Wrobel, 2013-10-15 This thoughtful examination of a century of travel writing about the American West overturns a variety of popular and academic stereotypes Looking at both European and American travelers accounts of the West from de Tocqueville's Democracy in America to William Least Heat Moon's Blue Highways David Wrobel offers a counter narrative to the nation's romantic entanglement with its western past and suggests the importance of some long overlooked authors lively and perceptive witnesses to our history who deserve new attention Prior to the professionalization of academic disciplines the reading public gained much of its knowledge about the world from travel writing Travel writers found a wide and respectful audience for their reports on history geography and the natural world in addition to reporting on aboriginal cultures before the advent of anthropology as a discipline Although in recent decades western historians have paid little attention to travel writing Wrobel demonstrates that this genre in fact offers an important and rich understanding of the American West one that extends and complicates a simple reading of the West that promotes the notions of Manifest Destiny or American exceptionalism Wrobel finds counterpoints to the mythic West of the nineteenth century in such varied accounts as George Catlin's Adventures of the Ojibbeway and Ioway Indians in England France and Belgium 1852 Richard Francis Burton's The City of the Saints 1861 and Mark Twain's Following the Equator 1897 reminders of the messy and contradictory world that people navigated in the past much as they do in the present His book is a testament to the instructive ways in which the best travel writers have represented the West Horizon Chasers Gerry Max, 2007-03-07 Richard Halliburton was the quintessential world traveler of the early 20th century In 1930 his celebrity equaled that of Charles Lindbergh and Amelia Earhart Halliburton called himself a horizon chaser and recommended that one should see the world before committing to a routine Not only did he live up to his ideal but he was eager to write about his adventures A prolific partnership with gifted editor and ghost writer Paul Mooney produced excellent work and theirs became a close personal relationship Sadly Halliburton and Mooney disappeared at sea on March 24 1939 along with the entire crew of Halliburton's Chinese junk Sea Dragon as they attempted to cross the Pacific from Hong Kong to the San Francisco World's Fair This biography records the life and adventures of Halliburton and Mooney focusing as no other Halliburton biography has on the productive literary collaboration between the two Drawing on the recollections of people who knew them both the work discusses their backgrounds the early years of their acquaintance and their possible romantic relationship Finally their fateful journey to Hong Kong and the ill advised voyage of the Sea Dragon is described in detail A good deal of first hand evidence is provided by William Alexander Paul Mooney's best friend and designer of Halliburton's
