The Globalization of Irish Traditional Song Performance Susan H. Motherway, 2016-03-09 In The Globalization of Irish Traditional Song Performance Susan Motherway examines the ways in which performers mediate the divide between local and global markets by negotiating this dichotomy in performance practice. In so doing she discusses the globalizing processes that exert transformative influences upon traditional musics and examines the response to these influences by Irish traditional song performers. In developing this thesis the book provides an overview of the genre and its subgenres, illustrates patterns of musical change extant within the tradition as a result of globalization, and acknowledges music as a medium for re-negotiating an Irish cultural identity within the global. Given Ireland's long history of emigration and colonisation, globalization is recognised as both a synchronic and a diachronic phenomenon. Motherway thus examines Anglo-Irish song and songs of the Irish Diaspora. Her analysis reaches beyond essentialist definitions of the tradition to examine evolving sub-genres such as Country Irish, Celtic and World Music. She also recognizes the singing traditions of other ethnic groups on the island of Ireland, including Orange Order, Ulster Scots and Traveller song. In so doing she shows the disparity between native conceptions and native realities in respect to Irish cultural identity.

Literacy and Orality in Eighteenth-Century Irish Song Julie Henigan, 2015-10-06 Focusing on several distinct genres of eighteenth-century Irish song, Henigan demonstrates in each case that the interaction between the elite and vernacular, the written and oral, is pervasive and characteristic of the Irish song tradition to the present day.

The Musical Traditions of Northern Ireland and Its Diaspora David Cooper, 2010 Northern Ireland remains a divided community in which traditional culture is widely understood as a marker of religious affiliation and ethnic identity. David Cooper provides an analysis of the characteristics of traditional music performed in Northern Ireland, as well as an ethnographic and ethnomusicological study of a group of traditional musicians from County Antrim. In particular, he offers a consideration of the cultural dynamics of Northern Ireland with respect to traditional music.

Fragments and Meaning in Traditional Song Mary-Ann Constantine, Gerald Porter, 2003-08-07 This is a study of very short songs, pieces long perceived as fragments or remnants of longer narrative texts and dismissed as the by-products of a degenerative oral tradition. Coverage includes English, Welsh, Breton, American and Finnish songs. The authors argue that the inherently metaphorical and connotative idiom of traditional song makes external critical notions of completeness inappropriate; in practice such pieces are rarely felt to be broken or lacking by those who sing them; they have a strong metonymic force. A wide range of texts and traditions is explored to suggest how short songs may convey meaning both in performance and in non-traditional contexts such as the literary novel.

The Melodic Tradition of Ireland James R. Cowdery, 1990 Annotation: Irish folk music oriented around monophonic melodies which are varied and ornamented is viewed from various angles: ethnographic and musical, a thriving melodic tradition. Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc., Portland, OR.
