Sir Robin Day Memoirs:

Two Decades in British Politics Bill Jones, Lynton J. Robins, 1992 Celebrates the 21st anniversary of The Politics Association and offers a reassessment of the continuities and changes in the governments led by Wilson Heath Callaghan and Thatcher The book asks whether 1979 was a political watershed or an undistinguished step in Britain's economic decline

Lord Gnome's Literary Companion Francis Wheen, 1994 His review has got to be in by mid day tomorrow at about 9 pm his mind will grow relatively clear and until the small hours he will sit skipping expertly through one book after another and laying each one down with the comment God what tripe Then suddenly he will snap into it All the stale old phrases a book that no one should miss something memorable on every page jump into their places like iron filings obeying the magnet Thus did George Orwell writing forty years ago in Confessions of a Book Reviewer describe the labours of a typical literary hack Precious little has changed over the intervening decades the servility of the satirical magazine Private Eye Lord Gnome's Literary Companion assembles in thematic order the best of these columns to present an astringent rude and funny survey of publishers and the published

Memories of Maggie Iain Dale, 2000 Memories of Maggie brings together personal reminiscences and anecdotes from those who experienced close encounters with the Iron Lady including Norman Tebbit Cecil Parkinson Kenneth Baker George Bush Helmut Kohl John Gummer and William Hague

White Heat Dominic Sandbrook, 2015-02-05 An active pleasure to read Mail on Sunday Harold Wilson's famous reference to white heat captured the optimistic spirit of a society in the midst of breathtaking change From the gaudy pleasures of Swinging London to the tragic bloodshed in Northern Ireland from the intrigues of Westminster to the drama of the World Cup British life seemed to have taken on a dramatic new momentum The memories images and colourful personalities of those heady times still resonate today mop tops and mini skirts strikes and demonstrations Carnaby Street and Kings Road Harold Wilson and Edward Heath Mary Quant and Jean Shrimpton Enoch Powell and Mary Whitehouse Marianne Faithfull and Mick Jagger In this wonderfully rich and readable historical narrative Dominic Sandbrook looks behind the myths of the Swinging Sixties to unearth the contradictions of a society caught between optimism and decline

Electing Our Masters Jon Lawrence, 2009-03-26 In this engagingly written history of electioneering in Britain from the eighteenth century to the present Jon Lawrence explores the changing relationship between politicians and public Throughout this period he argues British politics has been characterized by bruising public rituals intended to bestow legitimacy on politicians by obliging them to face an often irreverent public on broadly equal terms Face to face interaction was central both to the disorderly civic rituals of eighteenth century politics and to the Victorian and Edwardian election meeting Perhaps surprisingly it also survived in pretty rude health between the wars despite the emergence of the new mass communication media of radio and cinema But the same cannot be said of the post war era and the rise of television Today most politicians are content merely to offer the semblance of meaningful engagement walkabouts canvassing and meetings are all designed to ensure that most senior politicians come into contact only with the smiling faces of that dwindling band the party faithful Lloyd George and Churchill might have relished the rough and tumble of a tumultuous public meeting but their modern counterparts tend to be more risk averse and not without reason given that the cameras are always present to capture their mishaps But this is not another nostalgic lament for a lost golden age On the contrary Electing Our Masters argues that politicians frequently still crave the kudos to be derived from bruising encounters with an irreverent public hence Tony Blair's so called masochism strategy in the 2005 election campaign with its succession of gruelling sessions before live studio audiences As Lawrence points out the vital question for today is can we persuade our broadcasters that such encounters must form a staple of modern mediated politics

The Review of the BBC's Royal Charter Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: Select Committee on the BBC Charter Review, 2005-11 The Committee's report examines the Government's proposals for the future of the BBC as set out in the Government's Green Paper A strong BBC independent of government published by the DCMS in March 2005 for consultation The Committee's conclusions include i that the BBC's mandate and structure should be defined in statute rather than by Royal Charter ii the licence fee is the best way to fund the BBC over the next decade although the system for agreeing the cost of the fee should be more transparent with the BBC bid subject to independent investigation by the NAO iii the Government rather than the licence fee payer should fund the costs of the analogue switch off and iv the Government's proposals for reforming the governance and regulation of the BBC are confusing misguided and unworkable A further report is due to be published by the Committee in Spring 2005 which will focus on the role of the BBC in the nations and the regions the BBC World Service and the broadcasting of sport and religion

Essex Man swaggered onto the scene in his shiny suit driving a flash car and with his white stiletto wearing missus on his arm. It was a step up from sovereign rings and done up Ford Cortinas but brash vulgar and breathtakingly right wing. Mr and Mrs Essex were still the target for pity, condemnation and nationwide mockery. Twenty odd years on something strange has happened. From Russell Brand and Jamie Oliver to Phill Jupitus and Ray Winstone via the runaway success of TV shows like The Only Way is Essex and Gavin and Stacey, Essex is now the most iconic county in the UK and the essence of Essex is everywhere. But there's more to the county than stereotypes as Brentwood reared Pete May discovers when he takes an eye opening journey through the Essex tundra. Along the way May finds bluebells in Billericay, sculpture in Harlow, Hollywood style signs on the A127, below sea level life in Canvey Island and endless chip shops and asks the vital question: is the only way Essex or is there maybe another one?
