Suppliers To Multinationals Linkage Programs To Strengthen Local Companies In Developing Countries:

Suppliers to Multinationals Joseph Y. Battat, Isaiah Frank, Xiaofang Shen, 1996-01-01 Presents a set of papers that contributed to an Economic Development Institute EDI workshop on curriculum development The workshop was created to reexamine the substance of EDI s curriculum and increase the institute s efforts to train project analysts The papers cover substantive issues in project evaluation pedagogy and EDI s general training strategy Competitiveness Strategy in Developing Countries Ganeshan Wignaraja, 2003-10-04 Globalization and structural adjustment offer many opportunities for export orientated industrialization in developing economies As a group competitiveness in the developing countries has improved but while East Asian economies have had rapid export growth and technological upgrades South Asian and African economies have lagged behind Old structures institutions behavioural patterns and public policies are ill adapted to deal with the challenges posed by technological change and economic liberalization Consequently there is an urgent need for change in government and private sector attitudes and strategies This volume seeks to generalise the lessons across developing country and enterprise cases and sheds light on which trade and industrial strategies and instruments work best and which do not work in relation to manufacturing competitiveness Understanding FDI-Assisted Economic Development Sanjaya Lall, Rajneesh Narula, 2013-09-13 It is nowadays well accepted that both economic growth and development are highly dependent on improving not just the availability of capital but also access to technological capabilities infrastructure and resources This has gone hand in hand with an increasing economic liberalization of most developing countries The role of the MNE as a viable source of both capital and technology is one of the key features of this new openness In the process of embracing FDI as a solution to the myriad of economic ills something even the World Bank has begun to do little attempt is made to understand the rationale and the costs associated with this policy stance Simply put FDI is not a condition sine qua non for development Too much emphasis has been placed on attracting FDI and not on understanding how to optimise the benefits for the host economy This volume aims to encourage and promote research related to these issues This volume was previously published as a special issue of the European Journal of Development Research Multinationals and Foreign Investment in Economic Development E. Graham, 2005-04-28 During the past twenty or so years foreign direct investment FDI flows have increased at rates approaching the astounding especially so during the 1990s While much of the increase was due to unprecedented cross border mergers and acquisitions among high income countries the amount of FDI flowing to developing nations also grew substantially This volume examines the economics of this FDI to developing countries Some chapters are theoretical in nature others empirical and still others are largely policy oriented Topics covered include whether FDI makes an autonomous contribution to growth in these nations and whether or not spillovers are generated by this investments Also covered are effects of policy intervention by governments on FDI flows and whether non economic factors e g cultural factors might figure as determinants of location of FDI Transnational Corporations and Development

Policy E. Rugraff, D. Sánchez-Ancochea, Andy Sumner, 2008-12-18 This volume offers a wide reaching exploration of foreign direct investment and developmental impacts through case studies from Africa Asia Latin America and Central Europe also examining the role of new players such as Chinese Indian and South African TNCs Strategies of Multinationals and Competition for Foreign Direct Investment Charles Albert Michalet, 1997-01-01 Is there a trade off among countries in attracting foreign direct investment FDI And in particular has the opening up of Central and Eastern Europe diverted FDI that otherwise would have gone to developing countries To answer these questions FIAS c Development Cooperation - Evaluation and New Approaches Heinz Ahrens, 2005-07-29 This volume represents some of the Proceedings of the Annual Meeting of the Research Committee on Development Economics Ausschuss f r Entwicklungsl nder of the German Economic Association Verein f r Socialpolitik held in Cologne Germany in July 2004 The meeting focused on the effectiveness of and new approaches in development cooperation Both issues have become increasingly important in recent years in view of the declining volume of budget funds allocated to development cooperation The papers discussing the effectiveness of foreign aid shed new light on the issue at a crucial moment where economists have begun to question the recent consensus that the productivity of aid mainly depends on the recipient country s policy environment As far as the contributions dealing with new approaches in development cooperation are concerned these are centred on a closer integration of the private sector by joint action with so called lead firms in production networks on the one hand and the mobilization of additional financial resources from international capital markets for bilateral development cooperation on the other The authors also make suggestions concerning critical aspects relevant for implementation The last part of this volume is dedicated to an assessment of low income countries pension schemes based on the human capital approach High-Tech Industries, Employment and Global Competitiveness S.R. Hashim, N.S. Siddharthan, 2020-11-29 The process of development in recent times has been characteristically marked by the expanding reach of multinational enterprises flows of foreign direct investment unprecedented growth of information and communication technologies ICT and knowledge based industries and infusion of ICT across the entire spectrum of industries and activities High tech knowledge based industries like information technology biotechnology pharmaceuticals and so on have played an important role in the transition of Chinese and Indian economies the two largest and fastest growing economies This inter disciplinary book offers an in depth understanding of the behaviour of firms in these industries analysing the strategies they adopt in a globally competitive environment the role they have played in ushering in the growth revolution in China and India and the contribution they have made to the nature and growth of employment This study also dwells upon the emerging nature of scientific and technological developments like nanotechnology novel materials spintronics and quantum computers with the conclusion that in the future knowledge and technology are going to be the real sources of wealth for nations Competitiveness in Small Developing Economies Alvin G. Wint, 2003 Possibly no group is more conscious of the challenges created by the increasing integration of markets for capital labour products and information than small developing economies Policy makers from these economies have sought a two track response to this integration One response lies in increasing lobbying efforts for these economies to be accorded special or more equitable treatment in market integration discussions The second response lies in improving the competitiveness of their economies It is this second response that provides the subject matter for this book It explores the challenges and opportunities associated increasing competitiveness in small developing economies based on research conducted in the Caribbean The topics covered indicate the breadth of activity that is required to enhance competitiveness At the macro policy level the book explores the key drivers of competitiveness examines the role of exchange rate regimes and of government policy considers the implications sovereignty and assesses the extent to which competitiveness likely to be improved by attracting foreign direct investment

World Development Report 2005 World Bank,2004 Firms and entrepreneurs of all types from microenterprises to multinationals play a central role in growth and poverty reduction Their investment decisions drive job creation the availability and affordability of goods and services for consumers and the tax revenues governments can draw on to fund health education and other services Their contribution depends largely on the way governments shape the investment climate in each location through the protection of property rights regulation and taxation strategies for providing infrastructure interventions in finance and labor markets and broader governance features such as corruption The World Development Report 2005 argues that improving the investment climates of their societies should be a top priority for governments Drawing on surveys of nearly 30 000 firms in 53 developing countries country case studies and other new research the Report explores questions such as What are the key features of a good investment climate and how do they influence growth and poverty What can governments do to improve their investment climates and how can they go about tackling such a broad agenda What has been learned about good practice in each of the main areas of the investment climate What role might selective interventions and international arrangements play in improving the investment climate What can the international community do to help developing countries improve the investment climates of their societies In addition to detailed chapters exploring these and related issues the Report contains selected data from the World Bank s new program of Investment Climate Surveys the Bank s Doing Business Project and World Development Indicators 2004 an appendix of economic and social data for over 200 countries This Report offers practical insights for policymakers executives scholars and all those with an interest in economic development

Enhancing SME Competitiveness The OECD Bologna Ministerial Conference OECD,2001-04-16 These workshop proceedings discuss releasing the potential of SMEs by enhancing their access to global markets

Extractivism and Labour in the Caribbean Dennis C. Canterbury,2023-12-01 This book explores the impact of resource extraction and the dynamics of great powers competing for natural resources in the Caribbean The book analyzes labour capital relations between China the United States the European Union and Russia in the Caribbean as competition increases with the arrival of non traditional sources of foreign investments in infrastructure from the East Chapters assess these dynamics through varying historical and current forms of worker community and organization resistance in the Caribbean s extractive industries from the 1970s to the present In doing so the book critically analyzes the interplay of extractive capital with labour unions community organizations management and the state particularly regarding the struggle for higher wages improved working conditions and the broader issues of extractive capitalism and underdevelopment dispossession social exclusion and environmental degradation The first book on extractivism and labour in the Caribbean and a major contribution to critical development studies literature it will appeal to policymakers as well as students and scholars in the fields of development studies development economics sociology politics and international relations Globalization for Development Ian Goldin,Kenneth Reinert,2012-02-16 The book defines the big historical trends identifies the main globalization processes trade finance aid migration and ideas and examines how each can contribute to economic development An Introduction to International Economics Kenneth A. Reinert,2020-08-27 This book is designed for a one semester course in international economics primarily targeting non economics majors and programs in business international relations public policy and development studies It has been written to make international economics accessible to both students and professionals Assuming a minimal background in economics and mathematics the textbook goes beyond the usual trade finance dichotomy to address international trade international production and international finance and takes a practitioner point of view rather than a standard academic one introducing students to the material needed to become effective analysts in international economic policy This new edition features such additional topics as global production and global capital flows migration the Ricardian model and international organizations like the IMF Examples have been updated to include recent developments Brexit for example and all charts include the latest data The website for the text can be found at <http://ie.gmu.edu> Building Innovation Capabilities for Sustainable Industrialisation Rasmus Lema,Margrethe Holm Andersen,Rebecca Hanlin,Charles Nzila,2021-11-15 This book argues that renewable electrification in developing countries provides important opportunities for local economic development but new pathways are required for turning these opportunities into successful reality Building Innovation Capabilities for Sustainable Industrialisation offers a novel input into the debate on development of capabilities for sustainable industrialisation and delivers key insights for both researchers and policy makers when it comes to the question of how to increase the economic co benefits of renewables expansion The chapters in the book use a tailored analytical framework in their studies of renewable electrification efforts in Kenya and other countries in sub Saharan Africa They draw on a mix of project sector and country level case studies to address questions such as What capabilities are developed through on going renewable electrification projects in developing economies How can the expansion of renewable electrification be supported in a way that also encourages sustainable economic development What role do international linkages South South and North South play and what role should they play in the greening of energy systems in developing economies The authors provide a new understanding of how green transformation and sustainable industrialisation can be combined highlighting the opportunities and constraints for local capability building and the scope for local policy action This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of development studies energy studies sustainability and sustainable development as well as practitioners and policy makers working in development organisations and national governments The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com/books/e/9781003054665> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

Synchronized Factories Juan S. Blyde, 2014-09-15 The objective of this report is to examine the extent to which countries in Latin America and the Caribbean participate in global value chains and what are the drivers of such participation Production processes have been increasingly fragmented worldwide For example the production of the Boeing 787 Dreamliner involves 43 suppliers located in 135 locations around the globe There are many examples like the Dreamliner from the 451 parts that go into the iPod to the less technologically intensive but still widespread multi country production of a Barbie doll All this reflects significant changes in the way world production is being reorganized across national borders That is for many goods production has become a multi country process in which different stages are carried out in specialized plants in different parts of the world Countries which specialize in different stages of the production process are thus linked by these global value chains For developing countries a clear opportunity from the continuous international fragmentation of production arises in the form of participating in activities that were virtually not opened to them in the past Therefore the international fragmentation of production provides opportunities for trade diversification an issue that can be of particular importance for Latin America and the Caribbean as the region's export base is in general highly concentrated in a few industries and particularly biased towards natural resource intensive sectors The aim is to identify whether there is policy space for implementing strategies that allow countries to improve their position in regional and global value chains

Rethinking Productive Development Inter-American Development Bank, 2014-09-04 Productive transformation requires seizing the opportunities available and opening new ones in a competitive world Rethinking Productive Development examines the market failures impeding transformation and the government failures that may make the policy remedies worse than the market illness To address market failures the authors propose a simple conceptual framework based on the scope and nature of the policy approach They then systematically analyze country policies through this lens in key areas such as innovation new firms financing human capital and internationalization to show the power of this way of thinking Still the book warns that policymakers cannot be sure what the right policy interventions are and must set up a process to discover them that calls for public private collaboration Recognizing that the risk of capture needs to be checked and that even the best policies will fail without the technical organizational and political capacity to implement them the book concludes with ideas on how to design institutions fostering the right incentives and how to grow

public sector capabilities over time

Globalization for Development Ian Goldin, Kenneth Reinert, 2007-05-16

Globalization and its relation to poverty reduction and development is not well understood The book identifies the ways in which globalization can overcome poverty or make it worse The book defines the big historical trends identifies main global flows trade finance aid migration and ideas and examines how each can contribute to undermine economic development By considering what helps and what does not the book presents policy recommendations to make globalization more effective as a vehicle for shared growth and prosperity It will be of interest to students researchers and anyone interested in the effects of globalization in today s economy and in international development issues Global Challenges - Local Responses Daniel Fleming, 2006
