Fighting Malaria on the River Kwai Jonathan R.C. Green, 2019-06-25 During World War II 12 000 Allied prisoners of war died while constructing a bridge over the river Kwai in western Thailand and then a railway through the thick jungles of the Kwai Valley all the way to Burma Decades later during the Vietnam War Jonathan R C Green enlisted as a medic in the U S Army expecting to take care of wounded Americans and Asians but was kept in a Stateside assignment instead much to his frustration So shortly before his enlistment expired he applied for the Peace Corps and asked to serve in Southeast Asia Six weeks after leaving the Army he arrived in Thailand as a Peace Corps Volunteer His job assignment was to fight malaria by controlling the mosquito populations in remote jungle villages in the valley of the infamous River Kwai Besides the hazards posed by snakes scorpions and centipedes in the jungle he ran the risk of contracting malaria dengue fever and other mosquito borne diseases while suffering severe bouts of dysentery He often had to live on a monotonous diet of rice bamboo shoots and hot sauce three times a day with the only reasonably safe drinking water coming from rain barrels teeming with mosquito larvae While becoming accustomed to a rugged lifestyle in the jungle he had to quickly learn a complex language and exotic culture An inadvertent misstep in manners could have damaged his credibility and hence the outcome of his undertaking as badly as catching the disease he was supposed to be fighting      Multilinguals'

Verbalisation and Perception of Emotions Pia Resnik, 2018-06-18 This book investigates the interplay of language emotion and gender in a multilingual context and provides rich insights into the complexities of bilingualism and the field of emotion research as well as the intersection of both Combining quantitative and qualitative analyses of data the book examines multilinguals verbalisation and perception of emotions in their first language and English their second language L2 The research looks at crosslinguistic intercultural and gender based differences thereby highlighting the challenges faced by multilinguals in this context and the potential risks of miscommunication and misinterpretation Results support the call for a change of paradigm towards a holistic approach to multilingualism and emotion research and highlight the similarities and differences in L2 users of English when expressing their emotions in the different languages The book will appeal to anyone interested in research on emotions in the context of bi multilingualism or second language acquisition as well as those teaching or learning multiple languages      The Notebooks Chutima T., Warren F., Alan N., 2013-04 The Notebooks is a first shot at filling a void both in content and methodology helping native English speakers convey what s on their mind Our approach is different Rather than teaching Thai words we start with English terms natural language phrases and expressions which foreigners would like to know how to say with an equivalent register and mood in Thai So we reverse engineer the process Before this book you probably couldn t say things like You ain t got the juice That s a slammin shirt or He s totally clueless in Thai Now you not only can but you ll Kick ass also in these pages at taking your native English phrases right into Thai equivalents
