Feminist Realism at the Fin de Siècle Molly Youngkin,2007 Molly Youngkin takes on a major literary problem of the turn of the century Was the transition from the Victorian novel to the modern novel enabled by antirealist or realist narrative strategies To answer this question Youngkin analyzes book reviews that appeared in two prominent feminist periodicals circulated during the late Victorian era Shafts and The Woman s Herald Through reviews of the works of important male and female authors of the decade Thomas Hardy Sarah Grand George Gissing Mona Caird George Meredith M nie Dowie George

Moore and Henrietta Stannard these periodicals developed a feminist realist aesthetic that drew on three aspects of woman's agency: consciousness, spoken word and action, and emphasized corresponding narrative strategies: internal perspective, dialogue, and description of characters' actions. Still, these periodicals privileged consciousness over spoken word and action, and by doing so encouraged authors to push the boundaries of traditional realism and anticipate the modernist aesthetic. By acknowledging the role of the woman's press in the development of the novel, this book revises our understanding of the transition from Victorianism to modernism, which is often characterized as antirealist. Late Victorian authors working within the realist tradition also contributed to this transition, particularly through their engagement with feminist realism. Youngkin deftly illustrates this transition and, in so doing, proves that it cannot be attributed to antirealist narrative strategies alone.
