The Elysium Testament Mary O'Donnell, 1999 Mary O'Donnell's story unravels a fateful summer of love and longing childhood dear and parental self absorption culminating in a tragedy Testaments: The testament of John Davidson John Davidson, 1908 Irish Women Writers Speak Out Caitriona Moloney, Helen Thompson, 2003-03-01 Bringing together the diverse and marvelously articulate voices of women of Irish and Irish American descent editors Caitriona Moloney and Helen Thompson examine the complicated maps of experience that the women's public private and literary lives represent particularly as they engage in both feminism and postcolonialism Acknowledging Mary Robinson's revised view of Irish identity now global rather than local this work recognizes the importance of identity as a site of mobility The pieces reveal how complex the terms feminism and postcolonialism are they examine how the individual writers see their identities constructed and or mediated by sexuality In addition the book traces common themes of female agency violence generational conflicts migration emigration religion and politics to name a few As it represents the next wave of Irish women writers this book offers fresh insight into the work of emerging and established authors and will appeal to a new generation of readers

Glocal Ireland Juan F. Elices Agudo, Marisol Morales Ladrón Soledad, 2011-05-25 The transformations undergone by Ireland in the last decades have relocated the country within that liminal space of the local and the global The country of the deeply rooted rural traditions the severely religious impositions and the fragile economic system became in the 1990s a world referent due to its unprecedented and impressive growth However the emergence of the so called Celtic Tiger and the recognition that Ireland had become one of the most globalised nations in the Western world met a dramatic downfall that has left the country preoccupied with matters concerning its repositioning and redefinition within a wider European framework The cultural and artistic productivity of this nation has also moved away from the topical insularity of the past adopting more transnational and universal subjects at the same time that it has struggled to retain its genuine values and its own signs of identity For in Ireland the more this global progress has grown to be unavoidable the more evocatively the local has befallen Therefore the editors of this volume contend that the global and the local should be understood not as opposed concepts but as two ends of a continuum of interaction Within this state of affairs this volume comprises a series of articles that revolve around the issue of glocality in Irish literature culture and cinema in order to disentangle the complexities that underlie this concept and which are inextricably related to the drastic changes undertaken by Ireland in the years before and after the economic boom and posterior bailout
