the traditional disciplines Feminisms Robyn R. Warhol, Diane Price Herndl, 1997 In the landmark 1991 edition of Feminisms Robyn Warhol and Diane Price Herndl assembled the most comprehensive collection of American and British feminist literary criticism ever to be published In this revised edition the editors have updated the volume in keeping with the expanded parameters of feminist literary discourse With the inclusion of more than two dozen new essays along with a major reorganization of the sections in which they appear Warhol and Price Herndl have again established the measure for representing the latest developments in the field of feminist literary theory Believing that the feminist movement can only move forward where difference commands attention not dismissal or negativism they have continued the original collection's mission of providing a multiplicity of perspectives and approaches This anthology contains three new sections Conflict Gaze and Practice and includes more selections by and about women of color and lesbians Aimed at academics and the general public alike this collection is an indispensable guide to the range of practice on campus today in the field of feminist literary criticism Black Power, Yellow Power, and the Making of Revolutionary Identities Rychetta Watkins, 2012-01-03 Images of upraised fists afros and dashikis have long dominated the collective memory of Black Power and its proponents The guerilla figure taking the form of the black leather clad revolutionary within the Black Panther Party has become an iconic trope in American popular culture That politically radical figure however has been shaped as much by Asian American cultural discourse as by African American political ideology From the Asian African Conference held in April of 1955 in Bandung Indonesia onward to the present Afro Asian political collaboration has been active and influential In Black Power Yellow Power and the Making of Revolutionary Identities author Rychetta Watkins uses the guerilla figure as a point of departure and shows how the trope's rhetoric animates discourses of representation and identity in African American and Asian American literature and culture In doing so she examines the notion of Power in terms of ethnic political identity and explores collaborating and sometimes competing ethnic interests that have drawn ideas from the concept The project brings together a range of texts editorial cartoons newspaper articles novels visual propaganda and essays that illustrate the emergence of this subjectivity in Asian American and African American cultural productions during the Power period roughly 1966 through 1981 After a case study of the cultural politics of academic anthologies and the cooperation between Frank Chin and Ishmael Reed the volume culminates with analyses of this trope in Sam Greenlee's The Spook Who Sat by the Door Alice Walker's Meridian and John Okada's No No Boy The Wayward Preacher in the Literature of African American Women James Robert Saunders, 2017-01-16 In African American culture the preacher has traditionally held many roles minister of faith orator politician idealist and most importantly leader But the preacher was also traditionally male and in many ways this advanced the perception that African American women were incapable of questioning the authority of black men Nella Larsen Zora Neale Hurston Paule Marshall Gloria Naylor and Terry McMillan wrote of flawed African American preachers empowering their female characters by exposing the notion of the black preacher as beyond reproach The writings of these five women warn African American women and society as a whole of the power of the religious functionaries who insist that the self must be virtually obliterated in order for salvation to be attained African American Vernacular English as a Literary Dialect Sophia Huber, 2018-06-13 Knowledge about one's linguistic background especially when it is different from mainstream varieties provides a basis for identity and self. Ancestral values can be upheld, celebrated and rooted further in the consciousness of its speakers. In the case of African American Vernacular English (AAVE) the matter is not straightforward and ultimately the social implications its speakers still face today are unresolved. Through detailed analysis of the four building blocks: phonology, morphology, syntax and vocabulary, Sophia Huber tries to trace the development of AAVE as a literary dialect. By unearthing in what ways AAVE in its written form is different from the spoken variety, long established social stigmata and stereotypes which have been burned into the consciousness of the USA through a initially white dominated literary tradition will be exposed. Analysing fourteen novels and one short story featuring AAVE it is the first linguistic study of this scope.
