Musical Childhoods Berenice Nyland, Aleksandra Acker, Jill Ferris, Jan Deans, 2015-02-11 Musical Childhoods is a culmination of more than a decade of research driven by the fact that music has been neglected in early childhood programs in favour of literacy and numeracy. Recent research has identified a connection between academic performance and musical programs and this has given music a renewed status in many schools. This book promotes the idea of children's competence in the use of the language of music and argues that all children have a right to participate in musical discovery and celebrates children's engagement with meaningful and disparate experiences in music. Written by leading practitioners and researchers in the field, this book seeks to reaffirm children's communicative competence when exposed to high quality musical experience, provide new perspectives on children's ability to engage with music in many diverse forms and explore and promote the role of the musician as an artist and teacher. The book is structured into three parts: The theoretical overview, The children, the musicians and the music, The research through the eyes of the protagonist and looking into the future. Early childhood students, researchers and academics with a specific interest in music and musicality will find this an insightful read.

Children's Creative Music-Making with Reflexive Interactive Technology Victoria Rowe, Angeliki Triantafyllaki, Francois Pachet, 2016-10-14 Children's Creative Music Making with Reflexive Interactive Technology discusses pioneering experiments conducted with young children using a new generation of music software for improvising and composing. Using artificial intelligence techniques, this software captures the children's musical style and interactively reflects it in its responses. The book describes the potential of these applications to enhance children's agency and musical identity by reflecting players' musical inputs, storing and creating variations on them. Set in the broader context of current music education research, it addresses the benefits and challenges of incorporating music technologies in primary and pre-school education. It is comprised of six main chapters which cover the creation of children's own music and their musical selves, critical thinking skills and learner agency, musical language development and emotional intent during creative music making. The authors provide a range of straightforward techniques and strategies which challenge conceptions of difficult to use music technologies in formal music education. These are supported by an informative collection of practitioner vignettes written by teachers who have used the software in their classrooms. Not only are the teachers' voices heard here but also those of children as they discover some of the creative possibilities of music making. The book also provides free access to a companion website with teacher forums and a large bank of activities to explore. A toolkit serves as a database of the teaching activities in which MIROR applications have been used and provides a set of useful ideas regarding its future use in a variety of settings. This book demonstrates that music applications based on artificial intelligence techniques can make an important contribution to music education within primary and pre-school education. It will be of key interest to academics, researchers and postgraduate students in the fields of music education, music technology, early years and primary education.

teaching and learning and teacher educators It will also serve as an important point of reference for Early Years and Primary practitioners
