Unplanned Visitors Olivier Vallerand, 2022-03-30 Sexuality and gender have long been influential in understanding the construction of domestic space its meanings often revealing a binary division of private and public female and male By reconstructing the foundation of queer critiques of space and by analyzing the representation of domesticity in contemporary art and architecture Unplanned Visitors shows the blurring of private and public that can occur in any domestic space and explores the potential of queer theory for understanding and designing the built environment Olivier Vallerand investigates how queer critiques building on pioneering feminist work question the relation between identity and architecture and highlight normative constructs underlying domestic spaces He draws out a genealogy of queer space in theoretical discourse in architecture studying projects by Mark Robbins Joel Sanders J Mayer H Elmgreen Dragset Andr s Jaque and MYCKET among others These works blur the traditional borders between architecture and art to emphasize the tensions between private and public and their impact on assumptions about domestic space and family structure The challenges in moving from experimental installations to built environments suggest how designers must acknowledge and respond to the social contexts that shape architecture rethinking how domestic spaces can be designed to allow everyone to better manage the expression of their self identification through their living environments Unplanned Visitors poses a challenge to traditional architectural theory and history but also suggests a renewed and more inclusive ethics whereby designers explicitly address social and political power structures The potential of a queer approach to architectural design history theory and education is precisely to enact a method that creates more inclusive buildings and safer neighbourhoods for everyone

Munt, 2000-03-01 This work challenges the field of British cultural studies to return to the question of social class as a primary focus of study The chapters examine contemporary working class life and its depiction in the media through a number of case studies on topics such as popular cinema football romance magazines and club culture The essays pose methodologies for understanding working class responses to dominant culture and explore the contradictions and limitations of the traditional Marxist model The book's contributors conclude that it is time for cultural theorists to revisit issues of working class cultural formations and to renew the original radical intentions of the discipline by reintegrating class analysis into social templates of race sexuality and gender

Risk and the English Novel Julia Hoydis, 2019-09-23 Taking the cue from the currency of risk in popular and interdisciplinary academic discourse this book explores the development of the English novel in relation to the emergence and institutionalization of risk from its origins in probability theory in the late seventeenth century to the global risk society in the twenty first century Focussing on 29 novels from Defoe to McEwan this book argues for the contemporaneity of the rise of risk and the novel and suggests that there is much to gain from reading the risk society from a diachronic literary cultural perspective Tracing changes and continuities the fictional case studies reveal the human preoccupation with safety and control of the future They show the struggle with uncertainties and the construction of individual or collective logics of risk which oscillate between rational calculation and emotion helplessness and denial and an enabling or destructive sense of adventure and danger Advancing the study of risk in fiction beyond the confinement to dystopian disaster narratives this book shows how topical notions such as chance and probability uncertainty and responsibility fears of decline and transgression all cluster around risk

Tourism and Gender Annette Pritchard, 2007-01-01 While contemporary popular discourses dismiss gender and feminism as passé patriarchy and sexism continue to limit human possibilities around the globe The tourism industry can be a force for empowerment but it can also shore up exploitative gendered practices At the same time tourism enquiry itself continues to be dominated by western masculinist approaches This collection of studies seeks to advance feminist and gender tourism studies with its focus on embodiment Broad themes include the construction of narratives how discourses of desire sensuality and sexuality pervade the tourism experience the use of the body to represent femininity masculinity and sensuality and finally how travel and tourism allow for empowerment resistance and carnivalesque opportunities

Intergenerational Space Robert Vanderbeck, Nancy Worth, 2015-06-03 Intergenerational Space offers insight into the transforming relationships between younger and older members of contemporary societies The chapter selection brings together scholars from around the world in order to address pressing questions both about the nature of contemporary generational divisions as well as the complex ways in which members of different generations are and can be involved in each other's lives These questions include how do particular kinds of spaces and spatial arrangements e.g. cities neighbourhoods institutions leisure sites facilitate and limit intergenerational contact and encounters What processes and spaces influence the intergenerational negotiation and contestation of values beliefs and social memory producing patterns of both continuity and change And if generational separation and segregation are in fact significant social problems across a range of contexts as a significant body of research and commentary attests how can this be ameliorated The chapters in this collection make original contributions to these debates drawing on original research from Belgium China Finland Poland Senegal Singapore Tanzania Uganda the United States and the United Kingdom

Revisiting Space Wendy Ellen Everett, Axel Goodbody, 2005 How does film construct space and what is the relationship between space and time in film These and other questions are explored in this collection of wide ranging challenging essays that re evaluate and extend recent theoretical debate in relation to the regional and national cinemas of Europe City Visions David Bell, Azzedine Haddour, 2018-10-08 A collection of the latest work on the city presenting contemporary theories methods and perspectives in an accessible format for upper level undergraduates and postgraduates in geography cultural studies and sociology Sexuality, Citizenship and Belonging Francesca Stella, Yvette Taylor, Tracey Reynolds, Antoine Rogers, 2015-10-23 This book brings together a diverse range of critical interventions in sexuality and gender studies and seeks to encourage new ways of thinking about the connections and tensions between sexual politics citizenship and belonging The book is organized around three interlinked thematic areas focusing on sexual citizenship nationalism and international borders Part 1 sexuality and race Part 2 and sexuality and religion Part 3 In revisiting notions of sexual citizenship and belonging contributors engage with topical debates about sexual nationalism or the construction of western European nations as exceptional in terms of attitudes to sexual and gender equality vis vis an uncivilized racialized Other The collection explores macro level perspectives by attending to the geopolitical and socio legal structures within which competing claims to citizenship and belonging are played out at the same time micro level perspectives are utilized to explore the interplay between sexuality and race nation ethnicity and religious identities Geographically the collection has a prevalently European focus yet contributions explore a range of trans national spatial dimensions that exceed the boundaries of Europe and of European nation states Jurisprudence of Jurisdiction Shaun Mcveigh, 2007-03-12 For much of the history of the western legal order jurisdiction has been the first question of law This book investigates the difference that jurisdiction continues to make to the ordering of normative existence It also follows the speculation that without an account of jurisdiction jurisprudence would be left speechless with no power to address the conditions of attachment to legal and political order The starting point of this book lies with the claim that a sharper focus can be given to normative legal ordering through questions of jurisdiction than can be through those of moral responsibility or social action This is so because jurisdiction articulates both the potentiality of law and the conditions of its exercise It provides the idiom of response to the fact that there is law and to the fact that law institutes judges and addresses a form of life From this viewpoint the contributors to this book examine the institution of human rights the new global and national orders of sovereign power and of trade and information the judgment and government of death and desire and the address of colonial and post colonial legal idioms In doing this the contributors also provide for the elaboration of questions of jurisdiction as part of the resources and repertoires of jurisprudence This book provides a point of entry to an emergent genre of writing within doctrinal historical and critical jurisprudence that has returned to questions of jurisdiction to think again about juridical order and change In so doing it also points to questions that must be asked for there to be any interdisciplinary study that addresses law From the Margins to the Centre Justin O'Connor, 2017-07-05 Each of the chapters in this volume derives from recently conducted research grounded in an attempt to examine some of the issues posed in what can be described as postmodernist theorising on the nature of the contemporary city Implicit in the very conception of the book and running through each of the contributions is the view that contemporary popular culture is crucial to the understanding of the transformations to which we refer and that the investigation of this popular culture needs to move beyond the parameters of cultural studies to include sociological political and economic analyses In addition to students of popular cultural studies the book will be of interest to all those studying sociology urban studies and cultural studies as well as those with a desire to have contemporary social theorising more firmly located in empirical investigation

Geographies of Sexualities Dr Gavin Brown, Dr Jason Lim, Professor Kath Browne, 2012-11-28 Recent years have seen a dramatic upsurge of interest in the connections between sexualities space and place Drawing established and founding figures of the field together with emerging authors this innovative volume offers a broad interdisciplinary and international overview of the geographies of sexualities Incorporating a discussion of queer geographies Geographies of Sexualities engages with cutting edge agendas and challenges the orthodoxies within geography regarding spatialities and sexualities It contains original and previously unpublished material that spans the often separated areas of theory practices and politics This innovative volume offers a trans disciplinary engagement with the spatialities of sexualities intersecting discussions of sexualities with issues such as development race gender and other forms of social difference
