Barnett and Alexis Weedon explore Glyn's experiences from multiple perspectives including the artistic, legal and financial aspects of the adaptation process. At the same time they document Glyn's personal and professional relationships with a number of prominent individuals in the Hollywood studio system including Louis B. Mayer and Irving Thalberg. The authors contextualize Glyn's involvement in scenario writing in relationship to other novelists in Hollywood such as Edgar Wallace and Arnold Bennett and also show how Glyn worked across Europe and America to transform her stories into other forms of media such as plays and movies. Providing a new perspective from which to understand the historical development of both British and American media industries in the first half of the twentieth century, this book will appeal to historians working in the fields of cultural and film studies, publishing and business history. "Some Big Bourgeois Brothel" Bill

Grantham, 2000. Examines Franco-American cinema relations and France's periodic attempts to curb Hollywood's access to the French market. The text's major focus is the French influence and American reaction to the European Union's Television Without Frontiers directive and the 1993 GATT talks in Uruguay. Projecting Tomorrow James Chapman, Nicholas J.

Cull, 2013-01-30. Cinema and science fiction were made for each other. The science fiction genre has produced some of the most extraordinary films ever made yet science fiction cinema is about more than just special effects. It has also provided a vehicle for filmmakers and writers to comment on their own societies and cultures. This new exploration of the genre examines landmark science fiction films from the 1930s to the present. They include genre classics such as Things to Come, Forbidden Planet and 2001 A Space Odyssey alongside modern blockbusters Star Wars and Avatar. Chapman and Cull consider both screen originals and adaptations of the work of major science fiction authors. They also range widely across the genre from pulp adventure and space opera to political allegory and speculative documentary; there is even a science fiction musical. Informed throughout by extensive research in US and British archives, the book documents the production histories of each film to show how they made their way to the screen and why they turned out the way they did. Cinemas of the World James Chapman, 2004-06-03. The cinema has been the pre-eminent popular art form of the 20th century. In Cinemas of the World James Chapman examines the relationship between film and society in the modern world: film as entertainment medium, film as a reflection of national cultures and preoccupations, film as an instrument of propaganda. He also explores two interrelated issues that have recurred throughout the history of cinema: the economic and cultural hegemony of Hollywood on the one hand and on the other the attempts of film makers elsewhere to establish indigenous national cinemas drawing on their own cultures and societies. Chapman examines the rise to dominance of Hollywood cinema in the silent and early sound periods. He discusses the characteristic themes of American movies from the Depression to the end of the Cold War, especially those found in the western and film noir genres that are often used as vehicles for exploring issues central to US society and politics. He looks at national cinemas in various European countries in the period between the end of the First World War and the end of the Second which all exhibit the formal and aesthetic properties of modernism. The emergence of the so called new cinemas of Europe and the wider world since 1960 are also explored Chapman is a tough thinking original writer an engaging excellent piece of work David Lancaster Film and History From the Arthouse to the Grindhouse John Cline,Robert G. Weiner,2010-07-17 While there are numerous books on art and exploitation cinema very few attempt to examine both Covering the first 100 years of cinematic transgressions From the Arthouse to the Grindhouse is a collection of numerous essays representing key contributions to overlooked forgotten or under analyzed parts of film history From cult favorites like Arch Hall Jr to revered but under documented marquee names like Lon Chaney filmmakers both major and minor are covered here Starting with a section that pairs exploitation pioneers like Dwain Esper alongside cutting edge auteurs like Erich Von Stroheim the volume documents the bleeding edge of the high low cultural divide Other essays examine the sexual melodramas of Weimer German cinema explore the concept of Borat as a model for the new standardized cult film and discuss the films of directors Tod Browning Pier Pasolini and Peter Watkins This volume also contains a section devoted to the idea of reality inside and outside the documentary sphere emphasizing audiences desire to believe that this is really happening whether they re horrified or titillated Addressing many aspects of transgression in cinema these essays suggest that the distance between the venues and the audiences may not be quite as wide as viewers might imagine

Cinematic Cold War Tony Shaw,Denise Jeanne Youngblood,2010 The first book length survey of cinema s vital role in the Cold War cultural combat between the U S and the USSR Focuses on 10 films five American and five Soviet both iconic and lesser known works showing that cinema provided a crucial outlet for the global debate between democratic and communist ideologies The Medieval World Peter Linehan,Janet L. Nelson,2013-09-13 This groundbreaking collection brings the Middle Ages to life and conveys the distinctiveness of this diverse constantly changing period Thirty eight scholars bring together one medieval world from many disparate worlds from Connacht to Constantinople and from Tynemouth to Timbuktu This extraordinary set of reconstructions presents the reader with a vivid re drawing of the medieval past offering fresh appraisals of the evidence and modern historical writing Chapters are thematically linked in four sections identities beliefs social values and symbolic order power and power structures elites organizations and groups Packed full of original scholarship The Medieval World is essential reading for anyone studying medieval history Past and Present James Chapman,2005-09-23 This ground breaking book takes as its focal point director Ken Loach s view that The only reason to make films that are a reflection on history is to talk about the present In the first book to take on this major genre in all its complexity James Chapman argues that historical films say as much about the times in which they are made as about the past they purport to portray Through in depth case studies of fourteen key films spanning the 1930s up to the turn of the twenty first century from The Private Life of Henry VIII and Zulu to Chariots of Fire and Elizabeth Chapman examines the place of historical films in British cinema history and film culture Looking closely at the issues that they present from gender class and ethnicity to militarism and imperialism he also discusses controversies over historical accuracy and the ways in which devices such as voice overs title captions and visual references to photographs and paintings assert a sense of historical verisimilitude Exploring throughout the book the dialectical relationship between past and present Chapman reveals how such films promote British achievements but also sometimes question them and how they project images of Britishness to audiences both in the UK and internationally
