Speech-making Richard Dennis Teall Hollister, 1920      Smartphone-based Learning in the Japanese ESL Classroom Nicolas Gromik, 2017-05-11. Mobile Assisted Learning emerged from Computer Assisted Learning, with researchers extending computer-based activities to mobile platforms but differs from the latter in many ways. First, it is obviously mobile, but second, smartphones have converged many features and software that were previously accessible through a range of digital tools. Thirdly, Mobile Assisted Learning allows interaction with social media. Educators are well advised to consider smartphone video-based learning and to understand the many possibilities it affords. This book provides an account of the integration of smartphone video recording in the language classroom. It outlines and reports on the implementation process and the practical issues related to this learning method. Using simple digital storytelling and mini-documentary filmmaking, students are able to learn to speak in a foreign language while at the same time exploring and experimenting with video production. As such, this book will take readers on a journey through various educational concepts that enhance the formulation of a smartphone-based learning approach, as well as suggesting that digital video production is not just a task; it is a 21st-century skill necessary for all academics and learners.
