Lee,2012-10-12 The work of art's mattering and materialization in a globalized world with close readings of works by Takahashi Murakami, Andreas Gursky, Thomas Hirschhorn and others. It may be time to forget the art world or at least to recognize that a certain historical notion of the art world is in eclipse. Today the art world spins on its axis so quickly that its maps can no longer be read; its borders blur. In Forgetting the Art World, Pamela Lee connects the current state of this world to globalization and its attendant controversies. Contemporary art has responded to globalization with images of movement and migration, borders and multitudes, but Lee looks beyond iconography to view globalization as a world process. Rather than think about the global art world as a socioeconomic phenomenon or in terms of the imagery it stages and sponsors, Lee considers the work of art's world as a medium through which globalization takes place. She argues that the work of art is itself both object and agent of globalization. Lee explores the ways that art actualizes, iterates or enables the processes of globalization, offering close readings of works by artists who have come to prominence in the last two decades. She examines the just-in-time managerial ethos of Takahashi Murakami, the production of ethereal spaces in Andreas Gursky's images of contemporary markets and manufacture, the logic of immanent cause dramatized in Thomas Hirschhorn's mixed media displays and the pseudo-collectivism in the contemporary practice of the Atlas Group, the Rags Media Collective and others. To speak of the work of art's world, Lee says, is to point to both the work of art's mattering and its materialization, to understand the activity performed by the object as utterly continuous with the world it at once inhabits and creates.

The Art of the Project Johnnie

Gratton, Michael Sheringham, 2005-10-01. The idea of the project crosses generic disciplinary and cultural frontiers. At a time when writers and artists are increasingly describing their practices as projects, remarkably little critical attention has been paid to the actual idea of the project. This collection of essays responds to an urgent need by suggesting a framework for evaluating the notion of the project in the light of various modernist and postmodernist cultural practices drawn mainly but not exclusively from the French-speaking domain. The overview offered by this volume promises to make an original and thought-provoking contribution to contemporary literary, artistic and cultural criticism.

The Art of Forgetting Camille Noë

Pagán, 2011. Preferring a meek and unassuming role in her personal and professional arenas, Marissa Rogers is forced to reevaluate her choices when her once domineering best friend loses her memory in an accident, causing Marissa to confront painful shared memories and eventually gain new confidence. A first novel. 20,000 first printing.

The Art of Love Roy

Gibson, Steven Green, Alison Sharrock, 2007-01-04. The Art of Love celebrates the bi-millennium of Ovid's cycle of sophisticated and subversive didactic poems on love, traditionally assumed to have been brought to completion around AD 2. Ars Amatoria, The Art of Love and Remedia Amoris (Cures for Love), which purport to teach young Roman men and women how to be good lovers, were partly responsible for the poet's exile from Rome under the emperor Augustus. None the less, they exerted great influence over ancient and later love poetry. This is the first collection in English devoted to the poems and brings together many of the leading figures in the field of Latin literature and Ovidian studies from the British Isles, Germany,

Italy and the United States It offers a range of perspectives on the poetics politics and erotics of the poems beginning with a critical survey of recent research and concluding with papers on the ancient medieval and modern reception of the poems

Genova explains the nuances of human memory Steven Pinker Johnstone Professor of Psychology Harvard University author of How the Mind Works Have you ever felt a crushing wave of panic when you can't for the life of you remember the name of that actor in the movie you saw last week or you walk into a room only to forget why you went there in the first place If you're over forty you're probably not laughing You might even be worried that these lapses in memory could be an early sign of Alzheimer's or dementia In reality for the vast majority of us these examples of forgetting are completely normal Why Because while memory is amazing it is far from perfect Our brains aren't designed to remember every name we hear plan we make or day we experience Just because your memory sometimes fails doesn't mean it's broken or succumbing to disease Forgetting is actually part of being human In Remember neuroscientist and acclaimed novelist Lisa Genova delves into how memories are made and how we retrieve them You'll learn whether forgotten memories are temporarily inaccessible or erased forever and why some memories are built to exist for only a few seconds like a passcode while others can last a lifetime your wedding day You'll come to appreciate the clear distinction between normal forgetting where you parked your car and forgetting due to Alzheimer's that you own a car And you'll see how memory is profoundly impacted by meaning emotion sleep stress and context Once you understand the language of memory and how it functions its incredible strengths and maddening weaknesses its natural vulnerabilities and potential superpowers you can both vastly improve your ability to remember and feel less rattled when you inevitably forget You can set educated expectations for your memory and in doing so create a better relationship with it You don't have to fear it anymore And that can be life changing
