Fighter Aces of the Great War Stephen Wynn,Tanya Wynn,2020-04-30 History has recorded that the first ever powered flight took place at Kitty Hawk in America on 17 December 1903 and was carried out by the Wright brothers Orville and Wilbur who were aircraft designers and manufacturers By the time of the outbreak of the First World War aviation was only eleven years old The daddy of battlefield warfare until that point in time had been the cavalry a position it maintained even as war was declared on the Western Front Aircraft were not initially seen as an offensive weapon and were instead used by both sides as observation platforms or to take aerial photographs from. Even when they were eventually used in an offensive capacity they did not have machine guns attached to them; if the crew wanted to open fire then they had to use a pistol or rifle. As the war progressed so the use of aircraft changed from being an observational tool to that of a fighter and bomber aircraft something that had never been foreseen at the outbreak of the war. The book then looks at the fighter aces from all sides. These were pilots who had been credited with shooting or forcing down a minimum of five enemy aircraft of which there were hundreds. While some of these aces survived many of them were killed. The most famous fighter ace of all is without doubt the German pilot known as the Red Baron Manfred von Richthofen. Gotha Terror Ian Castle, 2024-12-30 By the autumn of 1916 advances in Britain's air defense capability had all but ended the Zeppelin menace which had haunted the nation for almost two years However an emerging complacency regarding the aerial threat was immediately shattered by the introduction in 1917 of the Grosskampfflugzeug better known as the Gotha bomber Whereas Zeppelin airships had attacked individually and stealthily under the cover of darkness the German Army now had a squadron of bomber aeroplanes capable of brazenly attacking London and south east England in broad daylight thereby unleashing a new wave of terror on the British population Britain having downgraded its aerial defenses after the apparent defeat of the Zeppelins was forced to rethink The improvements instigated compelled the German raiders to change their tactics too as each side strived to gain the upper hand And all the time the German Navy Zeppelins whose campaign had not been abandoned entirely continued to strike when opportunity allowed The story of these dramatic air raids is told by incorporating numerous never before published eye witness accounts revealing a personal view of the experiences shared by those who lived through the conflict both on the ground and in the air The German air campaign against the United Kingdom in the First World War was the first sustained strategic aerial bombing campaign in history Yet it has become dwarfed by the enormity of the Blitz of the Second World War but for those caught up in the tragedy of these raids the impact was every bit as devastating In Gotha Terror Ian Castle tells the full story of the 1917 1918 raids in unprecedented detail in what is the final book in a trilogy completing the story of Britain's Forgotten Blitz
