The Economic Development Of Austria Since 1870 Ecdevmodeur:

The Economic Development of Austria Since 1870 Herbert Matis, 1994 This succinct volume of previously published articles and papers is aimed at those interested in particular problems of Austrian economic and social history It clearly emerges from the volume that much of Austria's economic history remains the subject of dispute and there is still much research work to be done The Economic Development of Austria since 1870 is intended to shed further light upon the interaction of economic social and political factors in Austria's development The volume begins with a comprehensive new introduction written by the editor and follows with important contributions on The Habsburg Monarchy 1870 1918 The Interwar Period 1918 1938 Austria after Anschluss 1938 1945 and Austria's Economy 1945 1990 Austria's Economic Development After the Two World Wars Gottfried Haberler, 1979 An Economic Spurt that Failed Alexander Gerschenkron, 2015-03-08 In 1900 the newly appointed Austrian prime minister Ernest von Koerber initiated a novel program of economic development designed to solve the political and economic problems of the Habsburg Monarchy Ambitious and ingenious as the plan was it proved a failure and in this book Alexander Gerschenkron assesses its career and significance for both Austrian and European history The author explains the importance of Koerber's experiment as a way of increasing Austria's economic strength while drawing the country out of divisive political struggles He ascribes its failure primarily to the obstructionist tactics of Eugen von Bohlin Bawerk the famous economist who headed the Austrian Ministry of Finance In describing the experiment's brief but striking success Professor Gerschenkron challenges the widespread belief among scholars that disintegrating nationalist forces were irresistible Originally published in 1977 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Austria's Economic Development Gottfried Haberler, 1980 Austria's Economic Development Between the Two Wars Kurt Wilhelm Rothschild, 1947 Notes largely bibliographical at end of each chapter Austria's Economic Development after the Two World Wars Haberler, 1980 Lost Momentum Herman Freudenberger, 2003 By 1810 the Austrian empire had achieved an economic momentum that seemed to promise substantial success It may have been in as good a position as if not better than the territorial entities of Germany proper The present study began with the idea that in its institutional framework as well as in its natural resources the Habsburg monarchy was in a respectable position for development Austria had been brought to this point by a great momentum that originated with Maria Theresa and continued with her energetic if politically unwise son Joseph II as well as her more pedestrian grandson Franz Austrian policy promoting economic development was a combination of government action and private initiative which was of course not unique to Austria but the persistence of bureaucratic interference and the weakness of private entrepreneurship proved harmful By design this study places major emphasis on human activities Consequently the roles of central government bureaucrats and regional and local officials have been stressed Even more emphasis has been placed however on Austrian Moravian and Bohemian entrepreneurs with mercantile and artisan backgrounds Swiss and west German Protestants and indigenous and foreign Jews and finally and importantly aristocratic landowners
