The Quest for the Irish Celt Mairéad Carew, 2018-03-29 The Quest for the Irish Celt is the fascinating story of Harvard University's five year archaeological research programme in Ireland during the 1930s to determine the racial and cultural heritage of the Irish people The programme involved country wide excavations and the examination of prehistoric skulls by physical anthropologists and was complemented by the physical examinations of thousands of Irish people from across the country measuring skulls nose shape and grade of hair colour The Harvard scientists mission was to determine who the Celts were what was their racial type and what element in the present day population represented the descendants of the earliest inhabitants of the island Though the Harvard Mission was hugely influential there were theories of eugenics involved that would shock the modern reader The main adviser for the archaeology was Adolf Mahr Nazi and Director of the National Museum 1934-39 The overall project was managed by Earnest A Hooton famed Harvard anthropologist whose theories regarding biological heritage would now be readily condemned for their racism Mairéad Carew explores this extraordinary archaeological mission examining its historic importance for Ireland and Irish America its landmark findings and the unseemly activities that lay just beneath the surface The Early Writings of Harold W. Clark and Frank Lewis Marsh Ronald L. Numbers, 2021-10-17 Originally published in 1995 The Early Writings of Harold W. Clark and Frank Lewis Marsh is the eighth volume in the Creationism in Twentieth Century America series reissued in 2019 The book is a collection of original writings by the prominent creationist Harold W. Clark and the biologist educator and young Earth creationist Frank Lewis Marsh Although both were significant figures in the anti evolutionist movement of the early 20th century unlike other members of the movement both Marsh and Clarke were trained scientists studying under eminent evolutionists of the time Both writers struggled to reconcile new scientific understandings of geology botany and palaeontology supported by Darwin s theory of evolution with their own creationist beliefs in genesis and flood theory Both scientists as such began to develop their own theories of evolution that remained in line with creationist beliefs This compact and unique collection includes the writings of Marsh and Clark from this period featuring some of their well known works on the subject including Back to Creation and Fundamental Biology This volume of original sources will be of interest to academics of religion natural history and historians of the 19th century
