The Economic Emergence of the Black Country T. J. Raybould, 1973 The Economic Emergence of the Black Country T. J. Raybould, 1973 The economic emergence of the Black Country Estates, Enterprise and Investment at the Dawn of the Industrial Revolution David Oldroyd, 2017-05-15 At the beginning of the eighteenth century the landed estate represented the largest and most clearly defined type of business organisation in existence in pre industrial England Given the need for capital wayleave rights and a ready supply of coal iron and other raw materials it is unsurprising that most historians tend to place Britain s formative industrial development on such estates where all these elements were available Yet despite this consensus relatively little attention has been paid to the management and accountancy practices of these estates which have the potential to reveal much about the development of the industrial revolution In this study the management practice on estates in the north east of England c 1700 1780 is examined through the lens of the accounts and supporting documentation Accounts encompassed every aspect of estate operations from the housekeeper s groceries to the lead and coal mines and thus provide direct evidence of the underlying management systems over a diverse range of activities The information flows on estates serve as an excellent medium for testing hypotheses concerning the management of estates and the attitudes of their owners and stewards Focusing on the surviving accounts of three leading gentry families Bowes Ridley and Cotesworth who came from contrasting social backgrounds two main issues are addressed The first concerns the productivity of estates Were estates managed efficiently as productive investments and more specifically to what extent can the landowners and their stewards legitimately be described as capitalists The second related question asks in what ways did accounting aid managerial activity at this early stage of industrial development These are the central questions this book addresses through examination of the nature and function of accounts within the organisation By looking in detail at records from this crucial region during the period of transition to an industrial County Borough Elections in England and Wales, 1919-1938: A Comparative Analysis Sam Davies, Bob Morley, 2016-12-05 These volumes provide an essential comprehensive work of reference for the annual municipal elections that took place each November in the 83 County Boroughs of England and Wales between 1919 and 1938 They also provide an extensive and detailed analysis of municipal politics in the same period both in terms of the individual boroughs and of aggregate patterns of political behaviour Being annual these local election results give the clearest and most authoritative record of how political opinion changed between general elections especially useful for research into the longer gaps such as 1924 29 and 1935 45 or crisis periods such as 1929 31 They also illuminate the impact of fringe parties such as the Communist Party and the British Union of Fascists and also such questions as the role of women in politics the significance of religious and ethnic differentiation and the connection between occupational and class divisions and party allegiance Analysis at the ward level is particularly useful for socio spatial studies A major work of reference County Borough Elections in England and Wales 1919 1938 is indispensable for university libraries and local and national record offices Each volume has approximately 700 pages

A Polite and Commercial People Paul Langford, 1998 This book the first volume to appear of the New Oxford History of England offers the most authoritative comprehensive general history of England between the accession of George II and the loss of America Though conventionally seen as static and politically stable the eighteenth century was an age of extraordinary vitality and variety of contrasts and change Beneath the serene surface of aristocratic government stately manners and Georgian elegance lay a less orderly world of treasonable plots riotous mobs and Hogarthian vulgarity While rapid commercial growth and burgeoning bourgeois pretensions gave rise to the positive achievements of military success and imperial expansion cultural confidence and polite manners tensions and contradictions simmered and threatened Evangelical enthusiasm jostled with scientific rationalism oligarchical politics with popular insubordination entrepreneurial opulence with plebian poverty sentimentality with utilitarian reform Using the most up to date research Paul Langford reveals the true character of the age and demonstrates that eighteenth century society was both strengthened and stretched by the changes to which it was subjected

THE NEW OXFORD HISTORY OF ENGLAND series General Editor J M Roberts The first volume of Sir George Clark's Oxford History of England was published in 1934 Over the following fifty years that series established itself as a standard work of reference and a repertoire of scholarship for hundreds of thousands of readers The New Oxford History of England of which this is the first volume is its successor Each volume will set out an authoritative view of the present state of scholarship presenting a distillation of the new knowledge built up by a half century's research and publication of new sources and incorporating the perspectives and judgements of a new generation of scholars It is the intention of the General Editor and the Publisher that shall worthily take the place of its predecessor as the standard authoritative account of the national history and achieve a similar classic standing
