The Principle of Harmony with Nature as a Legal Foundation Raquel Domingues do Amaral, 2025-10-15 This book offers a proposal for the theoretical basis for the normative character of harmony with nature in the statement of UN Resolution 64 196 which recognizes an immanent principle of the natural laws that govern the biosphere This principle has been reproduced in human language through ethical narratives rooted in the ancient cultures of both Western and Eastern peoples particularly in the ways of living of indigenous peoples The work aims to propose the ethical narrative of harmony with nature as a pre legal and indisputable principle which urgently needs to be recognized to ensure the flourishing of life on Earth including human life It also proposes the hypothesis of recognizing the normativity of harmony with nature as a general principle of law in the international environmental field as covered by Article 38 of the International Court s statute Considering the long history of nature s rights from ancient times to the Rio Declaration on Environment and Development harmony with nature was established in Principle 1 culminating in UN reports and resolutions under the title Harmony with Nature Furthermore the book demonstrates that Article 225 caput of the Federal Constitution of Brazil when referring to ecological balance encompasses the normative core of the principle of harmony with nature It shows that the principle of harmony with nature in its integrative role acts as a normative source of biological dignity intrinsic value and the legal personality of non human living beings and holistic organic entities Based on the concept of biological legal personality it proposes the recognition of three biological personalities entitled to their intrinsic rights to vital impulse the vegetable biological personality the animal biological personality and the systemic biological personality Additionally it demonstrates the compatibility of the principle of harmony with nature with the principle of human dignity in its ecological dimension As a multidisciplinary research this book impacts not only the theory of law but also other spheres of knowledge such as ontology and ecological ethics The book is intended for the academic public involved in research on the rights of nature governmental and non governmental organizations responsible for the construction of environmental policies to defend the rights of human and non human living beings as well as lawyers who advocate for the rights of nature

Socially-critical Environmental Education in Primary Classrooms Jane Edwards, 2015-10-26 The effectiveness of Education for Sustainable Development depends on the ability of schools and teachers to embrace pedagogies that reduce the gap between the rhetoric of education for the environment and the reality of classroom practices This book responds to the need to better understand the nature of the relationships between agency and structure that contribute to the development of educational rhetoric reality gaps in order to inform processes that most effectively facilitate pedagogical change This book explores the issues of pedagogical change through the experiences of Australian primary school teachers faced with the challenge of implementing an environmental education program in which young students were positioned as active participants in the social processes from which environmentally sustainable practices could be developed These teachers were required to adopt pedagogies that often represented the antithesis of their well established teacher directed approaches Through the use of Anthony Giddens Theory of Structuration this book provides unique perspectives of the teacher mediated manner in which certain elements of structure and agency interrelate to enable and constrain classroom practices essential understandings for school principals and educational policy developers who aim to effectively implement pedagogical change This book also demonstrates that the Theory of Structuration provides a valuable ontological research framework and provides social researchers with practical guidance for how to relate this theory to specific research issues

The Moral Circle Jeff Sebo,2025-01-28 A philosopher calls for a revolution in ethics suggesting we expand our moral circle to include insects AI systems and even microbes Today human exceptionalism is the norm Despite occasional nods to animal welfare we prioritize humanity often neglecting the welfare of a vast number of beings As a result we use hundreds of billions of vertebrates and trillions of invertebrates every year for a variety of purposes often unnecessarily We also plan to use animals AI systems and other nonhumans at even higher levels in the future Yet as the dominant species humanity has a responsibility to ask Which nonhumans matter how much do they matter and what do we owe them in a world reshaped by human activity and technology In The Moral Circle philosopher Jeff Sebo challenges us to include all potentially significant beings in our moral community with transformative implications for our lives and societies This book explores provocative case studies such as lawsuits over captive elephants and debates over factory farmed insects and compels us to consider future ethical quandaries such as whether to send microbes to new planets and whether to create virtual worlds filled with digital minds Taking an expansive view of human responsibility Sebo argues that building a positive future requires the shedding of human exceptionalism and radically rethinking our place in the world
