussed in this volume are those regularly addressed by most critics revisiting modern architectural history Individual chapters are dedicated to N Pevsner H R Hitchcock and S Giedion an economy of selection that is formative for a critical understanding of the canon established by these historians Themes such as periodization autonomy and time are discussed and the coda of the final chapter expands on the scope of critical historiography popularised by Kenneth Frampton and Manfredo Tafuri

The Architectural Review, 1909 Reading Architectural History Dana Arnold, 2003-09-02

Architectural history is more than just the study of buildings Architecture of the past and present remains an essential emblem of a distinctive social system and set of cultural values and as a result it has been the subject of study of a variety of disciplines But what is architectural history and how should we read it Reading Architectural History examines the historiographic and socio cultural implications of the mapping of British architectural history with particular reference to eighteenth and nineteenth century Britain Discursive essays consider a range of writings from biographical and social histories to visual surveys and guidebooks to examine the narrative structures of histories of architecture and their impact on perception and understanding of the architecture of the past Alongside this each chapter cites canonical histories juxtaposed with a range of social and cultural theorists to reveal that these writings are richer than we have perhaps recognised and that architectural production in this period can be interrogated in the same way as that from more recent past and can be read in a variety of ways The essays and texts combine to form an essential course reader for methods and critical approaches to architectural history and more generally as examples of the kind of evidence used in the formation of architectural histories while also offering a thematic introduction to architecture in Britain and its social and cultural meaning

Writing Architectural History Aggregate Architectural History Collaborative, 2021-12-14 Over the past two decades scholarship in architectural history has transformed moving away from design studio pedagogy and postmodern historicism to draw instead from trends in critical theory focusing on gender race the environment and more recently global history connecting to revisionist trends in other fields With examples across space and time from medieval European coin trials and eighteenth century Haitian revolutionary buildings to Weimar German construction firms and present day African refugee camps Writing Architectural History considers the impact of these shifting institutional landscapes and disciplinary positionings for architectural history Contributors reveal how new methodological approaches have developed interdisciplinary research beyond the traditional boundaries of art history departments and architecture schools and explore the challenges and opportunities presented by conventional and unorthodox forms of evidence and narrative the tools used to write history The History of Scottish Theology, Volume II David Fergusson, Mark Elliott, 2019-09-12 This three volume work comprises over eighty essays surveying the history of Scottish theology from the early middle ages onwards. Written by an international team of scholars, the collection provides the most comprehensive review yet of the theological movements, figures, and themes that have shaped Scottish culture and exercised a significant influence in other parts of the world. Attention is given to different traditions and to the dispersion of Scottish theology through exile migration and missionary activity. The volumes present in diachronic perspective the theologies that have flourished in Scotland from early monasticism until the end of the twentieth century. The History of Scottish Theology Volume I covers the period from the appearance of Christianity around the time of Columba to the era of Reformed Orthodoxy in the seventeenth century. Volume II begins with the early Enlightenment and concludes in late Victorian Scotland. Volume III explores the long twentieth century. Recurrent themes and challenges are assessed but also new currents and theological movements that arose through Renaissance humanism, Reformation teaching, federal theology, the Scottish Enlightenment, evangelicalism, missionary, Biblical criticism, idealist philosophy, dialectical theology, and existentialism. Chapters also consider the Scots Catholic colleges in Europe, Gaelic women writers, philosophical scepticism, the dialogue with science, and the reception of theology in liturgy, hymnody, art, literature, architecture, and stained glass. Contributors also discuss the treatment of theological themes in Scottish literature.

Pillars in the History of Biblical Interpretation, Volume 2 Stanley E. Porter, Sean A. Adams, 2016-11-03 This two volume set is part of a growing body of literature concerned with the history of biblical interpretation. The ample introduction first situates key players in the story of the development of the major strands of biblical interpretation since the Enlightenment, identifying how different theoretical and methodological approaches are related to each other and describing the academic environment in which they emerged and developed. Volume 1 contains fourteen essays on twenty two interpreters who were principally active before 1980 and volume 2 has nineteen essays on twenty seven of those who were active primarily after this date. Each chapter provides a brief biography of one or more scholars as well as a detailed description of their major contributions to the field. This is followed by an often new application of the scholar's theory. By focusing on the individual scholars and their work, the book recognizes that interpretive approaches arise out of certain circumstances and that scholars are influenced by and have influences upon both other interpreters and the times in which they live. This set is ideal for any class on the history of biblical interpretation and for those who want a greater understanding of how the current field of biblical studies developed.

Current Work in Architectural History Society of Architectural Historians of Great Britain. Symposium, 2005 A History of American Architecture Mark Gelernter, 2001 Presents a history of American architecture from the first civilizations in America to the present Shoah Presence: Architectural Representations of the Holocaust Eran Neuman, 2016-04-01 Through the analysis of several commemorative acts in space, matter, and image, namely museums and memorials, this book reflects on the ways in which architecture as a discipline, a practice, and a discourse represents the Holocaust In doing so it problematises how one presents an extreme historical case in a contemporary context and integrates the historical into actuality By examining several cases the book defines the issues faced by various architects who dealt with this topic and discusses their separate and distinctive approaches In each case it analyses the ways in which the cultural and political contexts of commemoration led to a different interpretation of the condition Focusing on the Ghetto Fighters House the world's first Holocaust museum Yad Vashem Israel's national Holocaust memorial in Jerusalem the US Holocaust Memorial Museum in Washington and the Holocaust Memorial in Berlin the book discusses how the representation of history by architecture creates a dialectic process in which architecture mediates the past to the present while at the same time creating a present saturated with historical contexts It shows how together they are incorporated into one another and create a new reality past and present intertwined Robert Willis (1800-1875)

and the Foundation of Architectural History Alexandrina Buchanan, 2013 The first full scale biography of Robert Willis the founding father of architectural history WINNER of the Cambridge Association for Local History book award 2016 Robert Willis was the archetypal nineteenth century polymath Officially as Jacksonian Professor of Natural and Experimental Philosophy at the University of Cambridge he specialized in the study of mechanism which he also taught at the Royal School of Mines in London In the field of science he was an experimentalist inventor and educational innovator Meanwhile in his spare time he pursued his passion pioneering the serious study of architectural history Initially his work was aimed at architects his role in providing an intellectual underpinning to the contemporary Gothic Revival was acknowledged by the award of the gold medal of the Royal Institute of British Architects in 1862 However his main contribution was more historical Starting with Canterbury in 1844 over the course of his career he investigated almost every English cathedral and developed an approach combining documentary and archaeological research which remains in use today His studies culminated in the monumental Architectural History of the University of Cambridge still the definitive account of its subject In this fascinating and lavishly illustrated intellectual biography drawn from extensive archival and architectural research the author sheds new light on the interconnections between Willis's varied fields of interest and his fundamental role in the creation of a discipline ALEXANDRINA BUCHANAN is both an architectural historian and an archivist her introduction to archives came through cataloguing the papers of Robert Willis at the Cambridge University Library She is now Lecturer in Archive Studies at the University of Liverpool A Cultural History of Three Traditional Hawaiian Sites on the West Coast of Hawai'i Island Linda W.
