The Economics Of New Technology In Developing Countries Frances Stewart, Jeffrey James, 2019-09-06 This book is the outcome of a Development Studies Association Workshop on Technology that we convened in Queen Elizabeth House in March 1980 In the 1960s and 1970s most research on technology in poor countries was directed at the question of the labour or capital intensity of production technique sometimes described as the neo classical question But recently largely as a result of the findings of such research the focus has changed quite radically The collection of essays raises questions as much as it provides answers but in so doing it provides a comprehensive introduction to the major new topics which are of substantial concern to those working on issues of technology and development The Economics Of New Technology In Developing

Role of IT- ITES in Economic Development of Asia Soumyen Sikdar, Ramesh Chandra Das, Rajib Bhattacharyya, 2020-10-09 This book focuses on the contribution of Information Technology IT and Information Technology Enabled Services ITES in shaping the current and future global economic scenario with a special focus on Asia and taking into account the three broad macroeconomic dimensions growth sustainability and governance mechanisms The last two decades have witnessed a structural shift in the world economy due to the tremendous growth in gross domestic product share for the service sector in fact service has emerged as the dominant sector and the main driver of GDP growth This is mainly attributable to the spectacular success of the IT sector in the new knowledge economy Tradability technology and transportability the three T's govern productivity growth in today's services. Growing Asian economies such as India, China, and Vietnam, using their demographic advantages, have been reaping the benefits of this boom. The book's content focuses on recent debates and discussions concerning the issue of long-term sustainability and governance, especially in India, as these companies are facing continuous challenges in terms of international competition, salary inflation, health hazards, scarcity of talent, employee attrition, security concerns, global slowdown, and many other technology-related issues. The book further highlights how the increased application of IT-based products and services is resulting in harsh inequalities concerning income distribution in many developing countries of Asia, mainly because of its labor-shedding nature and hence might be detrimental to sustainable development if suitable policy measures are not implemented to counter these effects. The book provides a wealth of information for researchers, graduate students, and political scientists alike, as well as thought-provoking insights for social scientists, policymakers, and government officials. It also offers a valuable source of data for business and management professionals and for members of Chambers of Commerce and Industry.

Handbook of Innovation Systems and Developing Countries Bengt-Åke Lundvall, K.J. Joseph, Cristina Chaminade, Jan Vang, 2011-01-01

The innovation systems (IS) approach emerged as a theoretical framework in the industrialized world in the mid-1990s to explain innovation and growth in the developed world. This Handbook is the first attempt to adapt the IS approach to developing countries from a theoretical and empirical viewpoint. The Handbook brings eminent scholars in economics, innovation, and development studies together with promising young researchers to review the literature and push theoretical boundaries. They critically review the IS approach and its adequacy for developing countries, discuss the relationship between IS and development, and address the question of how it should be adapted to the realities of developing nations. Spanning national, sectoral, and regional innovation systems across Asia, Latin America, and Africa, and written by the world's leading scholars within the field, this comprehensive Handbook will strongly appeal to academics, researchers, and students with an interest in innovation and technology in developing countries.
